$866,327 Yet to Be Given to Attain Goal Set by Next Monday.

MRS. HOOVER LAUDS EFFORT AT MEETING

First Lady Receives Ovation; Division Chiefs Report Work's Progress.

The Community Chest faces the task of raising $866,327.23 by next Monday night, if it is to reach its goal of $2,601,000 and close the campaign on schedule.

This figure was announced yesterday following the first report meeting of the metropolitan and group solicitation units at the Willard Hotel, at which contributions of $27,509.70 were announced.

Under the new system of reporting, whereby gifts received by the special gifts unit are allocated to the group in which they originated, the governmental unit has $997,163.07; there has been allocated to the group solicitation unit $292,000 from the special gifts unit, and to the metropolitan unit $418,000 from the special gifts unit, a total of $1,707,163.07. Add to this the $27,509.70 reported yesterday, which gives a total of $1,734,672.77, which, subtracted from the total goal of $2,601,000, leaves $866,327.23 to be raised before the campaign closes Monday night.

Speaking extemporaneously at the report meeting at the Willard yesterday, Mrs. Herbert Hoover electrified the large audience of metropolitan and group solicitation unit workers by predicting that they would raise the additional amount necessary to complete the Chest budget.

Mrs. Hoover Gets Ovation.

Mrs. Hoover was escorted to the head table at the meeting by Mrs. John Jay O'Connor, chairman of the information unit; John Poe, president of the Chest, and Edward F. Colladay, chairman of the Chest campaign committee. Mr. Colladay introduced Mrs. Hoover, who was greeted by a storm of applause from a standing audience when she arose and by a veritable ovation when she concluded her talk.

"I am as glad to be at the opening meeting as I would be to attend your final meeting next week when I am sure that you will have obtained the necessary increased gifts to complete your goal," Mrs. Hoover said. "That is the kind of spirit you have and the kind of a community in which you are working."

The "First Lady" urged that the workers continue after the campaign looking for ways in which the money can best be spent.

"Times are different from what they have been," she said, "and we must look around for the people who need aid. Many are in need but hesitate to go to a welfare agency for relief, not realizing that it requires the highest type of courage to ask for help. They hesitate to seek charity, but would welcome something in the form of a loan.

Must Find Needy, and Help.

"We must find these people and help them, not alone for the good that will be done now, but for the future of the Chest, for these people

Policeman Drowns In Tragedy on Bay

R. L. Coffren, Stationed Downtown, Dies as 3 Friends Are Saved.

Private Robert L. Coffren, 34-year-old traffic policeman, known to hundreds of Government workers who daily passed his post at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue, was drowned last night while on a fishing trip near Occoquan Bay, on the Chesapeake. With him were two other Washington policemen and a Washington business man, whose name had not been learned early today.

Coffren, who lived at 1372 Morse street northeast with his wife, Julia Coffren, and two young children, left yesterday for a short fishing trip to Neabsco Creek, near the bay. He was accompanied by Privates P. M. Cox and Lester Collins, of the First Precinct, and also by the business man.

Shortly after midnight today, police headquarters was notified that the boat from which four men were fishing had gone down while in midcreek. All reached shore except Coffren, who went down and was not seen again, it was reported.

3 Policemen Imprisoned In Beating of Diplomat

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Three policemen were sentenced today to one year each in prison and to pay heavy fines upon their conviction for participation in the beating last week of Addison E. Southard, the United States Minister.

Mr. Southard reported, after the incident, that his automobile, driven by his chauffeur, had slightly injured a native woman. A traffic policeman hauled the chauffeur out and struck him, and when Mr. Southard intervened he too was mauled.

Navy Group in House Discards Vinson Bill

Tax on Oil Imports to Boost Revenue Is Considered.

The House ways and means committee, engaged in framing a tax bill designed to help meet the Treasury deficit, is considering a tax on oil imports.

One cent a gallon tax on imported oil is the basis of the new scheme which is understood to have been agreed on by the Democratic members of the committee after consultation with several of their Republican colleagues. It is estimated that this would raise $50,000,000 in revenue the next year.

Although members of the committee said no decision had been reached on the question, Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, said last night the plan was under consideration as one of the possible provisions of the Democratic tax revision measure.

The proposal is expected to result

(Associated Press.)

Determined to make the Government live within its income, the House yesterday took three lusty whacks at proposals for spending Federal money.

A $6,000,000 slice was carved from the annual supply bill for the Interior Department, $60,000 was eliminated from an appropriation to meet the expenses of the Geneva arms conference delegation, and the naval committee decided, for reasons of economy, not to seek enactment of a bill to construct $600,000,000 worth of new warships that it just previously had approved unanimously.

By reducing the Interior Department bill to $50,431,000 the appropriations committee brought the total of money slashed from budget estimates on the three supply bills it has handled to more than $31,000,000.

The President had asked for $450,000

HIGHER GAS PROFIT MAY REDUCE RATES

Company Officials Confer in Chicago and New York as Increase Is Shown.

Officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. had nothing to say last night as to whether or not they intend to announce any rate reductions following the announcement that People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech plans to call the attention of the Public Utilities Commission to figures which show that the two local gas companies earned 10.27 per cent profit during the first eleven months of last year.

The local officials were understood, however, to be thrashing out the matter with higher officials in New York and Chicago. Just when an announcement, if any, may be made is conjectural.

Mr. Keech, meanwhile, plans to submit his compilation to the commission with a petition for a general reduction in gas rates. He intends to point out that profits of the two companies amounted to $507,000 up to December last year, or 36 per cent more than the net revenue for the preceding year, although in October, 1930, the rates were reduced so as to reduce the company's income by $400,000.

This increase in revenue is attributed to the widespread use of new services, particularly gas for heating purposes. The Washington Gas Light Co. experienced an increase of 44 per cent in business for the 11 months, whereas the Georgetown Gas Light Co. suffered a loss of 11 per cent in revenue.

So far Mr. Keech has worked out no proposed schedule for rate reduction though he plans to do this later unless the company voluntarily submits a schedule.

Conferences have been held between Mr. Keech and Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the company, relative to his tabulations, but so far nothing definite has come of them.

George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., is understood to be favorable to rate reductions, but he has not yet persuaded the Central Public Service Corporation officials to make the move.

Mrs. Ilsley's Estate Is Valued at $200,000

Milwaukee, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—An estate valued at more than $200,000 was listed in the will of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, who with her maid was slain January 13 on her estate at Middleburg, Va. The document was admitted to probate today. Mrs. Ilsley was the widow of Spencer Ilsley, former Milwaukee banker.

Mrs. Ilsley left cash bequests of $25,000 each to her mother, Mrs. Amelia Boeing; her father, Julius W., Fargo, N. Dak., and two brothers, John K. and Paul Boeing, New York. Her Middleburg estate was to be sold.

EDDIE STINSON DYING AFTER PLANE CRASH

Chicago Mishap First Serious One to Befall Airman; 3 Others Injured.

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The condition of Eddie Stinson, noted aviator who suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries when his airplane crashed on a public parks golf course early this evening, was reported as hopeless shortly before midnight at the Illinois Central Hospital. Doctors said they expected his death momentarily.

The plane, a huge Stinson-Detroiter, brought here late today from the Stinson plant at Wayne, Mich., developed motor trouble while over Lake Michigan, a short distance off shore, and struck a flagpole, shearing off the right wing, when Stinson endeavored to maneuver it to a safe landing on the park golf course.

By a strange trick of fate Stinson, whose career was replete with perilous flying exploits during the pioneering stage of aviation, met his first serious accident in an era when the hazards of flying had been reduced to a minimum.

Stinson was taught to fly by his elder sister, Kathering, and began his flying career at the old Kinloch Field in St. Louis, where he obtained a position as test pilot on "Jenny"

Debt Conversion Looms in Britain

Would Result in Savings in Interest Payments and Aid Taxpayers.

London (Tuesday), Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The financial editor of the London Express said today he understood a gigantic scheme was being considered for the conversion of all Great Britain's national debt.

The proposed conversion of the debt into new securities would result in savings in interest payments equivalent to about 18 pence (nominally 36 cents) of income tax, he said, and the greater part of this would be passed on to the taxpayers.

While the average yield of government securities, which now is just under 5 per cent, probably would be reduced to 3 per cent, the new proposal might mean an actual increase in the net yield, owing to the tax reductions. The editor said the improvement in the national credit would be so great that market value of government securities would be maintained.

Miss Pearl McCall Praises Post Essay Contest as Aid

Declares Every Student Eligible Should Write George Washington Story If Only for Mental Training and Patriotic Inspiration; Wishes Entrants Success.

"I congratulate The Washington Post most heartily on its public spirit in inaugurating The Post Washington Essay Contest, in which $1,000 in cash prizes is to be distributed to winners among the school children of Washington and nearby territory in Virginia and Maryland," declared Miss Pearl McCall, assistant United States attorney, yesterday, in commenting on the contest.

"The Post Essay Contest is doing far more than enabling our young people to win prizes. Through their study of the character of George Washington they are learning the value of character and right living," she continued. "The ethics of successful citizenship can be taught to the young splendidly through the examples of outstanding men and women who have served in their day and generation. George Washington for all time is the leading exemplar of the spirit of America. That spirit of pioneer endeavor, of achievement, of fair play to all men and fidelity to God and country has given to this country its leading place among the nations of the world.

"I have read carefully all that has been printed about The Post Washington Essay Contest and I think every student eligible to compete should enter an essay if for no other reason than the mental training and the patriotic inspiration such participation in the contest would mean to him. The public, private and parochial schools which are joining whole-heartedly in the contest are

CHINA ACCEPTS HER DEMANDS, JAPAN REPORTS

RETURN OF CHIANG APPEARS IMMINENT

Tokyo May Issue New Note Seeking Dissolution of "Anti" Societies.

Shanghai, China (Tuesday) Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Japanese today said Chinese officials had accepted all Japan's demands for redress, growing out of recent anti-Japanese disorders, except that for the dissolution of anti-Japanese societies.

Lo Wen Kan, head of the judicial department of the National government, was appointed acting foreign minister of China at Nanking today to succeed Eugene Chen, who resigned yesterday. Lo formerly was minister of foreign affairs in the government at Pieping.

The return of Chiang Kai-shek, former President of China, to power in the National government appeared imminent.

The government accepted the resignation of Eugene Chen as foreign minister and was considering that of of Sun Fo, who offered to step out as chairman of the executive yuan, which is equivalent to the post of premier.

Other Resignations Due.

Other resignations we expected and it appeared that the Cantonese regime, which replaced the former Nanking government, was rapidly crumbling.

Chiang Kai-Shek maintained he did not desire to reenter the government, but it was expected that he again would take up his former duties when the time was ripe. The two leading members of the Nanking government—Sun Fo and Chen, American-educated foreign minister—resigned their posts in protest against the refusal of their colleagues to join in a strong anti-Japanese policy.

The Japanese demands, which were said to have been accepted, called for an apology from the mayor, as well as the arrest and punishment of Chinese responsible for recent clashes and compensation for medical expenses of Japanese who were injured in the encounter.

Association Abolition.

Japanese Consul General Murai was reported to be planning again to inform Mayor Wu Teh-Chen that Japan required acceptance of the demand for dissolution of the Chinese association which has supported a

Town Threatened In $75,000 Oil Fire

Tanks Containing 30,000 Gallons Explode; Creek Is Set Aflame.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—An overflow of fuel oil, ignited by a spark or a cigarette, turned Peaceful Creek into a river of flame here late today and threatened the entire town before its proress was blocked. The loss was estimated at $75,000.

Three 10,000-gallon tanks exploded at the plant of the Walker Brothers, agents for Aetna and Texaco oil; a tobacco warehouse, a mail order company's warehouse and the Standard Oil Company's building, but not its tanks were destroyed. The Southern Railway station and other buildings were damaged.

The stream of fire burst over the first dam hastily erected to block its progress through the town. A second dam stopped the burning oil and local firemen, aided by equipment from Lexington and Danville, got control. The flames spread to the Negro settlement and burned a half dozen small cottages. The chief danger was that the Standard Oil Company's four fuel oil tanks, holding in all approximately 40,000 gallons, would catch fire, but the firemen managed to save them.

Paderewski Given Rousing Ovation at Charity Recital

Paderewski, that's all!

At 20 minutes past 11 o'clock last night an employe of Constitution Hall stalked across the stage and firmly closed down the grand piano on which Ignace Jan Paderewski had just played four encores and bowed his thanks to a dozen more ovations. The lights began to dim and a huge audience headed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover reluctantly filed out, most of them applauding as they went.

From the moment the immense audience, which filled every box and seat in Constitution Hall at the concert given by Paderewski for the benefit of the Nation's unemployed had risen to its feet spontaneously at the beginning of the concert to greet the premier pianist of the world, to his last encore every number played was the signal for an ovation. Such an ovation for enthusiasm and durance has never been seen in Washington before. It was estimated that more than $10,000 was realized.

All society was there, every music lover who could get a seat and hundreds of piano teachers and students had assembled for the gala concert of a gala season of great music. The hall was donated by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

SENATE PASSES HALF BILLION AS CREDIT CAPITAL

Adds Minor Amendment, Due to Get Approval of House Today.

LAND BANK MONEYS ASKED BY PRESIDENT

Jones and Couch, of South, Are Named Directors on Agency's Board.

(Associated Press.)

The financial sinews of the colossal Reconstruction Finance Corporation took firmer shape yesterday with senatorial approval of $500,000,000 capital for its coffers.

Without a record vote, the chamber gave its sanction to the appropriation already granted by the House, but added a minor amendment which must be approved by the latter before congressional action is completed.

This change, providing for clerical services in administering the $50,000,000 farm loan provision, probably will be accepted by the House today, and the bill will be sent to the White House.

Repeated attempts to limit the salaries paid by institutions borrowing from the gigantic credit agency were rejected in Senate by 2-to-1 votes.

Hoover Asks Appropriation.

Further to speed along his economic program, President Hoover sent to the House late yesterday a request for appropriation of $125,000,000 for additional capital for Federal land banks, agreed to by Congress last week.

Meanwhile, rumblings of opposition to Harvey C. Couch, of Pine Bluff, Ark., nominated yesterday by President Hoover as one of the three Democratic directors, rolled beneath the surface of congressional activities, but had not flared into the open.

Assurance he would be confirmed was ready in the sturdy support of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader. The banking committee preferred to take up his name immediately, as well as those of Jesse H. Jones, of Houston, Tex., also appointed yesterday, and of Charles G. Dawes, named president of the corporation.

Quick Approval Expected.

No murmur of hostility has been heard against Jones or Dawes. Quick approval of each is expected, with all tokens pointing toward the first loans being on their way within two weeks.

Relief for depositors in closed banks became of primary interest yesterday to the administration, along with discussion of who will be the third Democratic director and the last officer to be named to the board of the Reconstruction Corporation.

A day or two was expected to elapse before the choice is made. The Democratic leaders are conferring upon possible nominees, and among the names prominently mentioned are Gerald Hughes, Denver attorney, and W. S. Coad, of Omaha.

The President is believed turning to the Far West or Northwest for his selection. It is understood that Garret W. McEnerney, San Francisco lawyer, was offered the post, but declined, bringing about the delay.

Preparations Being Made.

Emphatic token of the speed with which the Government is driving ahead is found in preparations to house the corporation in the old Department of Commerce building, where workers are painting and cleaning up space for its officers and staff.

Within two weeks the corporation's funds are expected to be starting on

Archbishop Disappears After Mexican Arrest

Mexico City, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The Archbishop of Guadalajara, Francisco Orozco y Jimenez, was detained and sent to an unrevealed destination by airplane today, advices received here reported. His relatives first announced his disappearance and Archbishop Pascual Diaz, papal nuncio, confirmed the report. The latter said he had no further information, but was making inquiries.

During the religious troubles of 1926-1929 Archbishop Orozco went into hiding and was sought without success by the government. He reappeared after the church-state settlement.

Smith Can Win, Says Long, Now in Senate

Gov. Roosevelt Would Lose, He Declares; Takes Oath.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Huey Long, erstwhile traveling salesman who, at the age of 38, is the political dictator of Louisiana, was sworn in as a United States senator a few minutes after noon yesterday. By the time the gavel had fallen for adjournment, he was thoroughly at home—as nonchalant as any veteran in the chamber. Indeed, he had reached the back-slapping stage.

In making his belated debut in the "greatest deliberative body in the world," Long violated a rule and ignored a custom.

He walked into the chamber with a lighted cigar and he failed to ask his colleague from Louisiana—Senator Edwin S. Broussard—to escort him to the Vice President's rostrum for the swearing-in ceremony.

FEDERAL PAY SLASH ATTACKED BY BYRNS

House Committee's Chairman Assails Simmons Bill.

Another attack on Federal personnel was repulsed by Chairman Joseph W. Byrns of the House appropriations committee yesterday when he took the floor in opposition to the Simmons proposal to cut $495,000 in salaries from agriculture appropriations.

The issue will be put to a test today when Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, moves to recommit the bill, instructin the committee to make the reductions.

Chairman Byrns charged the Simmons proposal would "cripple" governmental activities and put many necessary bureaus "out of business." If the motion goes through, every Government department in Washington will be hit, said the appropriations chairman.

At the same time, Byrns' committee reported an Interior Department supply bill prohibiting the filling of any vacancies in the department except by the order of President Hoover and disallowing any increases in salaries. The provision was identical with the precedent set in the agriculture bill.

Mr. Byrns, in his retort to Mr. Simmons, pointed out that this limitation, allowing for a personnel turnover of 3 to 4 per cent, would take care of all necessary cuts in staff. He declared the Simmons project would

Boston, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—President Hoover tonight was ranked by Ernest L. Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, as "head and shoulders above "all other aspirants for the presidential nomination.

Jahncke told the annual meeting of the Republican Club of Massachusetts that President Hoover's leadership against the "forces of depression" had been "colossal." He characterized him as one of the greatest Presidents in the history of the Nation and as probably the "best equipped man we could possibly have had in the White House to meet this crisis."

"We Republicans," said Jahncke, "face the verdict of the American people with every confidence of a renewed assertion of faith in Herbert Hoover and the Republican party."

Jahncke's address was a vigorous commendation of the Hoover administration, making especial reference to the "unique" economic and credit program submitted to Congress by the President. He reviewed the steps taken by President Hoover in behalf of the unemployed and industry and cited the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as one of the outstanding achievements of the administration.

Democratic attacks upon President Hoover in which he was charged with responsibility for the economic distress were labeled by Jahncke as "unjust and unreasonable." He asked "What do the Democratic leaders propose to do that has not been anticipated by the President?"

Looking to the approaching presidential campaign, Jahncke said the Democratic party is, "as it has been for 70 years, the party of opposition, of criticism and fault-finding with out constructive ideas and without constructive leadership."

1,000 Are Reported Slain; Revolt in Salvador Wanes

Men in Aristocratic Families, Given Arms, Patrol Streets to Forestall Further Red Attacks; Four U. S. and Canadian Destroyers Arrive.

(Associated Press.)

The tiny Republic of El Salvador's so-called Communist revolt was understood last night to be on the wane with the arrival of four American and Canadian destroyers to protect the lives and property of foreign citizens.

The New York Sun said unconfirmed dispatches told of the killing over the week-end of 1,000 or more persons.

Airplane travelers arriving at Mexico City said they had heard that a revolutionary firing squad executed 26 minor officials and sympathizers of the provisional government of Gen. Max Imiliano Martinez.

Their accounts, also unverified, said a former aid of Augustin Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader, had led the Salvadorean uprising after having been discharged by Sandino for radical tendencies.

In the capital city of San Salvador the male members of aristocratic families, both native and foreign, were provided with arms and patrolled the streets to forestall any additional radical attacks.

The Navy Department in Washington was advised that the destroyers Philip and Wicks, with 59 Marines aboard, had reached the port of Acajutla and that the cruiser Rochester would arrive tomorrow night. The Marines will be landed if necessary.

Prime Minister Richard Bennett revealed in Ottawa that the destroyers Skeena and Vancouver were standing by at the same port with the purpose of exercising a "beneficial effect in safeguarding the life and property" of Canadian citizens.

LAVAL ADVISES DEBT SOLUTION WITHOUT U. S.

PLAN LIKELY TO WIN SUPPORT IN ENGLAND

Effort Made to Settle Problem in Europe as Suggested by America.

Paris, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval proposed a temporary plan today for a short moratorium on Germany's reparations payments, to be followed by an effort to solve the problem without calling for American aid.

His suggestion was made in a conversation with Lord Tyrrell, British Ambassador. It would call for a moratorium on reparations until after the American elections. The moratorium would expire before December 15, when the next French payment to the United States is due.

After the French elections in May, and before expiration of the new moratorium, a conference would be called at Lausanne or elsewhere to negotiate a permanent agreement. Such a plan would be in line with the American attitude that Germany's reparations creditors agree among themselves before the question of adjusting war debts is broached.

Payments to World Bank.

Payment of unconditional reparations installments would be made to the World Bank at Basel, and loaned back to Germany as under the present Hoover moratorium, which expires next June 30. It was understood the premier suggested that France and Great Britain try to reach an agreement at the expiration of the proposed new moratorium as to the amount Germany is to pay.

The proposal was regarded here as a step toward an interview between Premier Laval and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain. An answer was awaited from London tonight.

The French cabinet will meet tomorrow to go over the reparations situation, with the foreign office believing that the interview between the heads of the French and British governments could be held within a short time and a provisional arrangement made for putting the reparations question strictly upon a European basis.

England's Approval Expected.

London, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The French plan for temporary settlement of the reparations problem by granting a new moratorium for a short period on German payments at the end of the Hoover holiday was expected tonight to be favorably received here.

The British government has been urging some such short moratorium after the expiration of the Hoover holiday.

If cooperation is obtained from Germany, which has urged a permanent settlement based on its declared inability to pay reparations any longer, it was thought that the postponed international debts conference, which was to have met at Lausanne today, might still be held.

Senate Fight Near Over Buffalo Post

Bradley Refuses to Quit as County Chairman to Be Collector.

(Associated Press.)

Fred Bradley, of Buffalo, sent word yesterday to Senate leaders that he intended to keep his post as Republican county chairman and fight it out for confirmation as collector of customs.

The word was given to Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, the chairman of the subcommittee considering Bradley's nomination for reappointment.

Some members of the subcommittee have insisted that Bradley resign his political post. His refusal was accepted as notice of a fight in the Senate over confirmation.

TEN PER CENT RAIL PAY CUT LIKELY TODAY

1,900,000 Workers to Be Affected When Order Comes.

SIX-HOUR DAY HOPE OF MEN SHATTERED

Willard Says "I Don't See What Else We Can Do;" Labor Chief Hopes.

Chicago, Jan. 25 (U.P.).—A general 10 per cent wage reduction for America's 1,900,000 railroad men is almost certain to be announced tomorrow. Only a last-minute upset at the unprecedented two weeks' conference here between railway labor and capital can postpone lower salaries for the men who run the Nation's trains.

While President Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio, and eight other railway executives literally paced the floor, the heads of 21 unions considered far into the night the "final word" that Willard and his conferees had drawn up.

It was a repetition in slightly different phraseology of the railways' previous demand for a 10 per cent wage deduction to last for one year. It promised to see that the roads enter into a stabilized employment program as far as is practicable and it flatly refused consideration of the union's hope for a six-hour working day.

Labor Leaders' Huge Task.

Genial "Uncle Dan" Willard insisted that the statement was not delivered in a take-it-or-leave-it spirit. But in the same breath he added:

"I don't see what else we can do."

David Robertson, locomotive engineer, turned union leader, seemed almost glum. To him fell the almost Herculean task of molding scores of divergent opinions into one, so that he could come to the Chicago meeting empowered to negotiate the all-important wage question to a conclusion. Depressed though he seemed, he smoothed his red necktie, ran a nervous finger through his thinning white hair, and announced:

"I still can smile. I hope I always can."

Stock Market Influenced.

So important is the conference considered it has influenced America's stock and bond markets almost daily since it started. Robertson and Willard have been deluged with telegrams from financiers, cranks and politicians demanding what they are doing and telling them how to do it.

The 10 per cent deduction is intended to save the steam transportation lines about $250,000,000 a year. They will get $100,000,000 more from recent freight rate increases. They hope the $350,000,000 will enable them to meet fixed charges. They trust that there will be millions left over so that they may rehabilitate their run-down equipment and hire a large percentage of their 500,000 jobless workers.

They believe the lowered wages will lead the country back to normalcy. And they earnestly expect that by the end of the year business will be so much better generally that pay may be returned to its present levels.

Reclamation Unit Accused by Oddie

(Associated Press.)

Reclamation Bureau officials were charged yesterday by Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, with being "guilty of almost criminal neglect and mismanagement." He made this statement before the Senate irrigation committee, which is holding hearings on a bill by Senator Thomas (Republican), Idaho, to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to grant a moratorium on payments for reclamation construction projects.

Saying the farmers of his section "have had the worst drought that the West has ever known," Oddie contended a three-year moratorium was needed.

"In addition," he continued, "we have suffered from governmental blunders and Government neglect to a degree that I can not begin to express in the time available. Reclamation Bureau officials have been guilty of almost criminal neglect and mismanagement. It is a matter of record."

Ahern Pleads Guilty; Faces Sentence Feb. 6

Patrick J. Ahern and three other persons arrested by out-of-town prohibition agents early this month in a raid on a Connecticut avenue place, yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of possession of liquor. The others were H. W. Wood, J. H. Hall and J. C. Kelly, the latter two being colored waiters.

In addition, Ahern entered a plea of guilty to maintaining a nuisance. Judge Ralph Given will pronounce sentence February 6.

U. S. Dry Agents Arrest 9 in 2 New York Raids

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Federal prohibition agents today raided a Manhattan club, and hat was described as a "cleaning plant" in Rockland County, seizing 100 bottles of choice liquor, 80 gallons of denatured alcohol and 600 gallons of the unfinished product.

The club, the Motion Picture Club of New York, on Broadway, contained a gymnasium, indoor golf course and lounge, but no bar. Nine employes were arrested after .00 bottles of liquor were found. The "cleaning plant" was described as of 1,100-gallon capacity.

FIRST LADY ATTENDS CHEST FUNCTION

Harris & Ewing.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover showed her interest in Washington's charities yesterday by attending the Community Chest luncheon at the Willard Hotel as the guest of Mrs. J. J. O'Connor. With Mrs. Hoover are John Poole, left, president of the Community Chest, and Edward F. Colladay, chairman of the campaign committee.

MILLS DECRIES FEAR IN COUNTRY'S CRISIS

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The psychology of fear rather than economic conditions, Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, said tonight, has played the predominant part in retarding economic recovery in America since October.

He described the Hoover Reconstruction Finance Corporation as the best instrument he knew to lift such fear.

"This fear," he told the American Acceptance Council at its annual meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, "has been written in large letters at every step of the downward course during the last three months."

He added that it "should play no part in American economic life."

He called upon the country in general, and bankers in particular, to help remedy the situation by eliminating such psychology, and added:

"The outstanding fact today is that deflation has proceeded much too far."

He said this was true even considering "that undoubtedly adjustments in particular fields remain to be made; that governmental expenditures, national, State and local, are altogether too high; that costs in a number of industries must be further reduced, and that adjustments of this sort must continue to be made."

"The deflation," he continued, "now has reached a point where it feeds upon itself and where forces working for economic recovery are nullified by the psychological momentum of the downward movement."

He said banks had been destroying their own deposits by attempting to make themselves more liquid.

The increase in the number of the banks in the country from 10,000 in 1900 to 30,000 in 1920 "was a source of weakness rather than strength," he said.

"While there has been an enormous decline in deposits in New York City banks," he continued, "it is the banks outside of New York City that have suffered most severely. The pressure upon them has in turn reacted most unfavorably on industry and commerce. * * *

"If only this process can be arrested and the psychology of fear dispelled, there is real ground for the belief that the foundation is now sufficiently firm to justify our vigorously addressing ourselves to the task of reconstruction."

REVOLT IN SALVADOR WANES; SHIPS LAND

aristocracy, armed to the teeth, prowled the streets of this capital city tonight to aid their government in stamping out the last vestiges of a so-called Communist insurrection.

On the suggestion of a prominent banker, Rodolfo Duke, adult citizens were equipped with rifles and revolvers and given carte blanche to shoot any Communist on sight. More than 300 sons of the first families, both foreign and native, also were armed and turned loose to snare any radicals still at large.

The country was still under martial law, but the military junta that succeeded former President Arajo remained confident it could deal with insurgents who caused a number of deaths in their forays last week.

Two persons were slain in the town of Colon yesterday and two others, one of them a woman, were wounded by radicals. The municipal building in the town of Salcoatitan was burned and several stores and houses were burned and looted. The prompt arrival of government troops at both these points caused the attackers to flee.

Mexico City, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Airplane travelers from El Salvador said today they had heard that revolutionaries in the uprising there had executed 26 minor officials and sympathizers of the provisional government.

Central Americans here added to the accounts of the rebellion that the Communists of Salvador, who were held responsible for it, were led by Col. Augustin F. Marti, who formerly served in Nicaragua under Augustin Sandino, rebel leader of that country.

Sandino had dismissed Marti, these informants said, because of his aid's "radical tendencies."

The 26 persons who were executed were lined up and shot, according to the accounts. They were supposed to have been supporters of Gen. Maximiliano Martinez, head of the military junta that has ruled in Salvador since the overthrow of former President Arturo Araujo a little more than a month ago.

$27,510 IS REPORTED IN DAY'S CHEST DRIVE

now needing help will, if properly aided, be giving to the Chest in another year or two."

Mrs. Hoover, who takes a great interest in social work, closed her talk by expressing the hope that "all of us will be doing this work for the next few months."

Thomas E. Campbell, chairman of the Governmental Unit, spoke briefly of the work of the departments and said that "their hearts are with you in the task ahead." He said that his unit had gone over the top for its quota of approximately $1,000,000, a record, Chairman Colladay asserted, "that Washington must match."

Elwood Street, director of the Chest, called attention to changes in the method of reporting, and also called particular attention to the "Buy in Washington" policy of the Chest and its member organizations, the funds so disbursed including not only the money contributed to the agencies by the Chest, but their earnings and other incomes as well, making a total of about $5,500,000 spent by these organizations in the Capital annually.

Legion's Support Pledged.

F. G. Frazier, department commander of the American Legion, voiced the support of the legion for the Community Chest. He told how the membership responded for service in 1917 and said that they are ready to respond to the present emergency.

"The American Legion knows what the Community Chest means to Washington," he said. "We see the need for aid increasing daily and know that but for the Chest, it would not be met." He thanked the Chest for the work given veterans through the committee of employment program for "made" work.

Chairman Colladay then called on the various units for their reports.

H. L. Rust, chairman of the metropolitan unit, spoke glowingly of the work of the three "flying squadrons," an innovation this year, headed by Max Weyl, Mrs. Mark Plavnick and Hyman Goldstein. These "squadrons" go any place in the metropolitan unit where help is needed.

Other Officials Report.

The three regional chairmen of the metropolitan and the division chiefs of the group solicitation unit, of which Lloyd B. Wilson is chairman, then reported the day's contributions.

"Reports at the first meeting should not be discouraging," Elwood Street, director of the Chest, said last night. "The workers had only a half day and they had hardly time to get started. I look for a much better report Tuesday and increasingly better reports as the week goes on."

Mr. Street also called attention to the new books of tickets for use of Community Chest subscribers when approached by mendicants and which provide 24-hour service, applicants for aid being sent to the Council of Social Agencies, 1418 I street northwest, until 5 o'clock, and after that to the Travelers' Aid Society's desk at Union Station.

Mr. Street yesterday received from H. C. Phillips, corresponding secretary of the Federation of Citizens Associations, a letter heartily indorsing the chest on behalf of the federation.

Representative Mary Norton, chairman of the House District committee, will be guest of honor at today's Community Chest report meeting, at the Willard. Mrs. Norton will be received by Mrs. John Jay O'Connor, chairman of the information unit, and will be met on the tenth floor by President John Poole and Campaign Chairman Edward F. Colladay and escorted to a seat at the head table.

Sheriff Ordered To Explain Charge

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt wants an explanation not later than Monday from Thomas M. Farley, Democratic sheriff of New York County, on charges made against him by the legislative committee investigating New York City affairs.

The governor's counsel wrote Farley to this effect today. The letter was understood to have flatly requested the Tammany Hall member of New York's governmental machine to have his reply to the charges of the committee and its counsel, Samuel Seabury, in the governor's hands by that date.

The charges against Farley, accompanied by Seabury's recommendation for his removal from office, were sent the governor in two letters. The first, sent December 30, listed nine counts which Seabury told Mr. Roosevelt rendered Farley "unfit to longer hold public office." The second communication, on January 19, brought the additional charge that Farley improperly appropriated the interest on public money handled by him.

POSTAL SAVING LIMIT INCREASE IS FOUGHT

Representatives of Bankers' Associations Assail Plan Before House Body.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of the American Bankers Association yesterday opposed legislation to raise the amount you have on deposit in postal savings accounts from $2,500 to $10,000.

Rome C. Stephenson, of South Bend, Ind., a past president of the association, and Thomas B. Paton, of New York, its general counsel, joined in opposition after Frederic A. Tilton, Third Assistant Postmaster General, had testified to a House postoffice subcommittee the measure would bring a billion and a half dollars "out of hiding."

Mr. Tilton estimated this amount is being hoarded because of lack of confidence in private banks. He said if the deposit limit on postal savings were increased the money would go into circulation.

But Mr. Paton disagreed, saying: "It has been stated that the purpose of the bill is to help along banks. Thousands of the banks in the country believe it would hurt them by throwing doubt upon their solvency."

He submitted protests from the Illinois and Minnesota Bankers Associations.

Mr. Stephenson said many small country banks can not now qualify for money deposited in postal savings accounts because they do not have big enough reserves to provide enough collateral on redeposits.

"This legislation," he added, "would result in the closing of hundreds of these smaller country banks, and possibly thousands."

Representative Sinclair and Representative Burtness, North Dakota Republicans, presented protests against the proposed legislation from the North Dakota Bankers Association and banking officials in that State.

Alien Bill Would Let In Conscientious Objectors

(Associated Press.)

A bill to permit naturalization of alien conscientious objectors was introduced yesterday by Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico.

He said it was intended to prevent the barring of such persons as Douglas C. MacIntosh, professor in the Yale divinity school; and Marie Bland, war nurse, Canadians whom the Supreme Court ruled were not entitled to citizenship because they would not take an unqualified oath to bear arms in case of war.

1,700 Men Resume Work.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Seventeen hundred men returned to work in the West Albany locomotive shops of the New York Central Railroad today. Twelve hundred are in the day shift and 500 on the night shift. The car shops still are closed.

Money Bills Data Received in Senate

(Assoiated Press.)

A report showing that Federal Government construction expenditures of close to $500,000,000 a year are planned for the next six years was received at the Senate yesterday from the Federal Employment Stabilization Board. The report was sent in response to a Senate resolution requesting it.

It showed the following totals in millions of dollars for 1933 and the five years thereafter: 468, 539, 485, 440, 407, 398.

The report is expected to be studied at the Senate from the viewpoint of the desirability of undertaking some of these projects in advance of the time planned, to provide increased employment now.

$3,000,000 Sanitation Bill Passed by Senate

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing $3,000,000 for rural sanitation studies and for medical supplies.

A $2,000,000 appropriation to be expended in the drought-stricken areas for the same purposes was made last session. The new bill, besides calling for a larger sum, does not confine its benefits to drought areas.

Female Juror Bill For Hawaii Pushed

Delegate Says Situation There Now Calls for Change in Law.

(Associated Press.)

Delegate Houston, of Hawaii, yesterday reintroduced his bill passed by the House last session to permit women to serve on juries in the island.

Houston explained that in view of the present situation in Hawaii he felt the time was opportune for the legislation.

Belle Sherwin, president of the League of Women Voters, has called attention to the fact that Mrs. Granville Fortescue, held with three other Americans on charges of slaying a native, would have to face a male jury of varying races, and urged the organic act be changed to permit women to serve on juries.

FILIPINOS AGAIN ASK FULL INDEPENDENCE

(Associated Press.)

Pleas for Philippine independence were heard yesterday on both sides of the Capitol as Theodore Roosevelt prepared to leave Washington to take up his new duties as governor general of the islands.

Before the House insular affairs committee, Speaker Manuel Roxas, of the Philippine Legislature, asked immediate independence. This demand was echoed by Sergio Osmena, acting president of the insular Senate, before the Senate Territories committee.

Col. Roosevelt conferred with White House officials and with Secretary Hurley before leaving for New York, en route to the Philippines. The only comment he had as to his new duties was: "I am going to work."

Meanwhile, the Senate committee decided to start hearings on bills for Philippine independence, beginning February 5.

Chairman Bingham said Secretary Hurley would be called first to give his views on the various measures pending for independence.

The committee last session favorably reported the Hawes-Cutting bill and predictions were freely made that it would recommend independence legislation to the Senate.

Speaker Roxas told the House committee that "the United States has completed its task in the Philippines."

"We have reached the peak of our national development possible under the guidance of America," he added. "We have achieved stability of government, our finances are sound, and public order is being maintained by Filipinos at the highest possible efficiency."

5 MORE MEN JAILED IN WATERS MURDER

Police Doubt, However, That They Can Be Definitely Linked to Killing.

Five more Negroes were brought to the Rockville Jail yesterday by police working on the slaying of Horace D. Waters, 79-year-old merchant, of Old Germantown, Md., Wednesday night. Police would not reveal their identities but said that four of the men had been arrested out of the county.

Two were brought from Hagerstown and two others from Cumberland. The fifth man was arrested near Old Germantown. The Hagerstown men were picked up on descriptions broadcast by Montgomery County police and the Cumberland pair was arrested while police were investigating a holdup in that town. The men will be taken before Richard A. Bennett, 68, clerk in the Waters store, who was shot in the wrist by the holdup men, for possible identification.

Police Are Doubtful.

Police are very doubtful that the men will be identified however as Mr. Bennett said at the time of the shooting that he did not believe he could identify the man who did the shooting. A second man who stayed inside the door was not seen by Mr. Bennett. Three colored men who were in the store at the time of the shooting also are very doubtful witnesses. They told police they were too frightened to pay much attention to the men's appearance.

Bud Prater, colored, still is being held in the County Jail on investigation charges. Three strange Negroes seen in the neighborhood of the shooting had been asking for his address. Eighteen persons, one of them a white man, and two Negro women, have been arrested so far in the course of the investigation. All have been released except six.

Baltimore Officers Return.

The two Baltimore detectives who have been aiding the county men, Detective Sergts. William J. Flynn and M. J. Dunn, returned to Baltimore yesterday because of the paucity of leads.

The police, led by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott and Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, have run out every lead they had on the shooting without result, unless one or more of the men now being held can be identified, which is not expected by police.

Unless something unexpected happens, the case probably will go down on the books as unsolved.

27 Farm Market Bodies Meet Today

Cooperative Council to Consider Legislation Before Congress.

The National Cooperative Council, composed of 27 marketing associations that transacted $1,000,000,000 worth of business for 1,000,000 farmers last year, will begin sessions today in the Willard Hotel for a discussion of pending legislation before Congress affecting farmers.

Preliminary meetings were held yesterday at which attorneys and cooperative executives informally discussed State cooperative statutes and pending legislation in Congress. The formal sessions will be started at 10 o'clock today under the direction of C. O. Moser, vice president and secretary of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, who is president of the National Cooperative Council.

In addition to Mr. Moser, the other speaker will be Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, who will discuss social aspects of cooperation. James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board; Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, and A. U. Chaney, general manager of the American Cranberry Exchange, will speak at the afternoon session.

HOOVER TO REVIEW ALEXANDRIA PARADE

Will Attend Washington's Birthday Observance and Stand Near Tavern.

President Hoover will review the Washington's Birthday parade in Alexandria from almost the exact spot occupied by Gen. George Washington on February 11, 1799, the date of his birthday, according to the calendar then in use, when Gen. Washington reviewed his troops the last time before retiring to private life at Mount Vernon, and issued his last military order. Gen. Washington stood on the steps of Gadsby's Tavern, which had been his headquarters earlier. President Hoover will occupy a stand built across Cameron street, at Royal street, approximately 50 feet from where Washington stood.

The George Washington Birthday Association last night adopted a route for the parade, in which it is expected that 10,000 persons will march. It is slightly different from that originally proposed. This route starts at Fairfax and Prince streets, proceeds west on Prince to Fayette, north to King, east to Royal, north to Queen, west to Washington and north to point of disbandment.

Reports submitted last night by the committee chairman indicated that 5,500 troops have already been committed to the parade, exclusive of 21 bands with 1,164 musicians, with as many more to be heard from; one Navy vessel with its crew, three Coast Guard cutters with their crews and National Guardsmen from Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. The Virginia General Assembly, attending in a body, will have a separate stand opposite that of the President and reviewing officers on Cameron street. The stand for the public, which will seat 1,200 persons, will be in front of the City Hall, facing Gadsby's Tavern. The revenue from the nominal charge for the public stand is expected to defray the cost of erection of the others. Tickets will be sold at the stand, and no seats will be reserved.

Kansas Labor Opposes U. S. Judge's Promotion

(Associated Press.)

A protest from the executive council of the Kansas State Federation of Labor against the advancement of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the circuit court, was received yesterday by Chairman Norris of the Senate judiciary committee.

Signed by George Blakeley, president, it was referred to the subcommittee considering the nomination.

But Mr. Simmons was adamant. "There is only one way to effect savings in salaries, and that way is not to appropriate funds," he said.

He declared it is "not fair" to leave Washington Government employes "untouched," when the field force has suffered curtailment.

A second champion of the Federal worker arose in the person of Representative William P. Connery, jr. (Democrat), Massachusetts.

He said he was still "under the impression that President Hoover does not favor cuts in anybody's salary," despite assertions to the contrary by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana.

Mr. Connery charged a pay cut "conspiracy" on the part of big business, which he declared had already slashed wages $12,000,000,000, and will cut more if a Federal precedent is established.

Representative James M. Fitzpatrick (Democrat), New York, asked Simmons if Federal pay reduction would help the farmers, and Mr. Simmons replied he "repeatedly had said it would not."

"I do not favor reductions in salaries," he said. "I ask only elimination of personnel not doing essential work."

Black Offers Amendment.

In the Senate the pay question was raised by Senator Hugo L. Black (Democrat), of Alabama. He sought to amend the reconstruction appropriations bill to prohibit loans to firms paying officials more than $15,000.

He declared "the greatest noise that is being raised for the reduction of salaries of Federal employes, some of whom are receiving barely a living wage," is being made by business interests seeking relief through the reconstruction fund.

Senator Trammell (Democrat), of Florida, and Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, spoke in favor of the Black amendment, the latter declaring some business heads "are getting salaries beyond all reason while they are undertaking to reduce the pay of workers in their own company." The amendment was defeated, 47 to 35.

Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, proposed the recall of loans to any corporation reducing wages of employes receiving less than $2,000. Another amendment substituting $100 a month for the $2,000 a year was rejected.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, then sought to limit any salaries paid officers of the corporation to the $10,000 limit already allowed the directors of the corporation, which was defeated without a record vote.

Senators Borah, Idaho, and Norris, Nebraska, Republican Independents, spoke in favor of the move to bring big corporation executives' salaries down.

Norris Hits Corporations.

Mr. Norris complained that the big corporations were "squandering money on salaries out of all reason and conscience."

Opposing the proposals, Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, said while he commended their purpose, the "best men of the country were needed in these trying times."

Senator Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, also spoke against them. He said they would "take the premium off of experts and perhaps result in putting in less able men in these times of stress."

Earlier yesterday Representative Thomas C. Cochran (Republican), of Pennsylvania, proposed abolition of the Bureau of Efficiency and consolidation of the personnel activities of the Government in two bills introduced in the House.

The latter measure would create an administrator of civil service and transfer to his jurisdiction numerous boards and commissions, including the Civil Service Commission, the Employes Compensation Commission, the Personnel Classification Board and the Civil Service Retirement Bureau. Cochran declared it would accomplish "a large saving in administration."

A delegation of deputy collectors of Internal Revenue yesterday appeared before the House ways and means committee to argue the need for placing deputy collectors under the competitive classified service.

Chairman James W. Collier assured the group the committee can insure their inclusion in the classified service. Hearings were on a bill put forward by Representative Morton D. Hull (Republican), Illinois, to extend classification to deputy collectors.

Missouri Bank Robbed Of $2,500 by Two Men

Ozark, Mo., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Two unmasked men late today held up the Bank of Ozark and escaped with $2,500.

Two men walked into the bank and, after asking that a $10 bill be changed, covered the cashier and his assistant. They then scooped up all available cash and fled south on highway 65.

CONFESSION LETTER ENTERS JUDD TRIAL

Defense Raps Introduction of Testimony That Death Scene Was Museum.

Court House, Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 25 (A.P.). — Defense protestations against introduction of testimony concerning a death scene reputedly made a public museum, "at 10 cents a throw," today blocked State efforts to reveal the alleged motive of Winnie Ruth Judd in the "trunk murder" of two of her friends.

Wan and drooping, dark circles growing under her eyes and a strained ghost of a smile on her lips, Mrs. Judd walked from Judge Howard C. Speakman's congested little courtroom with the State's theory of her reason for killing Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson still a secret.

Lloyd C. Andrews, county attorney, battling determinedly for a verdict which will send the slender woman to the gallows, saw his last bits of circumstantial evidence bog down repeatedly under a storm of defense objections.

Series of Surprises.

In a series of surprise attacks, Paul Schenck and Herman Lewkowitz, defense counsel, early sought to bar police officers' testimony regarding their discoveries at the home of the victims and the alleged slayer in Phoenix.

Schenck's repeated objections halted Detective McCord Harrison's description of what he found the night of October 19 at the Leroi-Samuelson cottage. Then Lewkowitz declared, "If any of this goes in, I want to enter into the record also some newspaper articles—about the public going through the place at 10 cents a throw—there was a sign on the door—I have photographs."

Taken by surprise, the State was unable to avow, upon query by Judge Speakman, that nothing at either the duplex apartment of Mrs. Leroi and Miss Samuelson, or at the home of Mrs. Judd, had been changed or moved before the witnesses he produced had visited them.

Objections Are Overruled.

Three more policemen and a landlord were called, upon defense insistence, to bridge gaps in the circumstantial evidence presented by the State. This done, defense objections in the end were overruled.

Despite the inconvenience and delay, she watched the State's case suffer through the uncompromising tactics of her counsel. It was a trying day in court for Mrs. Judd. She saw resurrected and identified as her own, in the opinion of a handwriting expert, a purported confession, addressed to her husband as "darling" which was recovered from a drain in a Los Angeles department store.

The document at the time of discovery by a plumber late last October was purported to be a detailed account of one of Mrs. Judd's versions of the slaying of Mrs. Leroi and the killing and dismemberment of Miss Samuelson. It also was declared to have told of the transportation of both bodies to Los Angeles in trunks and baggage. The document had not been read to the jury when court recessed for the day.

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER.

He never will get a vote in the District of Columbia, because residents of the District do not have suffrage, but there is no person in the District so unimportant that he, or she, may not have the attention of the Kansan who is chairman of the Senate committee charged with handling District legislation. The chairman of the House District committee may be the unofficial mayor of Washington, but Senator Capper is the legislative supreme court of the voteless people of the National Capital.

No other Senate committee is called on to pass on so many things as is the District of Columbia committee headed by Senator Capper. No other committee of the Senate gives any one who wants to talk such a wide-open opportunity to talk. No other committee of the Senate handles its business so expeditiously. There is no other member of the Senate more willing to accede to the weight of protests voiced by politically impotent residents of the Capital. Senator Capper is unburdened by the weight of his senatorial authority.

But he who mistakes that beneath the seemingly easy-going exterior of Mr. Capper there does not lie much more reckons without knowledge to guide his thought.

Senator Capper is a fervent apostle of agriculture from the agricultural Middle West. He believes that there can be no sound national economic life until such time as agriculture is on a sound basis and therefore he has voted for measures which perhaps he did not believe met the needs but would at least be palliative.

He is one of the most philosophical law makers in Congress. Recognizing his inability to remake the world as he believes it should be revamped, Senator Capper goes calmly along, voting for those things which seem to him to hold the prospect of the desired condition.

A big man, of dominating physical presence? No. A man of such electric personality as to shock an unknown salon into attention? No. A man who must, perforce, hold court at any gathering immediately he steps inside the door? Yes. A man who can talk in the loamy flavor of freshturned furrows? Yes. A man who can talk of reporting in the press the doings of Congress back in the days of the Harrison administration and who since has made a fortune as a publisher? Yes. One of the most envied dinner companions in the whole list of those who are invited to affairs? Yes.

Eskimo Footprint Hunt Is Handicapped by Shoes

By JOHN J. DALY

IN an endeavor to establish the origin of Eskimo culture the Smithsonian Institution has sent a Mr. James A. Ford to Point Barrow, the farthest northern settlement under the American flag.

What the American archaeologist hopes to do is to trace the origin of the Eskimo people and find out how they got that way.

Long before the European discovery of America, Point Barrow was undoubtedly a crossroads of civilization. Migratory parties, people coming south for the winter from northern Siberia to the sunny slopes of Alaska, met and mingled at cozy old Point Barrow.

Though America and the Americans were a long time getting started they went far ahead of the Eskimo in jazz, cabaret life and other forms of entertainment, if not in the arts, literature and the sciences.

• • • •

SO far, all that America knows of the Eskimos may be summed up in this wise: They are the last of a long line of ice lovers. What the Eskimos know or think of Americans is another story.

By securing a series of palm and footprints, the Smithsonian archaeologist, Mr. Ford, who took one of his famous flivvers along with him, hopes to unravel the mystery of 2,000 years. His greatest task lies in getting the footprints. Any time an Eskimo takes off his mushers his feet are frostbitten and he is immediately rendered hors de combat. Wise man of the North, the Eskimo never removes his footgear.

A baby's first pair of mushers, in the North Country, is an inheritance from his father. Once a man-child is shod in the North Country he is shod for life.

• • • •

AS for Southern hospitality, as it is known in this region, there is none in the Land of the Eskimo—nor are there any petting parties, in a sleigh, with the thermometer 101 degrees below zero. It just isn't done; which will make it doubly hard for the American archeologist to get palm prints.

Life in the Land of the Midnight Sun is a serene existence, cool, calm, and uneventful. In this respect it is quite different from Hawaii.

So, the Smithsonian scientist who went to Alaska instead of Hawaii is due for the Congressional Medal of Honor when he comes back home with the history of Thule culture, the word "thule" being Eskimo slang for cool.

TROTZKY IS BLAMED IN SPANISH UPRISING

Bigger Radical Movement Expected Next Month; 1 Killed in Riot.

Madrid (Tuesday), Jan. 26 (A.P.). Minister of Interior Casares y Quiroga said today the extremist movement to establish a proletarian dictatorship in Spain was promoted by Leon Trotzky, former Soviet leader, who now is in exile from Russia at Istanbul, Turkey.

"This movement is not the big one," he said. "That is planned for February, but the government is fully prepared to swamp it with stiff measures."

His statement was made as the movement appeared to have collapsed under the government's policy of stern repression, although serious labor strikes continued at Malaga, Seville and Valencia.

One man was killed and another critically wounded in a gun battle between Syndicalists and civil guards at Malaga. Police said both were professional gunmen who had tried to set free from a patrol wagon prisoners taken in a raid on an extremist labor meeting.

Hundreds of arrests were made throughout Spain, and the police and military forces were in readiness for a spread of the strike movement, although the government was confident it had dominated the situation. Madrid and Barcelona were quiet.

A general strike was declared at Lerida and at Cordoba 4,000 industrial workers walked out. In numerous small towns near Cordoba there was a general strike.

In Valencia extraordinarily heavy military precautions failed to prevent rioting. One civil guard was wounded.

The strikers wrecked and burned a street car and two autobuses. Dispatches from towns near Cordoba indicated a more serious movement. In Monserrat rioters destroyed the sacristy and the library of the parish church.

In Seville, troops occupied the power, water and gas companies to make sure that the service would be continued. Two men in Cadiz attempted to burn the San Antonio Church but failed.

Red Disorders in Lisbon Traced to Moscow Agent

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Recent Communist activity in Portugal, taking the form of daily street demonstrations by the unemployed, was attributed today by police to a man they described as a special agent from Moscow.

He and a woman conspirator were arrested in a hotel room, authorities said, and compromising documents together with large sums of Portuguese, Spanish and American money were seized. Among the papers was pictured as a letter of introduction one pictured as a letter of introduction from Moscow Communists to Portuguese labor leaders.

Princess of Moses Story Held Known

Archeologist Says She Was Hatasu, Ruler of All Egypt.

London, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The identity of the Egyptian princess who found the baby Moses in the bullrushes and reared him to a high place in court circles has been established, in the opinion of Prof. John Garstang, chief of Sir John Marston's archeological expedition in the Near East.

In a letter to Sir Charles, Prof. Garstang names the woman as Hatasu, and describes her as "one of the most masterful princesses in Egyptian history, who during the reign of Thotmes II ruled the whole of the country.

"After the accession of Thotmes III, Princess Hatasu continued to exert wide authority in Egypt and incurred the bitter hatred of the new king. Upon her death in the fourteenth year of his reign he seized all her possessions, and her favorites, including Moses, were forced to flee the country."

Prof. Garstang bases his belief upon a discovery of the tombs of the kings of ancient Jericho, one of which was dated as of the joint reign of Princess Hatasu and Thotmes III. His premise is that since the tombs of a later date failed to show Egyptian influence, the one in question must have been that of Moses' princess.

DARTMOOR GUARDED BY ARMED SOLDIERS

London Hears Friends of Convicts Planned New Attack on Prison.

London (Tuesday), Jan. 26 (A.P.).—A Princetown dispatch to the Daily Mail today said the establishment of a military guard outside Dartmoor Prison had followed reports that friends of the convicts planned to attack the prison.

A machine gun post commanded the main approach to the prison and barracades were thrown up across the roads. Half the soldiers were marched into the prison.

In explanation of the military precautions, the prison governor said that two automobiles had been waiting outside when a convict attempted to escape last week.

The Mail's correspondent said there was evidence that Communists were behind the plot, which had been confirmed by some of the convicts.

The attack was to have been made coincidentally with a renewal of rioting inside the prison early this morning.

Police were active throughout Devon, the newspaper said, in the belief there was a concentration of desperate criminals at Tavistock, Plymouth, Okehampton and other places in that part of the country. The criminals were supposed to have been brought together by some organization with the avowed intention to storm the prison and liberate the prisoners.

A convict with Communist aims was known to be one of the ringleaders, the correspondent said, and had gathered around him a nucleus of desperate men, who led Sunday's riotous revolt in the prison, which is near Princetown.

Details of the plot, as published in the Mail, said it was backed by plenty of money and aimed at a wholesale jail delivery. The details were said to be coming hourly to the notice of the authorities who are investigating Sunday's mutiny.

Garage owners in the neighborhood of the prison reported that a surprising number of strange cars were patroling the roads on the moor before the mutiny. From evidence given by loyal convicts, the newspaper said, the authorities were convinced that the cars were driven by friends of the convicts and were prepared to pick up any who escaped.

ROOSEVELT-SMITH CONFERENCE LOOMS

Governor Announces Plan of 1928 Candidate to Call Upon Him.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Alfred E. Smith, who has maintained silence regarding his own presidential intentions, will meet at Albany soon.

The meeting will be the first between them since Gov. Roosevelt placed himself squarely in the presidential picture Saturday by allowing the Democrats of North Dakota to use his name in their State primary.

Mr. Smith has let drop no word of his attitude toward the Roosevelt candidacy. Neither he nor Mr. Roosevelt has taken official cognizance of often repeated reports of hostility between them.

Roosevelt Tells News.

The news of the expected meeting came from Gov. Roosevelt himself. He said he had heard from Mr. Smith that the latter would be in Albany within the next week or two to visit his daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, and that he planned to call on the governor at that time.

With a pile of congratualtory telegrams regarding his Saturday's announcement on the desk before him, Mr. Roosevelt was asked by newspapermen if he had received one from Mr. Smith. He answered by saying he had not found opportunity to read all of the messages.

Where Each Has Support.

The last Smith-Roosevelt meeting occurred just after the November elections, in which voters approved the State reforestation amendment which had the backing of Roosevelt, but the opposition of Smith. Smith was a guest at the Roosevelt residence in New York. This meeting was taken as a friendly gesture on the part of the governor following his reforestation victory.

The unofficial Smith boom has been pictured as representing the most formidable menace to the efforts to nominate Roosevelt. In political analyses Smith has been given strength in the Northeastern section of the country, while the political "experts" have charted the Roosevelt strength in the Midwest and South.

Italy Plans Higher Title for Her King

May Become Emperor of "Holy Roman Empire" in Near Future.

Rome, Jan. 25 (U.P.).—A movement to raise the title of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to "Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire" is gaining momentum among influential Italian leaders, it was learned tonight.

Extreme Fascists and sworn Monarchists are the outstanding supporters of the proposal, which has for its basis the contention that the king is sovereign of the City of Rome and that he is rightly "King of the Romans," which, in turn, carries with it the title of "Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire."

The movement had its inception in the Lateran treaty of 1929, which ended the long quarrel between the Italian state and the Catholic Church. It was revived by the recent bestowal of knighthood in the Supreme Order of Christ on the king, by Pope Pius XI.

Warburg Funeral To Be Held Today

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The funeral of Paul M. Warburg will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and the banking leader will be buried as he lived—quietly and simply, without fanfare of display or ostentation. An associate said today that the funeral would be strictly private.

Telegrams of condolence poured into the Warburg residence today by the score as news of his death yesterday spread over the world. Mr. Warburg had made his influence a potent factor in international banking and he was also a powerful leader of Judaism.

The death of Mr. Warburg was felt deeply in Wall street where, in the words of J. Herbert Case, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, he was not only a banker, but a "banker-statesman." Poignant touch was added because with his death, three great leaders in the financial world had died within the last year. Besides Mr. Warburg, there were the deaths of George F. Baker, known as the "dean of Wall street bankers" and Dwight W. Morrow, former Morgan partner, who had become one of America's greatest "good will ambassadors."

MRS. E. C. THOMPSON DIES.

Funeral Services Will Be Held Tomorrow in Alexandria.

Mrs. Elizabeth Catherine Thompson, 93 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William T. Penn, 31 Washington terrace, Alexandria. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Penn and B. W. Thompson, of Alexandria; Mrs. Sarah Kennedy, W. W. Thompson and A. L. Thompson, of Herndon, Va. She is also survived by two brothers, a sister, 21 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home, conducted by the Rev. C. Morgan Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church. Burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery.

MRS. ANNIE CATON DIES.

Wife of Alexandrian Was in Her 83d Year; Ill Several Weeks.

Mrs. Annie Greenaway Caton, 82 years old, wife of James R. Caton, died yesterday evening at her home, 212 North Columbus street, Alexandria, after an illness of several weeks. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, Dr. William P. Caton, of Mount Vernon, Va.; Harry B. and J. Randall Caton, of Alexandria, and a sister, Miss Mary Greenaway, who made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Caton. She was a daughter of the late Rev. Nevelle Steele and Ann Body Greenaway, of Cornwall, England.

planes—described by him as little more than crates.

His most breath-taking adventure occurred when he tried out one of the planes in New York a few months later and, while at an altitude of several thousand feet, the plane dropped an aileron and part of the landing gear.

Unable to land the plane on a straight-away and his gasoline supply quickly becoming depleted, Stinson headed the ship toward a railroad right-of-way, nosed it down to the embankment, then made an angular landing that kept the damaged wing from dragging and thus averted death.

Stinson has the distinction of having spent more than 14,000 hours in the air—more than any other man in the history of aviation, accordig to records of the Aeronautique Internationale.

For the 20 years he has been in aviation, he has flown nearly 1,500,000 miles, the equivalent of 60 times around the world. He has held numerous endurance records.

Yet in all this flying, the "ace" never used a parachute or suffered injury until tonight's crash.

During the World War, he was in charge of student flying at Kelly Field where he trained thousands of pilots for overseas combat. At the conclusion of the war, he founded the Detroit-Stinson Co., which later was acquired by the Cord Corporation.

He built the transatlantic planes of Ruth Elder and George Haldemann, the globe-circling ships of Billie Brock and Eddie Schlee and numerous others.

He was adverse to transatlantic flights, however, and described them as "stunning."

After a youth from Georgia, Paul Redfern, met death in an attempt to fly from Atlanta to Buenos Aires in one of his ships, Stinson forbade their sale to any one who contemplated such a project.

"Land planes have not reached the state of perfection when such flights can be made safely, and until that time comes transatlantic attempts should not be undertaken. Of course, it was such an exploit that gave us Lindbergh," he said, "but they are stunts and, as such, they are a detriment to aviation."

Stinson, the brother of Kathering, Marjorie, and Jack, also famous fliers, was born in Fort Wayne, Ala., in 1894. He entered aviation before he was 20 years of age and has been engaged in the business either as test pilot, instructor or designer since.

He was retained as president of the Detroit-Stinson Co. by the Cord concern.

Chief of Hopewell's Police Is Dismissed

City Manager Discharges Shepherd to 'Eliminate Friction.'

Hopewell, Va., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—C. H. Shepherd was discharged as chief of police of Hopewell today by Acting City Manager Lamar Johnson.

"I dispensed with the services of Chief Shepherd, considering this move to be for the general welfare of the City of Hopewell," Mr. Johnson said.

"This move is also intended to eliminate friction n the local police department. A successor to Chief Shepherd will not be appointed at this time and probably not during the present fiscal year."

City Manager Johnson will assume inate friction in the local police dement until a successor is named.

Rome-Capetown Fliers Quit.

Tabora, Tanganyika, East Africa, Jan. 25 (U.P.).—The Italian aviators Francis Lombardi and Leonida Robbiano, who were attempting to establish a new record for a flight from Rome to Capetown, abandoned the flight today because they were far behind the record.

U. S. Pays $144,000 On Park Extension

Grant Gives Maryland Sum Under Capper-Cramton Law to Start Work.

The actual extension of the parks system into Maryland as provided for under the Capper-Cramton act was assured yesterday when Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, representing the National Park and Planning Commission, paid the Maryland authorities $144,000.

Approximately one-third of this sum represents the Federal Government's contribution to the project, while the remainder represents an advance for the purchase of the land. The Maryland authorities floated a bond issue for the repayment of this part of the sum.

Italy Sends 8 Reds to Prison.

Rome, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Eight men convicted of acting as Communist organizers were sentenced by the special court for defense of the state today to prison terms ranging from three to seventeen years. They were arrested several weeks ago for trying to establish a party branch in the Piedmont region.

Peasants Old and New

By H. G. WELLS

A COUPLE of centuries ago, practically all mankind was living on local produce. Foreign trade was a trade in luxuries, superfluities, and accessories. Fosdick, in his Old Savage in the New Civilization, cites an account written by a Massachusetts farmer of the year 1786 of the economic life, which has happily been preserved for us. All his meat, bread, vegtables, fruit and (maple) sugar, he grew himself. His clothing came from his own wool and flax and leather of his own tanning. His house was built from his own trees, and he had his own forage. All he needed from the outside world were a few such things as salt, pepper, lead bullets, gunpowder, tools and weapons, and few of these things came from overseas. These needs he satisfied easily by selling a fraction of his wheat or cattle. The human world, save in the regions given over to nomadism, was a world of such small localized cultivators, and its towns, industries, churches and monasteries, courts and armies, such as they were, were all resting in the last resort on the indefatigable toil of the man with the plough and spade, working in the vicinity.

* * * *

There was one important breakaway from this generalization before the modern era, the case of Rome during the mightiest phase of the City-Empire. Then the subjugated provinces, and especially Sicily and Egypt, sent a great tribute of foodstuffs in exceptionally large ships to the capital. The economic life of all Italy indeed during the days of imperial expansion, shows a movement of essential produce unequalled in quantity and distance elsewhere in the ancient world. Where there are very large rivers there had also been, since the very earliest days, an important concentration of produce to aliment city aggregation at crucial vantage points. Since the beginning of history there have been such pre-railway great cities, for example on the Nile, on the Euphrates and Tigris, on the Ganges and the great Chinese rivers.

* * * *

BUT these were exceptions to the general state of human affairs. The immense majority of the race was dispersed in a village plus small-town pattern, and each repetition of the pattern was economically autonomous and capable of carrying on by itself, if necessary, for an indefinite time. Indeed, it had to be so autonomous, because there were no means of either taking away or bringing produce in bulk. If production failed, the district starved. In the past men could die of famine in Cheshire while Kent had a glut. And the fundamental dots in this stippled pattern of human society, the individual dots that made the circles of relationship, made the rosette of villages and township, were the hand cultivator, the peasant. Alterations in the status of the peasant there have been again and again. In the story of Pharaoh's dream of the lean kine and the fat kine we have the memory of a deal in which the burthen on the peasant is increased. And the chateau-burning of the first French Revolution finds its parallel in most of the social cataclysms of the past.

The superincumbent pressure is thrown off, and the peasant recovers his surplus produce. But whether the peasant was getting a greater or lesser share out of his total yield, whether he was serf or debtor or free and prosperous small farmer with no master above him, did not in the least alter the fact that the economy of the community was entirely based on him. He conditioned the lives of his tyrants and masters and parasites.

They might come or go, they might vary widely, but he remained. He was the essential thing. Nothing in the nature of industrial England or industrial Belgium was possible before the nineteenth century, no countryside carrying millions of industrial workers and having a food production out of all proportion smaller than the needs of the population it carried.

* * * *

IT is unecessary to trace in detail here the phases of the process that replaced the English peasant almost altogether by the agricultural laborer. It is one typical local instance of a world-wide struggle that is still going on, with many fluctuations and setbacks. It is a fight between the individualist "family farmer" on the one hand and organization and (later) machinery on the other. In Denmark the small cultivator has persisted by a surrender of much of his individual freedom to cooperative organization. He has survived by combination. The English peasant was extinguished before he and his world had reached a level of knowledge and education that made such a voluntary association for collective purposes possible. The English small-holder today is a new social type still upon its trial and still learning the lessons of cooperation that the Danish peasant mastered two generations ago. He is not in the old tradition. He is a return to the land.

We may pass very illuminatingly from the story of the disappearance of the English peasant to the struggle that is now going on in Russia. The Soviet government is trying to pass at one stride from conditions that prevailed in fifteenth century English to an organization of agriculture comprehensive beyond anything hitherto known in the world. A strenuously modern conception of social organization is seeking to impose itself upon a mediaeval peasantry, and there is a conscious and acute struggle between peasant and estate which in this case is a government estate. Upon its issue depends the whole future of Russia. A successful resistance by the peasant spells regression and defeat to that vast experiment. A triumph of large, coordinated cultivation means, on the other hand, an educated countryside, dominated by schools and research stations, and playing a large part in the establishment of a new social order throughout the world.

INSTITUTIONS CUT IN INTERIOR'S BILL

Almost Half Million Is Shaved From Funds for Capital Activities.

Washington institutions came in for their share of trimming in an Interior Department supply bill reported to the House yesterday. Total appropriations of $50,431,432 represented a cut of $18,431,432 from the current year, while local institutions received $2,744,133, a slash of $436,887 below 1932.

Although a total of $48,000 in increases was granted St. Elizabeths Hospital, Columbia Institution for the Deaf and Freedmen's Hospital, Howard University underwent the knife to the extent of $485,000, accounting for more than the total reduction in local items.

Library Cost Quartered.

The subcommittee thought that the library building at the university could be erected for $100,000, instead of the $400,000 estimated by the Budget Bureau. Estimates for a new heating, light and power system were reduced from $460,000 to $300,000. For salaries, a reduction of $25,000 under bureau estimates was voted, while the general expense item was pruned $50,000.

The committee voted to allow St. Elizabeths $1,245,653, an increase of $41,633, to accommodate an increase of 100 patients. An increase of $3,480 over 1932 appropriations was allowed Freedmen's Hospital, bringing the total for that institution to $293,480. For the Columbia Institution for the Deaf, $128,000 was provided, an increase of $3,000.

(Associated Press.)

Appropriation of $109,800 for two Interior Department projects in Virginia was approved in the report. Like most other projects those in Virginia felt the pruning knife.

From the Budget Bureau estimate of $18,000 for a superintendents home in the Colonial National Monument, the committee trimmed off $6,000, after park service officials had agreed that a $12,000 house would suffice They had planned erection of a colonial type house at Yorktown. A total of $72,000 was approved by the committee for the monument project.

The committee cut $2,000 more off the budget estimate for the George Washington birthplace project at Wakefield, leaving $25,800.

Provision was made for restoring the Marine commander's quarters at the Yorktown naval mine depot which was cut through by the Interior Department in building a road from Yorktown to Williamsburg in the Colonial monument project. The limit of cost was fixed at $12,000.

The bulk of the $72,000 for the colonial monument—$50,000 — would be used for administration, protection and maintenance; $22,000 for new physical improvements including erection of the superintendent's home and several other lesser projects.

HOUSE GROUP DROPS VINSON NAVAL BILL

to finance the delegation at Geneva, but the appropriations committee decided $390,000 would be enough.

The naval construction bill has been the subject of extensive hearings. It was introduced by Chairman Vinson of the naval committee. That group yesterday approved the measure unanimously, but with three members dissenting decided not to bring it up in the House until next winter. Mr. Vinson said that the present conditions of Federal finances was the reason.

Mr. Vinson said the group was "convinced that the welfare and security of the Nation demand" a navy as big as treaties allow. But he added:

"In view, however, of the very abnormal economic conditions which now confront us at home and abroad, and in the hope that some substantial results may be achieved at Geneva, the committee, in agreement with the chairman, has voted—for the time being—not to report the bill to the House."

When Mr. Vinson later on the House floor announced the postponement he was applauded by Republicans and Democrats alike.

A motion by Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, to amend the bill to provide that the new ships be constructed with money raised from a tax on 4 per cent beer was rejected 13 to 4. He later issued a statement saying:

"If members of the committee had voted in accordance with their publicly expressed opposition to the Volstead law, the vote in favor of my motion would have been 11 to 9 and the entire program reported favorably to the House with no embarrassment to the President's financial policy. * * *

"My amendment would care for all new ship construction and leave a surplus in the Treasury of $250,000,000 the first year and $400,000,000 or more each year thereafter. * * *"

The appropriations committee yesterday slashed the $60,000 off the $450,000 requested by President Hoover for the American delegation to the arms conference after it was disclosed that the delegates and aids are to receive pay on the per diem basis, after having all of their expenses paid.

Congress recently authorized $450,000 for the expenses after President Hoover and Secretary Stimson requested an unlimited authorization. But now the actual money to be made available will not exceed $390,000.

House Navy Group Begins Inquiry Into Akron Today

(Associated Press.)

The House naval committee today will begin its investigation of reported defects in the world's largest airship, the Akron.

Chairman Vinson said his committee intended to "find out just what, if anything, is wrong with the Akron."

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, sponsor of the investigation, said, "If we find there were so many errors that she isn't safe, maybe we can prevent a repetition in the ZRS-5."

The Oklahoman asserted he had been told the central rings of the Akron, which were supposed to be rigid, were so heavy they sagged and had to be propped up.

He said no rigid ever built in the United States heretofore had functioned satisfactorily.

The committee likely will first hear, naval officials reported, that though the Akron was below expecations, she met specifications.

If facts developed are such as to justify, the committee may ask authority from the House to subpena men who worked on the airship and later charged sabotage.

DRUMMOND, LEAGUE SECRETARY, RESIGNS

Aristide Briand Named as Possible Successor of English Statesman.

Geneva, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations since the league was organized, tendered his resignation today and was urged to stay on until the problems confronting the statesmen of the world are less pressing.

The resignation was offered to the league council, supposedly in the strictest secrecy. Acation on it was deferred until a later sitting.

It was understood that Sir Eric was willing to stay on the job for a while, perhaps until the completion of the disarmament conference which opens February 2.

Various motives were mentioned for his decision to withdraw. Geneva has been bad for the health of Lady Drummond, it was said. Other commentators said Sir Eric had been touched by criticism to the effect that the league had been impotent in the Manchurian controversy. Still others asserted Britain wanted him back home to take a hand in domestic politics.

League officials have been subjected to pressure for some time by the representatives of nations that wanted the term of the secretary general limited. Italy, Germany and several smaller nations have taken the position that high league posts should be available to all league members. This pressure was particularly strong on the occasion of the assembly meeting in September, 1930.

Who will be selected to succeed the Briton remained uncertain tonight.

TAX ON OIL IMPORTS GETS CONSIDERATION

(Associated Press.)

The House ways and means committee yesterday continued its study of the income side of the Federal ledger and arranged for two more days of hearings on proposals for increasing taxes. During the day it received a suggestion that a tax be imposed upon the income of bootleggers and heard vigorous opposition to a Federal sales tax on gasoline.

Chairman Collier and the committee members have not taken any action on the various proposals. It seems certain, however, that the group will recommend big increases in the income, surtax, and inheritance tax, and the levying of a gift tax.

Whether the administration proposed 5 per cent tax on automobiles or the 1-cent tax on gasoline will be approved had not been decided. From the questions propounded by the committee members it seems obvious that they are still undetermined.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, appeared before the committee yesterday in opposition to a Federal gasoline tax. He asserted that it rightfully belonged to the States, but suggested that a tax might be imposed on petroleum importations.

Agreement Predicted.

Representative Crisp, ranking Democrat on the committee, explained that from informal conversations with his colleagues it appeared they would agree on a limited number of revenue sources for the emergency confronting the Treasury.

Dr. Joseph H. Klein, of New York, chairman of the Federal legislation committee of the American Society of Certified Accountants, recommended a 25 per cent tax on the gross receipts of bootleggers and speakeasy operators.

Representative Dickstein (Democrat), New York, advocated a 65 per cent income tax on nonresident aliens. He said foreign opera and movie stars and prize fighters came to this country, made great sums of money and took it away with them. Max Schmeling, the German prize fighter, Dickstein said, would be one of those affected by his proposal.

Will Seek Power Tax.

During the committee hearings late in the day, Representative Crisp announced he would advocate a consumption tax of from 5 to 10 per cent on electrical energy which, he added, would bring in about $150,000,000.

Chairman Collier then set tomorrow for representatives of the power interests to be heard. Today will be used to complete hearings of witnesses who could not be heard yesterday.

Strong protests were made to the committee over the proposed taxes on telegraph and telephone messages. Newcomb Carlton, of New York, president of the Western Union Telegraph Co., said the proposed tax would amount to about 10½ per cent and would return about $10,000,000. It would be a nuisance to collect, he added.

Seen as Unpopular.

F. P. MacKinnon, of Chicago, and Henry A. Darnhart, of Rochester, Ind., representing the United States Independent Telephone Association, and A. B. Crunden, of New York, assistant comptroller of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., declared a tax on telephone calls would be unpopular and discriminatory.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR DRILL PRIZES LISTED

$300, Pennants and Medals Will Be Awarded at Ball February 9.

Prizes to be awarded in the competitive drill, inspection and grand ball of the Washington Knights Templar at the Washington Auditorium February 9, were announced last night by Dr. Frank E. Gibson, chairman of the prize committee. There will be three cash awards, totaling $300, and numerous pennants and medals.

The most sought award is for first place in the competitive drill. The winning team will receive $125 in gold and a purple pennant. Second prize in the drill will be $75 in gold and a gold pennant. The third team will receive honorable mention.

A prize of $100 will be awarded for general excellence. The commandery making the best rating in the inspection and in attendance at the inspection and drill will receive first place in this class. Attendance at the drill must be in uniform, according to the rules of the committee. All members of the fraternity who wish to be counted on the night of the drill must register at a special booth provided for the purpose, it was announced. The commandery adjudged second best will be given honorable mention.

A blue pennant will go to the commandery with the highest inspection rating, combined with the largest attendance at its own individual inspection. Second prize in this class will be a red pennant, and third prize honorable mention.

First place in the sword contest, one of the features of the affair, will be rewarded with a gold medal. A silver medal will go to the man given second place, a bronze medal for third place and honorable mention for fourth place.

John W. Davis, Jahncke said they were the "essence of Democratic philosophy" and provided for "a bond issue to increase the Government's obligations and the taxes of the people; a budget to be balanced by Democratic sleight-of-hand and an increase in the higher brackets."

Remarking that the Democratic leaders seemed to agree on an isolation policy regarding Europe, Jahncke said: "How strange this sounds falling from the mouths of statesmen who followed where Wilson walked and especially strange, happening at practically the same time when the Speaker of the House and his Democratic colleagues were advocating a world parley to discuss the question of our tariff laws."

The Democratic tariff attitude, Jahncke said, "is packed full of insincerity and hypocrisy." The Democrats don't dare attempt to lower the rates, he charged, "because they now realize, as the Republicans have always contended, that any lowering of our tariff walls at a time like this would invite a deluge of foreign products under which the American economic scheme would be imperiled."

KING AND CYR SET UP GOVERNOR'S OFFICES

Former Occupies Mansion and Regular State Quarters Vacated by Long.

New Orleans, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Two offices of men claiming the governorship were opened in Louisiana today, one officially in the governor's mansion at Baton Rouge and the other in a dentist's room at Jeanerette.

At Jeanerette, the dentist said:

"I am Gov. Paul N. Cyr."

At Baton Rouge, the man who moved up from president pro tempore of the State Senate to lieutenant governor with the backing of Huey P. Long, said little, but moved into the executive mansion, took the oath and announced:

"I am Gov. Alvin O. King."

Police Guard State Offices.

King ignored Cyr's claims utterly and went serenely about the duties of the excutive office. He had State highway policemen guarding the State offices in Baton Rouge and city detectives were on guard in State offices in New Orleans. The guards were placed after Cyr had said he would claim the governorship.

The tangle, the second in recent months, was caused by Long's dropping his gubernatorial toga for that of a United States senator. Cyr had said that when Long took the oath in the Senate, he would strike a blow to restore his status as lieutenant governor which would make him governor instead of King.

But when Long took the oath in Washington today, Cyr said he had no comment to make until after he had consulted his lawyers. His associates have intimated Cyr would apply for an injunction to prevent King from serving as governor and would not attempt physically to seize the office over the armed guards.

Long Declares Post Vacant.

Cyr's predicament was created in his efforts to oust Long four months ago as governor. In his court fight, which he lost, Cyr took the governor's oath and immediately Long declared the office of lieutenant governor vacant and ordered King, third in line of succession, to take the oath as lieutenant governor.

King took the oath and since has functioned as lieutenant governor, drawing the salary for that office and serving on the various boards. When Long left for Washington he recognized King as his successor.

Outwardly the State was quiet today, with State business going forward as usual. King and his cohorts have adopted a watchful waiting policy, ready to start a counter-attack if Cyr makes a move.

Administration Backs King.

In Washington, Long expressed no concern over the threat of his most bitter political enemy to seize the governor's office.

King has the backing of the State administration, the State militia and the highway police. He conferred today with Adjt. Gen. Ray H. Fleming, commander of the National Guard, but Fleming said it had no bearing on the governorship situation.

"There is no chance of our getting into this unless the affair gets out of the hands of the civil authorities, which we don't anticipate," said the adjutant general.

Mrs. Hurley Names Barge 'Mark Twain'

Jeffersonville, Ind., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—A compact chunk of steel that will push more Mississippi River freight than Mark Twain ever dreamed possible was given his name here today.

In this old river town that turned out river packets in the days of the famous author and river pilot himself, the new Government vessel was formally christened by Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War.

Of all-steel construction it is 169 feet long, 42 feet beam, and draws only 4 feet of water. Its oil-burning engines are backed up by two 500-horsepower steam engines, and it represents the latest in inland river construction. The Mark Twain carries a crew of fourteen, and its home port will be New Orleans.

"I christen you Mark Twain," said Mrs. Hurley as she broke across the lower deck capstan a bottle of Arkansas River water. Then breaking a bottle of Mississippi River water, she exclaimed "To your success on the Mississippi River."

Digger Posing as Doctor Seven Years Sentenced

West Chester, Pa., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Charles Borromeo Smith, former ditch digger, was alleged to have posed for seven years as a physician, today pleaded guilty to a charge of practicing medicine without a license. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and fined $100.

At the time of his arrest, Smith was a member of the medical staff of the Pennhurst State School for the Feeble-Minded, near Spring City. In a statement to police he said he began practicing medicine in Chicago and has served as a store physician, railroad physician, ship's surgeon, operated his own sanitarium and obtained a commission in the Medical Reserve Corps.

Former Edith C. Gould Divorce Decree Awarded

Reno, Nev., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The former Edith C. Gould was divorced here today from Carroll Livingston Wainwright, artist son of Mrs. Carl Wolff and the late Stuyvesant Wainwright, of Rye, N. Y.

Judge Thomas F. Moran granted the decree after a secret hearing at which he awarded custody of three minor children to Mrs. Wainwright. The divorce was allowed on grounds of extreme mental cruelty, the details of which were not disclosed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cotter last night celebrated their golden wedding with an anniversary mass at St. Peter's Church, followed by a reception at their home, 900 B street northeast. They were wed in St. Aloysius' Church on January 26, 1882. They have six children and four grandchildren. Mrs. Cotter was Miss Ada T. Powers.

SMITH COULD WIN ELECTION, LONG, NOW A SENATOR, AVERS

In violating the no-smoking rule, the "Kingfish," as his Louisiana followers call him, also paid a penalty. He burned his finger. This happened when he went over to join Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, who was to escort him forward to take the oath.

Long scorched his finger while he was trying to park his cigar on Senator Robinson's desk in such a way that it would not damage that particular piece of furniture. After he had taken the oath Long retrieved the cigar and swaggered to his desk.

It is the custom for a new member of the Senate to be escorted to the Vice President's rostrum by the senior senator from his State. However, it was not surprising that Long did not ask Broussard to perform this function. The two are political enemies.

In the course of one of several interviews he granted during the day, Senator Long said, "Broussard is through."

Presumably he meant that he would run one of his own favorites against Broussard in the Democratic primary next September. The man he is said to have in mind just now is Representative John Overton, of the Eighth Louisiana District.

Grants First Interview.

Senator Long, who stayed away from Washington on March 4, the day Congress convened, because he was afraid that his most bitter political enemy, Paul N. Cyr, the lieutenant governor, would seize the office of Governor of Louisiana, arrived here shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

He and his party, which included Mrs. Long and a dozen or so of his political followers, went immediately to the Mayflower Hotel. There the Louisiana boss granted his first interview.

He was attired in pajamas. Some thought they were pink, but a young girl reporter, familiar with the chromatic scale, insisted that they were lavender.

Says Smith Could Win.

Lolling in a chair, his bare feet swinging, and with a shaving brush in one hand and a cigar in the other, the man who was soon to exchange his title of "governor" for that of "senator," passed judgment on those who are being mentioned for the Democratic nomination for President.

"Our best chance is with Garner, Senator Pat Harrison, or Senator Joe Robinson," he said, "but Al Smith could win if he ran again."

Long expressed the opinion that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, who is an odds-on favorite for the nomination, "wouldn't have a chance." Roosevelt's nomination, he said, would mean "certain defeat." He recalled that Roosevelt "ran badly" as a vice presidential candidate with James M. Cox in 1920.

Questioned about Smith, Long said: "Our experience in Louisiana is that when the religious issue is injected into one campaign that is the end of it. I have seen it brought up in many campaigns, but they don't vote against a man on account of his religion the second time."

Louisiana, which is the abode of a large number of Catholics, was one of the solid South States that remained true to the Democratic party and supported Smith in 1928.

On Prohibition Question.

On the prohibition question, Long had this to say:

"The public is sick and tired of hearing somebody wanting the country as dry as the Sahara on the one hand and somebody else wanting it as wet as the Atlantic Ocean.

"The people get all they want, anyhow, and we find that a man who can talk about nothing but the wet cause doesn't poll many votes in New Orleans, although the city would vote wet on a test ballot."

Mr. Long said he would go along with President Hoover in every move the Chief Magistrate made to restore prosperity.

"The President," he said, "ought to be given every hand in the world to help out. I'd give him more than that."

Questioned about his own attitude toward the Presidency—as to whether or not he was a candidate—Long told a story.

The story concerned a small boy who was told by his father that if he would work instead of going to the circus he might some day be President.

Preferred Circus Ticket.

"How many others have the same chance," the youngster asked.

"About 2,000,000," the father said.

"All right, then," said the boy, "I'll swap my chance for a circus ticket."

Long said he "wanted most of all to get a little rest up here," and he told a story to illustrate just how he did feel. The story concerned a strapping deputy sheriff, a 200-pounder, whose name was Rene, or Rainey.

One day the deputy sheriff hammered on the rear door of a saloon.

"Let 'Little Rainey' in here," the deputy sheriff shouted.

A crowd of cowboys in the saloon did let "Little Rainey" in, and they then proceeded to beat the tar out of him.

As Rainey lay crumpled on the floor, one of the cowboys leaned over and asked him what he wanted next.

Like Little Rainey.

Long explained that he, like little Rainey, wanted to get away from the turmoil of politics in Louisiana and enjoy a "rest."

In the Senate chamber Long was given a seat between Mrs. Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, who succeeded her husband, and that other picturesque statesman, J. Ham Lewis, of Illinois.

In the Senate Office Building Mr. Long was given an office next to that of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho.

Story of Borah Praise.

There was a story going around the Capitol late yesterday that Senator Long praised Borah in extravagant terms and said that he was the "greatest senator since William Jennings Bryan." Bryan, of course, never sat in the Senate, and the story was attributed to practical jokers.

Long was a bit nervous before he took the oath yesterday, even though Mrs. Long and his party from Louisiana were in the gallery giving him moral support. Afterward, however, he walked through the chamber, greeting nearly every senator he encountered.

Members of Party.

The men accompanying Mr. Long to Washington—and, incidentally, it was the largest entourage seen at the Mayflower since William Hale Thompson, former Mayor of Chicago, came to town—were O. K. Allen, Governor-elect of Louisiana; John B. Fournet, lieutenant governor-elect; Gaston L. Porterie, the new attorney general; A. L. Shushan, president of the New Orleans levee board; Thomas Harris, superintendent of education; Hugh M. Wilkinson, former State senator and Long's law partner; J. M. Nugent, vice chairman of the Louisiana Highway Commission; Seymour Weiss, manager of the Roosevelt Hotel and treasurer of the port commission of New Orleans; John McKay, general manager of the port commission; T. S. Walmsky, Mayor of New Orleans; Harry Jacobs, chairman of the State Board of Engineers, and John C. Donovan, business man of New Orleans.

GIVE MORE

By DR. ARTHUR C. CHRISTIE, President, Medical Society, District of Columbia.

The health of a community bears a very close relation to its economic welfare. During this year of economic depression every agency concerned with the prevention of disease or care of the sick receives demands far in excess of those made in prosperous times. Nine of the largest and most important hospitals of Washington are among the 65 agencies of the Community Chest.

The percentage of patients who must be treated free or who are able to pay only a part of the cost of their care is greatly increased over normal times. All of those agencies which care for children, whether they treat the sick or injured or crippled child, or carry out measures to prevent sickness, or furnish a home for the homeless have their resources strained to the uttermost during this emergency. There are many other agencies in the Community Chest which contribute indirectly to the health of the people whose appeal is larger this year than ever before. Hunger and undernourishment increase susceptibility to disease; the worry and desperation of unemployment increase the problems of organizations dealing with mental disabilities; day nurseries for children of working mothers and the instructive Visiting Nurse Society all have demands greater than ever before.

Because of the increased need and to prevent an increase in disease, the people of Washington must support the Community Chest this year as never before.

Bascom Slemp Rapped As Patronage Handler

(Associated Press.)

R. Houston Brett, Richmond, Va., lawyer, filed protest yesterday with Postmaster General Brown against appointment of a Virginia postmaster, whom he refused to name.

In a statement regarding the protest, Brett complained against handling of Republican patronage in Virginia by C. Bascom Slemp. He asserted the majority of Virginia's Republican voters are opposed to Slemp handling patronage for the State.

RHEEM AGAIN NAMED IN BANKRUPTCY SUIT

Move Made for Protection of Clients by Attacking His Personal Estate.

A second petition asking that Edmund D. Rheem, former executive officer and dominating stockholder of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., be adjudged an involuntary personal bankrupt, was filed by Elizabeth Dieste, Edward H. Musson and Nannie D. Whitehead, through Attorney E. Hilton Jackson, in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

The petition was filed to strengthen the position of the creditors of the Swartzell firm, who have succeeded in having Rheem declared a bankrupt, and who have, through their receiver, George Curtis Shinn, thus far seized approximately $250,000 of Rheem's assets.

The strengthening of the existing petition, which Justice F. D. Letts ruled on favorably two weeks ago, is explained this way: The present bankruptcy of Rheem is being attacked in the Appellate Court by his attorneys, Tobriner and Graham, and in the event they are successful in obtaining a reversal of Justice Letts, the creditors would be without recourse to Rheem's personal finances.

If that should happen, the suit filed yesterday, within the statute of limitations, would be brought into court as a separate bill. It was said by interested attorneys that the suit filed yesterday will not be prosecuted unless Rheem obtains a reversal of the existing order of Justice Letts.

Aviators Succed in Tests To Count Ducks From Air

The Army Air Corps, in cooperation with the Bureau of Biological Survey, yesterday made successful tests of a new method of counting ducks and other wild fowl while feeding on the water. The flocks are photographed from a plane in the air, and later the individual birds are counted on the developed plates.

According to Lieut. David W. Goodrich, pilot of the plane which carried an air photographer yesterday, pictures may be taken as low as 400 feet without disturbing the ducks. The birds showed plainly on the pictures which were taken by Sergt. Andrew E. Matos, aerial photographer with the Air Corps. A flock of about 4,000, in the vicinity of Fort Humphreys, was photographed yesterday, he said.

Accompanying the two Army men on their flight yesterday was F. C. Lincoln, chief of the bird banding section of the Biological Survey. This bureau has been extremely anxious to count the ducks in the vicinity of Washington to learn just how much the flocks have been depleted by the dry weather. The drought has prevented the birds from breeding, it is said, and has killed many of them. The census has not been finished yet, however.

Rum Smuggling Counts Dropped Against Crews

New London, Conn., Jan. 25 (A.P.). Charges of conspiracy to smuggle liquor against the crews of the speed boat Monaloia of Newport, and the liquor supply vessel Cadet of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, were dismissed for lack of evidence today by United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran.

The Monaloia with 500 sacks of liquor was seized January 11. The Cadet was taken January 17, off Nantucket, with 1,000 sacks of liquor.

Couple, Engaged 35 Years, Weds.

St. Louis, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—After being engaged 35 years, Julian K. Glasgow, 70, honorary president of the Public Question Club of St. Louis, and Miss Laura Maude Eoff, 58, head of Miss Eoff's School for Girls, were married last Friday, they announced today.

Gov. Woodring to File May 13, Shunning Jinx

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The Friday the 13th superstitution means nothing to Gov. Harry H. Woodring other than a lucky omen.

After consulting his calendar, he announced today he would file a declaration of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for a second term on Friday, May 13. Two years ago he filed on Friday, June 13, and was elected.

400 Iron Workers Go Back to Work.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Nearly 400 employes of the Oley Street plant of the Reading Iron Co. went back to work today when No. 1 plant started operating eight of its fourteen furnaces and No. 2 plant started its full capacity of fourteen furnaces. The finishing mill, employing 100 men, will go into operation February 1.

MOBILIZING NEW ENERGY.

Added assurance that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be a powerful factor in restoring American business, commerce and finance is given by the character of its personnel. President Hoover chose the best qualified man in the country to be head of the corporation. Now he has named Harvey C. Couch, of Arkansas, and Jesse H. Jones, of Texas, who will inspire confidence in this gigantic undertaking throughout the South. The appointment of two Southern Democrats to the board reemphasizes the fact that this project to halt forced liquidation and start business forward is neither sectional nor partisan. Congress passed the measure with almost unanimous approval of its members and without partisan obstruction. In the same spirit the board of directors has been named. The great restorative corporation can be expected to carry on under that influence.

Senators and representatives are being deluged with petitions from constituents who hope to attach themselves to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Political considerations are pushed to the front in spite of the emergency nature of this undertaking. It is of the utmost importance, however, that the organization be set up with a minimum of political influence, and that its representatives be chosen by reason of their competence in fiscal and legal matters. Senators ought to cooperate with the corporation in this respect.

Efforts are now being centered on confirmation of the directors by the Senate. That body has approved the $500,000,000 appropriation for the reconstruction agency. Within a short time this money, multiplied by credit arrangements, will begin percolating through the fabric of business and finance. Already its influence has been widely felt. Business sentiment is turning from despair to hopefulness. Evidence of Congress pulling unitedly for improvement of conditions in all parts of the country has had a stimulating effect. The improved sentiment will be fed with new energy as soon as it is humanly possible to get this great corporation actively operating.

In the meantime Congress is giving attention to other relief measures of a more specialized nature. Steps are being taken to relieve closed banks, to ease the railroads' financial situation, and to restore the Government to a more secure financial status. There seems to be no doubt that the President's relief program will be adopted along the broad general outlines which he suggested.

The country is confidently looking forward to these legislative stimuli as the turning point toward better times. Virtually every economist agrees that this country can make early recovery in spite of the unsettled state of affairs in Europe. The turn might have come long ago, had it not been for the constriction of credit and the general fear of instability. Much of that wavering faith can now be left behind. Business is in a position to move forward with constructive plans, knowing that the strength of Uncle Sam is behind the financial and industrial structure of the Nation.

If the people are ready to do their part, if they can shake off depression psychology, and participate in the forward movement, nothing can hold back the surge of reconstructive forces.

SIR ERIC DRUMMOND.

Sir Eric Drummond, efficient secretary general of the League of Nations, has tendered his resignation, and it is reported that he may be appointed Ambassador of Great Britain to the United States.

If this report has been circulated for the purpose of sounding out the feeling of Americans in regard to invigorating the feeble "movement" to induce the United States to join the League of Nations, there should be no difficulty in reaching a sound conclusion. Americans probably would not be embarrassed in manifesting their increased opposition to entanglement with the League of Nations, while at the same time extending a cordial welcome to Sir Eric Drummond if he should come to Washington as the successor of the present distinguished and popular British Ambassador.

To Sir Eric, as a British Ambassador, all doors would be open. As a propagandist for the League of Nations his position would be distinctly more difficult and his usefulness to his government would be decidedly diminished.

A DOLE FOR UNCLE SAM.

Representative Mapes wasted a lot of breath in trying to explain away the injustice of the increased taxes for the District as recommended by his "select" committee and passed by the House. His address before the University of Michigan Club merely illustrates his inability to consider the District of Columbia as other than a backwoods town under the thumb of Congress.

Mr. Mapes quoted extensively from the Constitution and from congressional reports to show that Washington is distinctly a Federal City. The founding fathers deliberately refrained from locating the Capital in any city of their day, because they wanted to build, not a mere city, but a Capital of the Nation. "It was to be," says Representative Mapes, "the workshop of the Federal Government."

The gentleman from Michigan wants it well understood, therefore, that Congress is not usurping any power when it legislates for the District of Columbia. Certainly not! The House not only refrains from overstepping its authority but it negligently fails to perform its duty of providing for the reasonable growth and development of the National Capital which the fathers intrusted to the care of Congress. Instead of exercising that authority the House has sought to transfer the burden of supporting the Federal City upon its inhabitants.

Perhaps it is too much to expect a committee of politicians to view a problem in a purely fiscal light. Instead of trying to determine a fair division of the District's governmental expenses between the residents and the Government, the Mapes committee insisted that Washingtonians should be forced to carry the Government's load. The only fair method of taxing property and incomes in Washington is to levy a rate that will take care of the needs of Washington as a municipality, and to require the Government to supply the extra amount needed to support a National Capital.

Taxpayers in other cities are supplying large sums to service and reduce their municipal debts. Washington operates on a cash basis. Should taxpayers of the District be required to pay for a public debt without having enjoyed the benefits therefrom?

The proposed tax increases would be less onerous if the people of the District were to derive benefits from them. But that is not the case. Mr. Mapes induced the House to pass four tax bills for the relief of the Federal Government at the expense of Washington citizens. Proceeds from a higher gasoline tax, an income tax, a levy against automobiles and inheritances would not go toward expanding the District budget for much needed improvements, but would be donated as a bonus to Uncle Sam. Some Washington children still attend school in miserable shacks that become a menace to their lives every time a high wind blows. Yet the additional taxes voted by the House are earmarked for reduction of the Federal contribution to maintenance of the National Capital.

Mr. Mapes can not explain away these facts. The people of the District are willing to pay what is necessary to maintain municipal service at a high standard. But they resent the imposition of taxes to maintain a National Capital free of expense to Uncle Sam. When taxes are levied, let the money be spent in the District for strictly municipal needs, as taxes are applied in all other municipalities; and let the Federal Government contribute its just share of the cost of maintaining the National Capital.

TAMMANY'S STRANGLEHOLD.

Judge Samuel T. Seabury's report on corruption and graft in the New York City government comes at a propitious time. That great, prodigal metropolis has been able to avoid bankruptcy only by a frantic appeal to bankers. Last year it added nearly $190,000,000 to its debts. Drastic measures must be taken upon compulsion of the city's creditors to set its financial affairs in order.

According to Judge Seabury, "the financial condition in which the City of New York finds itself is due to the waste, the graft and the corruption with which the city is infested." Thus far the public has remained unmoved by revelations that crooks are siphoning millions out of the city's coffers. If they are made to realize that this profligacy is taking money out of their own pockets during these hard times they may take more interest in the movement to root out the grafters and abolish the useless agencies of government that are maintained solely for the support of Tammany Hall.

Judge Seabury's investigation has revealed extortion and graft in whatever direction it has turned. He finds that "the rentpayers of New York have been mulcted" because of the notorious ability of Tammany lawyers to influence the board of standards. Pier leases have been granted at the behest of the same persuasive gentlemen, who in turn have extorted large sums from the leasing companies. Bus franchises have been "sold" under similar conditions.

Intimate relations between gamblers, gunmen and thugs, on one hand, and police officials and politicians, on the other, have been partially exposed. Bank accounts of petty officials, showing unexplained deposits many times the amount of their salaries, have been brought to light. There is the familiar coincidence between these cases and the failure of law enforcement officers to protect the public against gangsters and racketeers. Fraud was not laid aside even in the administration of relief. The committee found that an appropriation of more than $9,500,000 for the benefit of the unemployed "was used instead to take care of faithful Democrats, while considerations of necessity and hardship were disregarded."

The tragic part of this situation is that these conditions have the full sanction of New York's political hierarchy, Tammany Hall. Judge Seabury points out that "not a single one of the miscreants has been repudiated by Tammany Hall, or even criticized by it, for the official wrongdoing which has been shown; on the contrary, Tammany Hall has taken these wrongdoers to its bosom, has lent them all the aid and comfort that it could and has acted as their protector and adviser throughout." It is difficult to conclude otherwise than that graft and corruption are part of the system upon which Tammany Hall exists and expands.

Judge Seabury has suggested a tentative program of reforms that gives promise of sweeping recommendations when the investigation is completed. But it remains to be seen whether the people of Gotham will arouse from their political apathy long enough to shake off the strangle grip which the Tammany Tiger holds on New York's throat.

PAPER FOR BLIND CHILDREN.

The current issue of Searchlight, a Braille juvenile magazine, celebrates the twenty-first year of its founding, and it becomes a monthly instead of a quarterly publication. Printed with little raised dots on sheets of shiny brown paper, the journal carries adventure and romance to little blind children who read it with their fingertips. Published by the New York Association of the Blind, it is sent to all parts of the world, to all institutions for the blind, free of charge.

Miss Helen Day, the editor, is herself blind. The memory of her own childhood enables her to choose stories which will appeal to her readers. She does not bother with descriptions of color, which they have never seen, but gives them action and good descriptions of the setting. She has a theory that blind children have more imagination than those with sight. Every issue contains a story especially for girls and one for boys. There are departments and poems and contests and serials, as in other juvenile magazines.

When the material is all assembled it goes to the "Lighthouse," where Miss Anna Patchen, who is also totally blind, sets the type and prints the magazine. She then binds the separate sheets and wraps the journals for mailing. Her only assistant is a shepherd dog that guides her mistress to and from the office every day, and who is trained to pick up anything that drops on the floor.

Every year the Searchlight conducts a short story contest for little blind readers all over the world. A $50 Liberty bond is offered by Thomas McLane, treasurer of the association. The judges for the contest now being decided include Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Booth Tarkington, Lowell Thomas and others. The stories themselves are mostly adventurous, often in the far-off land of faery. They display a wholesome disregard, in many cases, of the conventional rules of plotting and writing. Another feature which is frequently present is a lack of sympathy for the characters, ending with wholesale massacre. One story, for example, written by a blind boy of 6, ended when a whole shipload of worthy persons was swept into the sea to be devoured by whales.

GENT AND GENTLEMAN

From the Boston Transcript.

The dons of Oxford are so indignant at the continued careless use of "gent" in colloquial English speech that they have sworn to buy no more garters or ties at a "gents' furnishings" shop and will give their exclusive patronage to tradesmen unpretentious enough to call themselves "haberdashers." And yet, even in the scholarly London Observer, a writer asks what is the matter with the word; why and how it has become a vulgarism.

It is no explanation to say that it is an abridgment of "gentleman." We go to the "pops" or to the "zoo" or to a college "prom;" we take a "cab" or a "bus" or a "hack;" we watch for the signal of a traffic "cop;" we wear "spats." Every one of these words is a shortening of something else, but in their abbreviated forms they take on no special meaning; no subtle change of sense affects them as when we cut "gentleman" in two and call it "gent."

Why, then, has "gent" fallen into such disrepute? We know only that the word fits the learned judge's definition: "A 'gent?' That's something short of a gentleman, isn't it?"

There was a time, evidently, when "gent" was an abbreviation in respectable standing. Burns and Byron found it a useful rhyme, and the context in which it is used makes it impossible to say that any derogatory meaning was attached to it. Washington Irving, on the title page of "Bracebridge Hall," inscribed himself, "Geoffrey Crayon, Gent." It is pretty certain that, at the period when he wrote the book, the word "gent" had not yet been "spoiled by all ignoble use," and whether he intended the nom de plume to be read "Geoffrey Crayon, Gent" or "Geoffrey Crayon, Gentleman," nobody knows. As he apparently made no change in it during his life, we are inclined to think that he meant it as an abbreviation, to be read "gentleman," as the "Bart" following Sir Walter Scott's name on the title pages of the Waverly novels is obviously "Baronet."

"Gent" apparently began to take on a meaning all its own when it was applied in a jocular way to persons who pretended to a gentility that was pinchbeck—snobs, parvenus, social climbers and the like. Thackeray, in 1842, spoke of it as "a diminutive at present much in use by commercial persons." And so, little by little, "gent" sank from its high estate and became a poor, disowned relation of "gentleman," a hanger-on of shady or dubious connotations. Alfred Jingle was a "gent," but no gentleman; Col. Newcome was a gentleman, but by no stretch of language a "gent," though he might so have been designated by a cabby or a waiter not careful in these subtle distinctions—a menial in whose eyes clothes make the man.

Your cheerful note today, if only a retail dose, is the fact that last week the general level of wholesale prices moved up a fractional point for the first time in many weeks.

How nice it would be if the bills that come through the mails were like those that go through Congress—carrying their own appropriations for payment.

Sending Power by Wireless Is the Oldest Trick in Nature

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN order to understand the various "rays" now being harnessed by science, it is necessary to picture them as solids.

A ray of energy, whether visible or invisible, is much like a stream of shot poured from a bag. It is composed of many minute particles, one following another at incredible speed, and the source from which it came is made less by its departure.

You have seen the harmless "sparklers" used by children on the Fourth of July. Once ignited, they throw off sparks until their substance is exhausted.

Radium functions in much the same way. The rays it throws off are portions of itself, each as solid as the main body, and thus it steadily diminishes until at the end of 18,000 years the last of it is gone.

What becomes of the rays—the infinitesimal pellets hurled into space—nobody knows. But one thing is certain: As they were in the universe in the beginning, so they will be here in some form until the end of time. There is no place to which they can go.

The ultra-violet rays of the sun, invisible to our unaided eyes, are equally solid. The particles of energy of which they are composed may be so small that millions could strike the pupil of the eye without doing it injury, but they are solid, none the less.

They move from one place to another as definitely as the stream of shot moves, and may be imprisoned and carried from place to place.

It is their solidity—the fact that they are physical matter—that gives value to cod liver oil.

Certain small fish, swimming near the surface of the sea, absorb the rays from the sunlight as your untanned skin absorbs them.

These fish are the favorite food of the sacred cod. When the codfish devours them and digests them, its liver retains the ultra-violet ray particles as the human liver retains and stores up chemicals taken by mouth.

Physicians knew the value of cod liver oil long before they knew why it was valuable. Now they know it contains the same beneficent rays of the sun that anybody privileged to be out of doors can obtain in a more pleasant way.

Call them rays for want of a better name, but they are units of energy showered from Nature's blazing storehouse of life.

Hoover Opposition Flops.

Kansas City Times.

Mr. Dawes' outspoken notice that he will not be used for the purposes of those who are trying to raise opposition to the President within his own party will greatly shock the politicians. They are not accustomed to that kind of plainness. They had attempted to trade on the Dawes name as they previously had attempted to trade on Mr. Coolidge's. Both now have repudiated these activities.

The efforts of those Republicans who are seeking to supplant Mr. Hoover with another nominee at the Chicago convention now must be brought within narrower limits. The big fish have refused the bait. The anti-Hoover movers, with whom North Dakota's two senators, Mr. Nye and Mr. Frazier, now have identified themselves, must cast their net again and in smaller waters. Their hope is to induce some Republican other than Mr. France, of Maryland, whose one-man show has attracted no notice, to enter some of the early primary States against the President in expectation that the result will show he is not the party's strongest candidate. The North Dakato senators have invited Senator Johnson, of California, to make that demonstration. Mr. Johnson's candidacy, if it should be induced, would be recognized as merely the spearhead of the personal rather than the political opposition to Mr. Hoover in the Republican party.

Congress Sets Itself a Standard.

Kansas City Times.

Under pressure of an urgent need for economic legislation, Congress has got down to solid business, and for the most part has refused to waste time playing politics. Traditionally it has stood to the high credit of this body that it could act decisively and promptly when the occasion was of such nature as to leave no other sensible course open. Congress now is giving the whole country fresh courage and a more confident hope for the immediate future by the determined manner in which it has been dealing with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill and other measures calculated to bring about credit relief at once.

Hopeful, but Bewildered Democrats.

Topeka Capital.

In their Jackson Day celebration and oratory and the national committee meeting the next day in Washington the Democratic leaders contributed nothing that has attracted any notice to economic repair and recovery. The Democrats are hoping to take over the Government, but have not divulged to the country what they intend to do with it when and if they get it.

Following the Jackson Day affair the Democratic leader in Massachusetts, Senator Walsh, delivered a speech before his party State committee that was notable for not "rocking the boat." The Springfield Republican said of it: "Senator Walsh's speech at Boston Saturday before the Democratic State committee revealed him in a state of fear, of emotional excitement. There will be no obstruction from that Democrat to measures of a reasonable stabilizing character." Like enough other Democrats in Congress he will go along in support of Hoover's measures.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Post: Sir—On Tuesday, January 26, 1932, I will have completed the toll of fourscore years, and in accordance with my habit of twenty years last past I will celebrate it with a highly exceptional exhibition with an unusual display of physical vigor.

My displays hitherto have been strictly along the line of pedestrianism.

Without meaning to boast I inform you that in my long life I have been more or less proficient in every enjoyable form of manly sport and I so live that, although I am now ten years beyond the allotted span of life that there is no sport in which I have ever excelled that I can not engage in at the present day and not make a ridiculous display of awkwardness. So on this coming birthday to give eclat to the occasion I will give two exhibitions.

I am now visiting my daughter and grandchildren at Asheville, N. C.

This town prides itself and deservedly so on its scenic highway molded out of the Appalachian Mountains reputed to be one of the most beautiful highways of the world.

On the morning of the 26th I shall leave my daughter's home, 10 Normandy road, and hike over a roundabout course for fifteen miles, during which excursion I will have striven to a height of 2,500 feet.

I have two grandchildren, vigorous Boy Scouts, who will accompany me on the morning task.

In the afternoon, leaving the same house, my daughter, who still is a superb equestrienne, will accompany me on a horseback ride over the same route and we will be home in time for a 6 o'clock dinner, and I can assure you that, notwithstanding my age, our horses will realize they have been taken for a ride.

Can you imagine a more enjoyable way for a man to celebrate 80 years of active life?

I have never given an exhibition without a previous favorable medical examination to acquit myself of any charge of foolhardiness, so yesterday I took a 9-mile hike into the mountains, climbing two, one of the height of 2,500 feet and the other of 3,100 feet, both authenticated; finished the hike in good condition, was immediately examined and assured there was no need to forego my anticipitated exhibition for Tuesday next.

I also wish you to again understand as always heretofore that I give publicity to these exhibitions which are really a personal pleasure governed by the same motive that has always animated me—a desire to show aging men their physical capabilities if they would simply take care of themselves. Defeat of Bingham Resolution a Setback to Wets.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The overwhelming defeat of the Bingham resolution in the Senate, inviting the States to hold referenda on repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, is unquestionably a setback for the wets from which it will be difficult for them to fully recover. The persistent and often vicious wet propaganda has failed to meet the expectations of its most zealous sponsors, and the action of the Senate simply emphasizes this fact.

Wet propagandists have a much harder task to repeal, or even modify, the eighteenth amendment than is generally supposed. This amendment, being a part of the organic law of the land, millions of voters the country over are determined to preserve it intact. It is a question of sustaining the law against the assaults of law-breakers, and it is not likely that law-abiding citizens will permit the enemies of law and order to override the Constitution with the resultant return of the saloon. The principle involved is too great to be ignored.

The intent of prohibition is, of course, to create a situation where strong drink, used as a beverage, will be entirely abolished. This suggests a reform of tremendous import. But it is not impossible in a country where a high degree of intelligence prevails. Contrary to statements of the wets as to bootlegging activities, progress has been made under prohibition, with every indication of reaching the desired goal.

Prohibition is admittedly a political as well as a great moral question, but any attempt to make of it a distinctly party issue with a view to repeal or modification of legislation, is doomed to failure. Therein lies the strength of the friends of prohibition. However much citizens may differ with respect to political matters in general, those who believe in the uplifting influence of sobriety are a unit in the fight against the return of the old order of things. Demands Release From the Stranglehold of Degrading Jazz "Music"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Not only are the rhythm and melodies of jazz distasteful to music-lovers, but the instrumentation, too, is atrocious. SOUTHERNERS READY FOR FINANCING TASK

Harvey Couch and J.N. Jones Have Wide Experience in National Problems.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Informed of his appointment today as director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Harvey Couch made the following statement:

"Gen. Dawes said 'this is a working job and not a talking one.'

"It pleases me to see the recognition accorded the South and the Southwest. I, of course, realize the responsibility and the opportunity to assist. I hope to measure up to the needs of the situation and the expectations of the people, the President and my friends."

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—In naming Harvey Couch, of Arkansas, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, President Hoover has chosen a man with about as much respect for red tape as has Charles G. Dawes, head of the new Government agency.

Applies Common Sense Methods.

The plain, almost bashful Arkansan, who was born on a farm, rose to a position of leadership in the public utility, railroad and financial fields largely through application of common sense methods in business, his friends say.

The president of power and fuel companies and railroads in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana and director in numerous other enterprises in the South and Southwest, Mr. Couch has found time on several occasions in recent years to devote to presidential and other public assignments.

He was fuel administrator for Arkansas during the war, flood relief director in the State during the 1927 Mississippi Valley flood and drought relief director in 1930. Numerous other assignments—Federal and State—have been given him.

It was during their activities in flood relief in 1927 that a close friendship was formed between Mr. Couch and President Hoover, at that time flood relief director.

Averse to Red Tape.

Mr. Couch's direct methods of dealing with problems and his aversion to red tape, his associates say, made a deep impression upon Mr. Hoover.

When a group in Congress was in disagreement with the White House in the winter of 1930 over drought relief funds Mr. Couch was credited generally was bringing about a compromise.

Mr. Couch is a director of the Chase National Bank, of New York; president of the Arkansas, Mississippi & Louisiana Power & Light Companies, the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Co. and Louisiana & Arkansas & Texas Railway Co.; a director and member of the exceutive committee of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railway, and a director in many other corporations.

His first employment after he left the farm where he was born near Magnolia, Ark., was in a drug store. His business career started with the building of the first rural telephone line in southeast Arkansas on a capital of $170.

Will Not Frighten Jones.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Jesse H. Jones, appointed today by President Hoover to be one of the Democratic directors of the Nation's $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation, won't be frightened by the job or the amount of money involved.

The former Tennessee boy who used to work at odd jobs has lifted himself through the years to a position as one of the Southwest's most prominent capitalists and builders.

His friends believed the new job undoubtedly would appeal to him since it will bring into play the sort of work he particularly likes—building, or, in this case, rebuilding.

He has been fighting the depression ever since it started with all his might and with all the weight of his millions. It is an open secret that his has been a quiet rescue role in behalf of more than one local industry which has found itself temporarily in trouble. As to his own properties, he has exerted every effort to keep up the living standards of the employes and of that legion not a one, so far as ever has been learned, has been discharged because of hard times.

Friend of Woodrow Wilson.

He is tall, gray haired and distinguished in appearance. He is retiring, has no hobbies save work, unless the Democratic party and charity work might be hobbies, speaks publicly but infrequently, dresses conservatively and without regard for the mode.

He was a national figure in the Democratic party during the administration of Woodrow Wilson, his friend, though perhaps the Nation at large didn't know it, opening his big purse liberally for every campaign.

The one spectacular gesture of his life was performed without knowledge of his part that it would cause the stir it did, and was described by him as motivated simply to 'help" his home town, Houston, and his adopted State, Texas.

That was in 1928, when the Democratic leaders were trying to select a 1928 national convention city. There had been bidding and counter-bidding, but he ended it by laying down a signed certificate check and saying: "Gentlemen, fill in the amount you want." The convention came to Houston.

Convicted Motorist On Year Probation

Policeman Describes Driving That Sent Car Into Cemetery.

Convicted of reckless driving, John Heinbaugh, 1311 H street northeast, was placed on a year's probation by Traffic Judge Hitt yesterday.

According to Policeman C. L. Blackwell, Heinbaugh, whom he was pursuing, was hitting a speed of about 45 miles an hour on Bladensburg road. The fleeing car failed to make one of those eluding right-hand turns, and a high iron fence around the Mount Olivet Cemetery failed to withstand the assault the car inflicted.

The policeman said Heinbaugh's car ended up its flight just a few inches short of a tombstone. Attorney George Boden represented Heinbaugh.

MOSLEMS FIGHTING HINDUS IN KASHMIR

Outbreak Occurs as Viceroy Warns of Drastic Action Against Nationalists.

Jammu, India, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Troops were rushed tonight to villages in southern Kashmir, near the Punjab frontier, where 12,000 Moslems were reported to have risen in arms against the Hindus.

The Moslems, incited by maulvis (Moslem teachers) from the Punjab states, dispatches said, had attacked twelve villages, looting postoffices and burning houses.

The communal fighting was described as grave. The troops were sent to the district around Rajouri and Reasi, a few miles north of Naoshera near the frontier.

Mohammedans in Majority.

The bulk of the Kashmir population are Mohammedans, although the ruling race is Hindu. There long has been friction between the two races.

New Delhi, India, Jan. 25 (A.P.). Lord Willingdon, viceroy of India, informed the legislative assembly today that the British government will employ all the machinery at its command to crush the all-India National Congress.

In his inaugural address before the Indian Legislature, Lord Willingdon declared that no government worthy of the name could hesitate to accept Mahatma Gandhi's bold threat to plunge India anew into civil disobedience.

"I and my government are determined to use the full resources of the state in fighting and defeating a movement which would otherwise remain a perpetual menace to orderly government and individual liberty," he said.

Te viceroy asserted the Nationalists had used the Delhi truce, negotiated by Lord Irwin, former viceroy, and the mahatma as a cloak for further preparations for undermining the present government.

Emergency Ordinances Stay.

The emergency ordinances aimed at breaking the Nationalist campaign will not be modified in any way while the political situation makes it necessary to enforce them, he declared.

Despite reports to the contrary, Lord Willingdon continued, the country's economic, financial, and agricultural situation is as bright as that of any other nation.

He stoutly defended the government's policy of urging the export of gold, saying India's trade abroad was greatly benefited thereby and the country's credit materially strengthened in foreign markets.

Tariff Nominee Quiz Is Set Today

O'Brien and Ornburn to Appear Before Senate Finance Group.

(Associated Press.)

The qualifications of Robert Lincoln O'Brien, of Massachusetts, and Ira M. Ornburn, of Connecticut, to serve on the tariff commission will be inquired into today by the Senate finance committee. Opposition to both has been indicated.

O'Brien, a former Boston newspaperman, was nominated commission chairman to fill out the unexpired term of Henry P. Fletcher, Republican, resigned.

Ornburn was selected for the remainder of the term of a Maryland Democrat, the late Alfred P. Dennis. Nominees have been summoned to appear before the committee today.

Cicero Theater Front Is Shattered by Bomb

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—A dynamite bomb blew open the front of the Annetta Theater in Cicero early today, threw many occupants of neighborhood buildings out of bed and shattered windows for blocks around.

Benjamin Bartelstein, owner of the theater, said he believed the bombing was the result of a discharge notice he had served on his union picture machine operators.

their way to aid business, commerce, finance and agriculture. The four officials so far designated confer daily upon preliminary organization plans.

The nominations of Jones and Couch were sent to the Senate later in the day to join that of Charles G. Dawes as president in awaiting confirmation. The other board members, all ex-officio, are Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, and either Secretary Mellon or Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury.

Applications Received.

Senator Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland, and Senator Thomas (Republican), Idaho, conferred with President Hoover on proposals for relieving depositors in closed banks. The Idahoan is the author of a bill to appropriate $150,000,000 for this purpose.

They advised him, they said, it might be expedient to combine with it some of the provisions of the measure by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia), to revise the banking system.

With these already introduced on the Senate side, Chairman Steagall, of the House banking committee, is studying both and testimony about them so his committee may deal more quickly with the subject when a bill of this nature is submitted to it.

Postal Savings Accounts.

As another step for economic rehabilitation, Frederic A. Tilton, Third Assistant Postmaster General, indorsed before the House postoffice subcommittee yesterday legislation to increase from $2,500 to $10,000 the amount one person may deposit in postal savings accounts.

He thought this would put a billion and a half back into circulation, but representatives of the American Bankers Association disagreed and opposed it. They were R. C. Stephenson, of South Bend, past president, and T. B. Paton, of New York, general counsel.

Noell Named Personnel Officer of Credit Agency

J. Carroll Noell, assistant secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, yesterday was appointed personnel officer of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and at once began consideration of applications for the numerous clerical positions. His office for the present is in room 189½ of the Treasury Building.

Charles W. Hanford, chief clerk of the Federal Reserve Board, was temporarily placed in charge of the purchasing activity of the corporation and today will begin plans for equipment and supplies required in the offices to be set up in the old Commerce Building.

Ohio Bank Cashier Arrested.

Wellsville, Ohio, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Sheets, cashier of the People's National Bank here, was placed under arrest tonight at the request of Federal authorities at Cleveland, who charged he falsified bank records to cover an alleged defalcation of $40,000.

Field Engulfs Horse; Cavern Probe Slated

But that is exactly what E. J. Hiser saw while plowing in a cornfield on the McLeod farm near here. Hiser was using a team of two horses when one of the animals sank from sight. The victim was dragging its teammate with it, when the opening became choked. The second horse was extricated, but the first could not be rescued.

Explorations will be made this week to determine whether another large cavern, similar to those opened in recent years in Shenandoah County, lies under the farm.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC GETS COTTON BELT

(Associated Press.)

The Southern Pacific Co., largest of all American transportation systems, yesterday was authorized in an Interstate Commerce Commission decision to extend its properties nearly 2,000 miles into all of the important Mississippi River crossings between St. Louis and New Orleans.

Acquisition by the Great Western Railroad holding company of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway, also known as the Cotton Belt, was approved conditionally by the commission.

The action, taken over protest of the other Western transcontinental systems, gives the Southern Pacific direct access to St. Louis, Cairo, Ill.; Little Rock, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn.

It also materially alters the commission's position taken in its 1929 consolidation plan as to transcontinental lines. The decision allows a new line to enter St. Louis and Memphis in direct competition with the Missouri Pacific and changes the Cotton Belt from the proposed Illinois Central system.

During hearings, witnesses told the commission the cotton belt was in danger of bankruptcy from failure to meet its bond interest and maturities. It has $20,727,750 of 4 per cent bonds falling due on June 1, and proponents of the unification held the road probably would be unable to meet this burden.

On this point Commissioner Eastman dissented sharply. He said that while it may have been necessary to strengthen the cotton belt's financial position at this time, the commission should have placed a condition in its report requiring the Southern Pacific to relinquish the cotton belt after a period of years.

He also asserted the Illinois Central might be more willing to take over the road and be in better position to do so.

The commission required that present routes be maintained. To take care of the necessary capitalization of its purchases, the Southern Pacific was authorized to issue $6,626,80 of common stock consisting of 66,268 shares.

Man and Woman Lose Lives in Iowa Flames

Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Two persons were burned to death here early today in a fire that destroyed the Garden Theater, the Mandarin Inn and two retail stores. The victims were Sheer M. Yee, of Cedar Rapids, manager of the inn, and Mrs. Maud Kuhn, about 45, of Cedar Rapids, a dishwasher.

(Associated Press.)

Vincent Kerens yesterday asked the Supreme Court to decide whether he had behaved himself well enough to get the $2,000,000 which his father left him.

The father, Richard C. Kerens, of St. Louis, said his son was not to get the money until he proved he had stayed sober and been on his good behavior for five years.

The elder Kerens, former Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, died in 1916. In January, 1928, Vincent came forward and said that for five years beginning January 24, 1923, he had let liquor alone and had been a good citizen otherwise.

His two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Colket and Mrs. Madeline Kena, however, had their own ideas on good behavior These conflicting views have been in the courts ever since, the latest decision of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals going against Vincent.

The sisters apparently do not question Vincent's sobriety but they center on the circumstances surrounding his divorce from his first wife, Jane Henry Kerens, and his remarriage to Mrs. Mae Linn, of Dallas, where Vincent has spent much of his time since his father's death.

Former Senator Reed, Vincent's counsel, said that among other things the circuit court substituted its judgment of good behavior for that of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., custodian of the money left in trust for Vincent.

NEWS MEN'S ARREST AT BURIAL APPROVED

Richmond, Va., Jan. 25. (A.P.).—Motor Vehicle Director Frazier today informed Gov. Pollard that State Traffic Officer T. F. Stafford was justified in arresting four Washington news photographers during the funeral of Mrs. Spencer Ilsley at Middleburg, but he was wrong in striking one, and in being unnecessarily rough with the others. Mr. Frazier said the officer will be justly punished.

The report was the result of an investigation into complaints that followed the arrest of four photographers to prevent them from taking pictures of the murder victim's funeral.

The protests came from officials of the Washington Star and the Washington News, who claimed that their photographers had the permission of John Boeing, brother of Mrs. Ilsley, to take the pictures.

Denies Permission Given.

Mr. Frazier, in his report, quoted a telegram from Boeing and his brother Paul saying: "No permission was given to any photographers or reporters to photograph or use cameras at any incident during the recent tragedy in Virginia, and absolutely no permission was given to photograph the funeral."

Affidavits from Gen. William Mitchell, the Rev. D. Campbell Meyers, Officer Stafford, Maj. Turner Wiltshire, E. C. Downs (a Middleburg councilman), Robert B. Phillips, jr., of the Washington Star, and Dunbar Hare, of the Washington Times were quoted in the report.

All of the affidavits except those from the two newspapermen said, in effect, that the photographers were disturbing the funeral procession; that they refused to stop taking pictures when ordered by Officer Stafford to do so and that the arrests followed. They admitted that Joseph Roberts, of the Washington Herald, was knocked down by the officer.

Robert Phillips was quoted as saying that he felt he had a gentleman's agreement with John Boeing, giving the photographers permission to take pictures of the funeral procession, in return for the agreement of the photographers not to take any flashlight pictures of Mrs. Ilsley's father. Phillips and Hare both were reported to have said that Protographer Roberts was knocked down without any provocation.

Excerpts From Report.

Basing his opinion on the affidavits, Mr. Frazier's report to the governor concluded:

"While I believe that Inspector Stafford, in making the arrests to which I have referred was justified in such action, I do not approve of the manner in which the photographers were handled and am of the opinion that more force than necessary was used, although the officer was extremely provoked by the attitude and language of the photographers.

"Inspector Stafford violated a rule of this office in striking Joseph Roberts, a photographer. As this action was not taken in self-defense and can not be considered as having been absolutely necessary in the enforcement of any law for the violation of which Mr. Roberts might have been charged. For this action the inspector will be reprimanded and punished."

After their arrest, the photographers were released by a justice of the peace on the ground that there was no law to cover their case. Subsequently, Roberts had Stafford arrested on a charged of assault, but the case against the officer also was dismissed.

Soviet Sentences 7 for Train Wreck

Moscow, (Tuesday) Jan. 26 (A.P.). Seven of the eleven railroad employes charged with negligence in the wreck that took 68 lives near here three weeks ago were sentenced to prison for varying terms early today after a trial that lasted one week.

Another employe was convicted but received a sentence of one year "forced labor," which means that he is to work at his present job for that term at a 25 per cent reduction in pay. The three others were acquitted.

Maximum prison terms of ten years were imposed on Engineer Burak of the passenger train which crashed into the rear of a preceding passenger train that had stopped and on K. V. Samoilov, station master at Kosian, near the scene of the wreck.

A conductor, named Semiakin, was sentenced to eight years; an engineer, Antonov, to seven years; an assistant engineer, Golubev, to five years, and Conductors Kzazkov and Savushkin to eighteen months' imprisonment. The sentences of Kzazkov and Savushkin, however, were suspended.

Robbers Take $17,000 By Piercing Bank Vault

Los Angeles, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Robbers cut through the roof of a Bank of America branch and a 17-inch steel-and-concrete vault wall early today and escaped with $17,000.

Bundles of currency were found scattered about the floor, indicating a hurried departure.

HOWELL AND BECK ARGUE PROHIBITION

Senator Asks Alternative by Wets; Adversary Says Funds May Be Cut.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, and Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, last night debated prohibition over the radio.

Representative Beck advocated his proposed substitute for the eighteenth amendment which would give every State the right to determine how it will regulate the liquor traffic within its borders, "yet gives the dry States not only their reserved rights but the added power of the Federal Government to protect them in the full enforcement of their prohibitory laws."

Senator Howell said if this amendment were adopted "we would not know what system of liquor legislation Congress would enact, nor what any State would adopt."

Demands Program of Wets.

"Before we are asked to vote upon a change in the Constitution," the Nebraskan added, "the opponents of prohibition should unite upon some definite program of liquor legislation that will inform the people how they propose to legislate to deal with the social evils flowing from the use of alcoholic beverages. Until we know we can not vote intelligently."

Howell added: "The amendment would increase the difficulties of law enforcement by adding to the national borders the boundaries of the 48 States, each having a different system of liquor legislation. * * * The dry States know by experience that neither the wet States nor the Federal Government, under such a policy, manifest any interest in protecting dry territory from the invasion of liquor dealers from wet territory.

"This amendment would guarantee saloons in wet territory, but make impossible effective enforcement of a prohibitory law in a dry State."

May Block Inforcing Funds.

Representative Beck conceded "that no provision of the Constitution should be resubmitted to the people unless there be a considerable sentiment in favor of such resubmission."

"But no fair-minded man can question the existence of such a sentiment today," he said. "* * * This is so palpable that many ardent and sincere drys, in and out of Congress, are now willing to resubmit the eighteenth amendment. Only the fanatical drys oppose."

He asserted that it is "unfortunately within the power of a minority of the American people to block the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment," but said if this continues the people "through their representatives in Congress, acting under a clear constitutional right to determine expenditures, will refuse to appropriate one penny to enforce an unenforceable law."

Jacket Frocks
For Morning, Noon and Night

Sometimes one can hardly recognize the Eton inspiration, for jackets in the daytime are often double breasted with a military air—are deliciously feminine with fagotting in the afternoon—and are charming in the evening, of peau d'ange.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER had as their guest at the White House yesterday Mr. Ignace Paderewski, who had luncheon and dinner with them. They had a company at dinner including Mr. Paderewski and the guests Mrs. Hoover had in her box at his concert following.

Mrs. Hoover was the guest of honor at the luncheon yesterday at the Willard of Mrs. John Jay O'Connor at the report luncheon of the Metropolitan and Group Solicitation Units of the Community Chest.

Mrs. Hoover has taken a box for the concert this afternoon of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York, in Constitution Hall, when she will entertain a few guests.

Notable Audience at Paderewski Concert.

Mrs. Hoover occupied a box at the benefit concert of Ignace Jan Paderewski, who is giving five in this country for the benefit of the unemployed, the proceeds of the concerts to be turned over to the Red Cross fund. Mrs. Hoover is sponsoring these concerts and has a committee of distinguished women working with her.

Mrs. Hoover had with her Mrs. Taft, widow of the Chief Justice; Mrs. Connor, wife of Gen. W. D. Connor, commandant at the Army War College; Mrs. Hart, wife of Admiral Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and Miss Hart; Mrs. Edgar Rickard, a guest at the White House; Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Mrs. Butler, secretary to Mrs. Hoover and wife of one of the aids at the White House; Mrs. Stark McMullin and two of the aids at the White House.

An audience of almost unprecedented brilliance greeted the veteran musician, a veritable grand opera audience, especially in the tier of boxes, where there were leading officials of the Government, of the Diplomatic Corps and members of smart resident society.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, attended the concert as the guests of Senator and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour, whose other guests were Senator and Mrs. Jesse Metcalf.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur had with them Representative and Mrs. Oscar B. Lovett and Mr. Joseph Sigall.

The Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes had with them the Attorney General and Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lord O'Brien.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, gave his box for the concert to the Counselor of the Embassy and Mme. Sokolowski, who had as their guests Mme. Massalska, Mme. Zazulincka, Mme. Msciska, and Mme. Poradzewska, all wives of members of the embassy staff.

The United States Ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss attended with a group of guests.

Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich had with them the latter's daughters, Miss Dora White and Miss Janet White.

Representative and Mrs. Watson had as guests in their box Senator and Mrs. Tasker N. Oddie and Mrs. Watson's daughter, Miss Janet Ball.

Miss Alice Clapp gave her box to Mrs. Emma Knorr, one of Washington's leading pianists, who had as her guests a group of well known local pianists, including Miss Minna Neimann, Miss Frances Gutelius and Miss Priska Casnar.

Mrs. Stokes Halkett's guests in her box included Gen. and Mrs. Samuel Hof, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Richmond and Mrs. Robert Hinckley.

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert presented her box to Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Hetzel.

Others who had boxes were the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi, Senator and Mrs. David Aiken Reed, Senator and Mrs. Hamilton Fish Kean, Senator Frederic C Walcott, the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, the Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Representative and Mrs. Richard B. Wigglesworth, Representative and Mrs. Edward W. Goss, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, Mrs. Edward C. Walker, Mrs. Stokes Halkett and Mr. C. Bascom Slemp.

Mrs. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, will not be at home tomorrow.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Charles Alger and Mrs. J. W. Lyman, sister of former Gov. Hadley of Missouri, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the National Woman's Country Club. Covers were laid for 45 guests.

Senator Morrison Speaks on Robert Burns.

Senator Cameron Morrison was the guest of honor at the weekly forum luncheon which the Woman's National Democratic Club gave yesterday. Mrs. Morrison and their daughter, Miss Morrison, accompanied him. Others at the speaker's table with them were Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. John H. Small, Mrs. Pickens, Dr. and Mrs. Edward B. Meigs and Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant.

Mrs. Ogilvie Shumate entertained a party at the luncheon, her guests including Miss Madeline Erskine, Mrs. William Tewksbury, Mrs. J. C. Peacock, Mrs. William A. Morgan, Mrs. E. W. Titus, Mrs. Thomas Wadden and Mrs. Edward W. Pou.

Others at the luncheon were Mrs. Charles Hamlin, Mrs. W. S. Conant, Mrs. O. M. Spencer, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Peter J. McGovern, Mrs. Josephus Trimble, Mrs. Oliver C. Townsend, Miss Bell Snyder, Mrs. J. C. Tribby, Mrs. E. B. Prettyman, Mrs. Lewis J. Battle, Miss Evie Morris, Mrs. Harry Fulton, Mrs. J. N. Hay, Mrs. Rufus Weaver, Mrs. W. E. Myer, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Edward Keating, Mrs. Moncure Berg, Mrs. James T. Newton, Mrs. William L. Beale, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. M. F. Thompson, Mrs. William D. Sterrett, Mrs. Ewin Davis, Mrs. Peyton C. March, Mrs. Fred Essary, Mrs. Randolph Leigh, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. Jouett Shouse and Mrs. J. C. Breckenridge.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, will return to Washington today from New York where he has been for several days. Last evening he attended a dinner given for Miss Lilian Wald. Saturday evening the ambassador entertained a group of guests at the Paderewski concert in New York. His box for the concert here last evening was occupied by members of the embassy staff.

Senator Bayard Cutting and Mrs. Cutting have engaged a box for the Philharmonic Symphony concert this afternoon at Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Cameron Morrison, wife of the senator from North Carolina, will not be at home on Thursday, but will receive on Thursday, February 4, at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, wife of Senator Copeland, has issued invitations for a tea on February 18 at the Shoreham.

Mrs. Chester C. Bolton, wife of Representative Bolton, with their two sons, Charles Bingham Bolton and Kenyon Castle Bolton, have gone to Palm Beach, Fla., where they are in their home, Il Torre de Suenos, for the winter.

observing the Bicentennial in a way that will impress its full meaning upon the hearts and minds of the young people enrolled in their classes.

"The best of luck to The Post Essay contestants," concluded Miss McCall.

In response to several inquiries, The Post Essay Editor wishes to inform the contestants that the Washington Booklet sent to them through the courtesy of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission is simply a guide to accurate facts on the life of George Washington. Under no circumstances should parts of this booklet be copied into essays verbatim unless such matter is put under quotes. Data can be obtained from any reliable reference work as well.

Among the new essays received yesterday were those from the following: Mary Nancy Spinks, 14, Kensington, Md.; Marie Keitz, 11, Takoma Park, Md.; Eleanor Stewart, 13, Cherrydale, Va.

By ——

"About the time of Washington's surveying campaigns in the mountains, a great colonizing scheme had been started that destined to enlist him in hardy enterprises, and in some way to shape the course that he would take in the future.

"The long rivalry between France and England was soon to end in a war for the ownership of North America. All the country between the Allegheny Mountains and Mississippi River was claimed by the French, but the English would not admit this claim. In 1849 an organization known as the 'Ohio Company' was hired by the English to go promptly and occupy the Ohio Valley. Many of the chief men of Virginia and Maryland belonged to this organization, and Lawrence Washington was its chief manager.

"While they were busily engaged in preparations the French were already occupying the valley. They established forts at Presque Isle and at Venango. This caused a warlike stir in the English colonies, especially in Virginia, where Washington, at the age of 19, was adjutant general of the district. About this time he made a trip to the Barbadoes with his brother in quest of his health. The journey did his brother no good, for he died when he returned home in 1752.

"Soon afterwards Gov. Dinwiddie made up his mind to send a commissioner to Venango to warn off the French intruders and to secure the help of the Indian tribes. Nothing in all of Washington's career is more remarkable than this act of Gov. Dinwiddie in choosing Washington as the commissioner for this difficult and dangerous enterprise, as he was only 21 years of age at the time. His woodland experiences fitted him for the journey and as his brother had confided in him a great deal he was well informed about the affairs of the Ohio Company.

"After a very adventurous journey he reached Venango and gave Gov. Dinwiddie's letter to the French commandant to leave peacably. The commandant, after much thought, intrusted Washington with a sealed reply.

"On his return trip Washington encountered many hostile Indians. Once an attempt to draw him into an ambush was made, but he escaped safely. Finally he overcame all the dangers and acquired the promise of the friendly Indians that they would help the English in the war against the French.

Returned Home in 1754.

"When Washington arrived at home in 1754, he found that he was already famous. From that moment on he was rising in the eyes of the people of Virginia."

Those who applied for the Washington booklets yesterday were:

FAMOUS PORTRAIT OF WASHINGTON WILL BE LOANED BY HARVARD

The famous Edward Savage portrait of President George Washington, owned by Harvard University, will be among the famous portraits loaned to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission to be used in the national historical loan exhibition which will be held in Washington from March 14 to November 26, 1932, in the United States National Museum.

This will be the first time since it was donated to Harvard University in 1792 that the portrait has ever left that institution. The decision of Harvard to loan the precious portrait to the United States Government for its exhibition was made known in a letter just received by Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, from Edward W. Forbes, director of the Fogg Art Museum at Harvard, in which the university agreed to send the portrait to the National Capital.

George Washington sat for this portrait in December of 1789 and during 1790, and it is considered a wonderful likeness of the First President at that time.

There are more than 100 original portraits of Washington in existence, and it is the intention of the commission to assemble all of these in the exhibit if possible. Some of them are located abroad. In addition, the commission plans also to place in the exhibition portraits of President Washington's Cabinet, as well as members of the United States Supreme Court serving during Washington's two administrations.

THE SIX BUSHELS OF SALT.

In the commencement of the year 1780, the army under Washington suffered a great scarcity of provisions and its effects were felt even at headquarters as appears by the following anecdote:

"We have nothing but rations to cook, sir," said Mrs. Thompson, a very worthy Irish woman and housekeeper to Gen. Washington. "Well, Mrs. Thompson, you must cook the rations then; for I have not a cent to give you." "If you please, sir, let one of the gentlemen give me an order for six bushels of salt." "Six bushels of salt for what?" "To preserve the fresh beef, sir." One of the aids gave the order, and the next day His Excellency's table was amply provided. Mrs. Thompson was sent for and told that she had done very wrong to spend her own money for it was not known when she could be repaid. "I owe you," said His Excellency, "too much already to permit the debt being increased, and our situation is not at this moment such as to induce very sanguine hope." "Dear sir," said the good old lady, "it is always darkest just before daylight, and I hope Your Excellency will forgive me for bartering the salt for other necessaries, which are now on the table." Salt was $8 a bushel and might always be exchanged with the country people for articles of provision.

Tinkham Denies Immunity Waiver

Reply to Bishop Cannon's Suit for $500,000 Hits Claim for Libel.

Representative George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts, yesterday reiterated that he is immune from Bishop James Cannon's $500,000 libel suit. Through Attorney Roger J. Whitford he filed an answer to the recent court action of the Methodist bishop in which it was claimed that Mr. Tinkham had waived his congressional immunity.

As the involved case now stands, Bishop Cannon sued Representative Tinkham six weeks ago for $500,000 damages, declaring that he had been libeled in a statement the representative handed to newspapermen on the front steps of the Capitol.

Mr. Tinkham filed an answer claiming congressional immunity. The bishop followed with an answer to the answer, stating that the representative had waived his congressional immunity when he stepped from the House and presented the paper to newspapermen. Yesterday's answer asserts that Representative Tinkham did not waive immunity, because under the Constitution and rulings by the courts it was impossible for him to waive it.

United Mine Workers To Meet in Harmony

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25 (A.P.). With harmony apparently prevailing, and economic conditions emphasizing the need for cooperation, more than 1,000 delegates gathered here tonight for the thirty-second biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America. The convention opens tomorrow morning.

Unemployment relief, wage and working policies, and conditions of the entire coal industry are scheduled as major issues to come before the delegates. Standing committees, including those on resolutions, scale, constitution, credentials and appeals and grievances, held preliminary meetings at international headquarters today.

ARLINGTON-FAIRFAX DIRECTORS ELECTED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting in the offices of the treasurer of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co. yesterday at Clarendon, the stockholders elected the following directors: P. E. Dewey, Mrs. K. H. Echols, Howard B. Fields, Dr. J. B. Gould, W. R. Gray, Charles T. Jesse, Ashton C. Jones, Harris Levy, Julius Parmelee, Carrol C. Shreve, Dr. Frank T. Stone, Dr. T. M. Talbott, B. M. Smith and R. Walton Moore.

The directors will meet early in February, at which time officers will be elected.

President Julius Parmelee, in his report to the directors, said:

"The net operating income for the year 1931 was $8,447.39 compared with $2,405.17 for the year 1930.

Two Unfavorable Factors.

"The operating revenues in 1931 were effected by two unfavorable factors: First, the prevailing business depression, which reduced travel on the cars, particularly on the part of those who normally use the service for shopping or recreational purposes, and second, obstacles in the way of efficient operation through the terminal area in Washington, especially after the Federal Government began to tear down the buildings in the area and to excavate around and under our tracks. This was aggravated by road changes at the Virginia end of the Highway Bridge, in connection with the widening of U. S. route 1, and the development of the new boulevard to Mount Vernon. These changes required several shiftings of the tracks and greatly hampered operations. Under all these circumstances, your board of directors feels that the company made an excellent showing.

"The net operating income for the year, as already stated, was the largest of any year in the history of your company, a result that was attained only by the exercise of greatest economy and efficiency of operation on the part of the management.

Arranges for Service.

"Temporary arrangements have been made with R. L. May, proprietor of the A. B. & W. Rapid Transit, to handle passengers between Arlington Junction and Pennsylvania avenue, both our cars and his being operated to and from Arlington Junction on the same schedule as heretofore."

Richmond, Va., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The State Corporation Commission today took under advisement the petition of the Arlington & Fairfax Railway seeking authority to supplement its present trolley car service by motor bus passenger service over a portion of its route from Fairfax and Arlington Counties to the City of Washington.

The petition, which was opposed by the Arnold Bus Lines, resulted from the loss by the railway company of terminal facilities in the City of Washington.

Nearby Maryland To Aid Jobless

Montgomery County Will Give Work to Needy in That Section.

Headquarters for unemployment relief work in Montgomery County, Md., will be set up in the juvenile court suite of the Rockville (Md.) Courthouse, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Robert D. Hagner, wife of County Commissioner Hagner, of Bethesda District, will serve as secretary-treasurer.

A survey of unemployment in the county showed that only about 1 per cent of the population, or about 500 persons, are looking for work at present, with another 1 per cent unemployed or underemployed, but not looking for work.

Work will be provided as far as possible out of the unemployment fund on cleaning parks, roads and school grounds and other such jobs as may be found available. Payment will not exceed $2 a day and the work will not be given more than three or four days a week to the same persons.

Cannon Reelected Takoma Bank Head

Prayers at Cathedral Pay Tribute; Altar Desk Is Presented.

Prayers of commemoration were read at Washington Cathedral yesterday in memory of the anniversary of the consecration of the late Right Rev. Alfred Harding, second Bishop of Washington, on January 25, St. Paul's Day, in 1909.

It was announced that an oaken altar desk for use in the Chapel of the Resurrection of Washington Cathedral, had been received as a gift from the Pennsylvania Club of the National Cathedral School for Girls.

The desk was made from oak grown on the site of the Washington Cathedral. The altar desk bears an inscription that it is a memorial to Bishop Harding.

KEECH RAPS ORDER ON TAXICAB METERS

Files Memorandum Averring That Commission Acted Without Authority.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech yesterday filed in District Supreme Court a memorandum attacking the Public Utilities Commission order requiring all taxicabs in Washington to install meters. The brief, drawn in connection with the pending litigation started by the Bell and City Cab companies, was signed also by the Federation of Citizens Association, the Federation of Business Men's Associations and attorneys for the two cab companies.

The memorandum bases its attack on two contentions: (1) That the commission is without authority to require meters on taxicabs and (2) that the order is unreasonable in point of fact.

The litigation over the taxicab order is now held up temporarily while the commission studies the additional testimony offered at the court hearing and reports on whether it is considered important enough to require a modification of the order. The effective date of the order has consequently been postponed until 60 days after the District Supreme Court rules on the appeals.

Two points are offered by Mr. Keech to support his contention that the commission is without authority to require taxicabs to install meters. First, he calls attention to a District Supreme Court ruling which held that any order requiring meters where the charge is not made on a mileage basis is unreasonable and void. And, second, he points out that neither the public utility act nor the traffic act give the commission specific authority to require meters on cabs.

The brief also repeats what Mr. Keech suggested to the commission in a recent memorandum, namely, that many operators are eager to continue the zone system of operation and that the commission might authorize both the zone and the meter systems so that the public could designate its preference.

Curtis, 72, Is Told He Looks Only 35

(Associated Press.)

Vice President Curtis was 72 years old yesterday, but he was told in the Senate that he looked only about half that. Tributes were paid from both Republican and Democratic sides of the chamber.

In calling attention to the occasion, Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, turned smilingly to the somewhat embarrassed occupant of the chair and said: "From this viewpoint he looks about 45." The New Yorker paid tribute to the personal qualities of the Vice President who, he said, had always been "fair and just and kind."

Mr. Curtis replied simply that he was "very much pleased." Senator Jones, of Washington, added a Republican word of compliment, saying Mr. Curtis looked about 35 rather than 45 mentioned by Copeland.

Motorist and Victim Sought in 2 Accidents

An unidentified accident victim and an unidentified motorist were being sought by police last night after a double accident at Seventh and P streets northwest.

G. W. Stilson, 20 years old, of Takoma Park, told police he was headed north on Seventh street yesterday afternoon and had stopped for a street car which was discharging passengers. His machine was struck from the rear by another, he said, throwing it forward and knocking down a man who had just alighted from the street car. In the excitement both the victim and the other driver disappeared, according to police.

DEMANDS ACCEPTED, IS JAPANESE REPORT

boycott against Japanese goods and of all other organizations whose activities are "directed against Japan."

This time a time limit would be placed upon Chinese consideration of the Japanese ultimatum, the report said.

Although there was a general feeling the Chinese had no alternative than to accept, Chinese officials denied the Japanese reports and reiterated that all the Japanese demands still were being negotiated.

Japanese Plane Brought Down.

Tokyo learned Chinese irregulars in Manchuria had brought down a Japanese army airplane, killing its two occupants.

In Geneva the council of the League of Nations reconvened and again encountered the Manchurian problem. China's spokesman demanded immediate action to stop the Japanese military, and declared that in all history there were "few parallels to such cynical defiance of treaty obligations" as has been shown by Japan in the Manchurian affair.

The Japanese representative answered that military advances in the province had been made necessary by bandit activities. He admitted the situation at Shanghai was critical, but said it was "not the Japanese who made it so."

HYATTSVILLE SEEKS BETTER CAR SERVICE

Chamber of Commerce Also to Study Complaint on Telephone Rates.

The questions of better street car service on Saturday afternoons, improved bus service and lower electric light and telephone rates were referred to the public utilities committee of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce after a meeting last night where most of last year's officers were reelected.

M. T. May, head of the utilities committee, said that he had had complaints about the service on the G street line between 1 and 2 o'clock on Saturday. He reported he had asked the company for their schedule during this hour to compare it with the service given between 4:30 and 5:30 on other days, but that so far had no reply.

In response to another complaint about the bus service in West Hyattsville, from the terminal at Tenth and E streets northwest, the utilities committee was instructed to cooperate with the Hyattsville Town Council to work for better service.

To Study Electric Rates.

Mr. May was told to study the proposed electric reductions in Washington to learn whether they would also apply to nearby Maryland, as they have in the past. The complaint about telephone rates came from a resident of College Park, who objected to a charge of 10 cents for Washington calls.

The committee to report on the proposal to change the name of the Chamber reported favorably, suggesting that the organization be called "The Prince Georges Chamber of Commerce."

An invitation to join the county taxpayers' association was received, but will not be acted upon until a committee has investigated the association to discover whether it has any political purposes.

Trash Dumps Discussed.

The question of dumping trash in the county and the extension of Rhode Island avenue along the present street car tracks as far as Beltsville also was discussed. It was stated that a committee had been appointed to set the location of ten public dumps in the county. This led to a discussion of the trash disposal, when it was suggested that the Suburban Sanitary Commission might take over the problem. A letter stating that the State Roads Commission would concentrate its roadside planting along the Baltimore boulevard was read.

The proposed extension of Rhode Island avenue is on the map of work planned by the Park and Planning Commission, it was revealed, although the right-of-way has not been obtained.

Neale Named Head Of Catholic Group

Washington Body of Holy Name Organization Elects Attorney.

William Joseph Neale, an attorney, was elected president of the Washington section of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies at the annual convention last night at Holy Trinity Parish Hall. Mr. Neale is known for his successful prosecution of the Charles Ponzi fraud case in Boston, twelve years ago. He is from St. Anne's Parish.

Lieut. Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, was named vice president. Other officers elected are Francis A. McCann, of Immaculate Conception Parish, secretary; John J. Curtin, of St. Joseph's Parish, treasurer, and P. Frank Hannan, of St. Matthew's Parish, marshal.

Mgr. Eugene J. Connelly is spiritual adviser of the section. Forty parishes were represented at the convention, which was attended by 240 delegates. The Rev. J. J. Bernard, assistant pastor of Holy Trinity Church, was host. He was aided by John C. Gartland, president of Holy Trinity Holy Name Society.

G. A. Bessler Dies; Retired Fireman

Succumbs to Heart Disease After 8-Week Illness; Lehigh Alumnus.

George A. Bessler, retired lieutenant of the District Fire Department, died yesterday in his home at 500 Oneida place northwest, after an illness of eight weeks. Death was due to heart disease.

Lieut. Bessler, who was 49 years old, served for 25½ years on the Fire Department. He was retired December 16, 1930, due to physical disabilities incurred in line of duty. He was first stationed at No. 8 Engine Co., and later served at No. 25 Engine Co. When he was appointed to the lieutenancy December 16, 1928, he was transferred to No. 15 Engine Co. He was an alumnus of Lehigh College.

He is survived by his wife and four daughters, Miss Catherine M. Bessler, Miss Margaret E. Bessler, Miss Louise Bessler and Mrs. Thelma Bickford, all of Washington. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Chases End in Capture Of 2 Alleged Rum Cars

Two alleged liquor cars and two prisoners were captured yesterday by police after short chases. One of the machines was taken, police said, after it had crashed into a store at Second and D streets southwest.

Pvt. W. C. Grooms, of the First Precinct, charged Earl Jethro Green, 25 years old, of Curtis Bay, Md., with transportation of 108 half gallons of whisky. He said he arrested the man after a chase, at New Jersey avenue and G street northwest. After a pursuit, the Fourth Precinct radio car captured a machine and 38 half gallons of whisky when the occupants jumped out, leaving the car in gear. It crashed a wall. Robert Parks, 22 years old, colored, of 616 K street southwest, failed to outrun the police, they said. He was booked for investigation.

Masonic Temple Group Opens Alexandria Office

The committee in charge of plans for the celebration on May 12 in connection with formal dedication of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple has opened headquarters at the Scottish Rite Club, Alfred and Cameron streets, Alexandria. Dr. Robert South Barrett is in charge, and sufficient staff will be maintained.

Drive Back Pursuer With Shots After Robbing Grocery.

Three bandits, who had been forced to wreck their car against a fence, escaped last night when they drew guns and fired several shots at their civilian pursuer who had forced them off the road at Fifth and A streets southeast.

The chase started at the store of Charles Gotkin, 301 D street southeast. Three colored men came in and held pistols on William Gotkin, 19 years old, clerk. One of the men took $25 from the cash register. Dottie Carroll, colored 305 D street southeast, came in to buy some articles. She was herded into a corner.

The bandits hurried from the store and the woman shouted to her nephew, Ellsworth Colbert, 28 years old, of 305 D street, to "catch those men!" Colbert leaped into his car and started after the bandits, who left in a sedan. Meanwhile, young Gotlin awakened his father and told him of the robbery, and then joined in the chase, but stopped at the Fourth Precinct to get police. Colbert overtook the bandits when they wrecked their car trying to make a turn from Fifth into A street. Colbert ran towards the men, but they drove him back with two shots. They escaped. Police have their car.

Capper Approves Theater Seat Bill

Would Penalize Owners for Misrepresenting Number of Them Available.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, yesterday favorably reported to the Senator Senator Robert D. Carey's bill to penalize theater owners guilty of misrepresenting the number of available seats for any show.

"Many theater patrons prefer to stand in the theater or the lobby with the hope of getting a desirable seat," the report stated. "The committee does not quarrel with this procedure, but believes theater owners or operators should not deceive the public regarding seating facilities for the purpose of packing as many persons as possible into the lobbies and lounges."

It was stated that the bill, which requires posting of signs when seats are all taken, "will work no undue hardship on theater operators, some of whom already are taking the steps suggested."

Hawes Put at Head Of Jefferson Group

Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, was elected president of the Society for a National Capital Memorial to Thomas Jefferson at a meeting in the Carlton Hotel last night. He succeeds Grattan Kerans, one of the society's founders.

Breckinridge Long, Charles A. Douglas, and Mrs. Harriet Saunders, president of the District Home and School Association, were named to serve on the board of governors.

Louis E. Cramton, former representative from Michigan, told the society that Jefferson should be commemorated in Washington equally with George Washington and Lincoln and lauded its purpose of backing the erection of a monumental building to Jefferson. Mrs. Saunders told of Jefferson's part in organizing the District public schools.

Tax Bills Are Opposed By Deanwood Residents

Opposition to the Mapes tax bills was expressed last night by the Deanwood Civic Association, which met in Deanwood School. The group also announced they would attempt to secure the paving of Sheriff road as soon as money is available for condemnation proceedings.

As school children must now walk more than a mile out of their way to classes, the association approved a measure which would create a right of way over Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Meade street. Officers named were T. M. Tolliver, president; E. C. Compton, vice president; J. H. Fears, treasurer; A. E. Jessup, secretary; M. A. Shumate, assistant secretary, and J. W. Sheppard, chaplain.

Scots Group Hears Senator Morrison

North Carolinian Talks at 77th Annual Dinner of St. Andrew's Body.

Senator Cameron Morrison, of North Carolina, was the principal speaker last night at the Seventy-seventh annual dinner of St. Andrew's Society of Washington, held in the Lee House.

Senator Morrison spoke on the life of Robert Burns. Gen. Robert U. Patterson, surgeon general, U. S. A., addressed the dinner on famous Scotchmen in the early days of the Army.

Others present included Representative Robert Crosser, of Ohio; Douglas Burnett, of the Baltimore St. Andrew's Society, and George Mann, also of Baltimore. Robert W. Bruce, president of the society, presided. A program of entertainment and daneing followed the banquet.

Mrs. Ella May Peverell Dies.

Mrs. Ella May Peverell, 57 years old, widow of James G. Peverell, died yesterday in her home at 118 North Columbus street, Alexandria, after a long illness. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. Alton Sullivan; two brothers, Arthur H. and William J. Mitchell, of Washington. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

BROKEN SKULL KILLS MAN THOUGHT DRUNK

Body Is Still Unidentified; Inquest Slated Today; Driver Is Held.

The identity of a man, who died of a fractured skull in Casualty Hospital early yesterday after being held for more than 24 hours on a charge of drunkenness at First Police Precinct, was still uncertain last night as his body was removed to the District Morgue to await a coroner's inquest at 12 o'clock today.

Although he told police his name was Charles E. Williams, 38 years old, of Pottsville, Pa., investigation disclosed he was known also by other names.

The man was arrested Friday when Policeman L. Ballies saw him staggering along a downtown street. He was charged with being drunk and placed in a cell. Later he was sent to Gallinger Hospital, where physicians found he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Policeman R. L. Mason, of the First Precinct, read newspaper accounts of the case, and recalled an accident in which a man, who answered the same description, had been injured. It was learned he had been treated at Casualty Hospital under the name of Charles E. Gleason. A physician, who identified the man as "Gleason" at the morgue last night, said he refused to remain after receiving treatment for a possible fractured skull.

Pottsville police were notified, and wired that the man was believed to be Howell Kinzie, of that city. Authorities there said later that the description did not tally.

Walter Roland Ellis, 30 years old, of Cheltenham, Md., was arrested by Prince Georges County police and brought to Washington. He was held for action of a coroner's jury after it is alleged the car he was driving struck the man.

It was also learned that a man answering the dead man's description was released from prison at Occoquan, Va., on January 15, after serving a term for intoxication. The name "Williams" was used at that time.

Pilot Expertly Lands Plane as Motor Stops

A skillful landing in a small and muddy field in Bladensburg yesterday saved Gus Michael, of New York, from serious injury when the engine of his plane failed while en route to Washington.

Although the engine faltered and stopped, Mr. Michael easily repaired it while on the ground and took off again. He was alone in the plane at the time. The field was one lying between the northwest branch of the Anacostia River and the freight branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Fairfax Bar Fights 8th District Change

Plea Made to Conserve Virginia Area Near Nation's Capital.

The Fairfax County Bar Association, at its first quarterly meeting this year, added its protest to the proposed division of the Eighth Virginia Congressional District, which is now under consideration in the General Assembly of the State. The association passed a resolution asking the Legislature to maintain the integrity of the Eighth District, adding only the necessary counties to give it the population required by law. The resolution stated that because of the district's proximity to the Nation's Capital and peculiar problems which arise, the interests of the State and its people can best be represented by a continuation of the district.

The County Bar Association also went on record as favoring Gov. Pollard's recommendations for reorganising county governments. This would allow the people to select one of three forms of local government, which would be more economical than under the present system.

Officers of the association for the ensuing year elected were Frederick D. Richardson, president; F. Shield McCandlish, vice president; Paul E. Brown, secretary, and John M. Whalen, treasurer.

Kensington Board Elects Cleveland

Secretary of Commerce Chamber Advanced by His Colleagues.

W. I. Cleveland was elected president of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting last night in the Kensington School. Mr. Cleveland has served with distinction as secretary of the chamber since its organization. Other officers elected were: R. H. Akers, first vice president; H. D. Appleby, second vice president; H. S. Bean, secretary; C. W. Lane, treasurer.

Chairmen of committees announced last night by Mr. Cleveland were: Leroy Rodgers, membership; R. F. Green, public improvement; Harry M. Martin, legislation and legal action; J. T. Lewis, public safety, fire protection and fire insurance; H. W. Wanner, industrial interests; R. H. Chappell, roads, streets and bridges; H. W. McGinniss, publicity and entertainment; W. F. Hay, sanitation and public health; Will Wagner, charities and social service; Wilson L. Townsend, public utilities, and Charles D. Bohannan, schools.

The meeting was followed by a talking motion picture portraying features of the telephone service, loaned by H. C. Ransom, Montgomery County manager for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

Beverley Is Confirmed As Porto Rico Governor

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of James R. Beverley, of Texas, to be Governor of Porto Rico. The nomination of Edgar J. Goodrich, of West Virginia, to be a member of the Board of Tax Appeals also was confirmed.

The Senate judiciary committee referred to a subcommittee for inquiry the nomination of Joseph C. Shaffer as attorney for western Virginia.

Gloth Divorce Suit In Supreme Court

Attorney Contends Former Arlington Official Not in Contempt.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The Supreme Court of Appeals today heard argument in the divorce case of former Commonwealth's Attorney William G. Gloth, of Arlington County. John S. Barbour, of Washington, who appeared for Mr. Gloth today, argued that his client was not in contempt of the Arlington County Circuit Court when he ceased making weekly payments of alimony to his former wife after Mrs. Gloth had been charged with flagrant misconduct in a Washington park in 1928.

Argument of counsel for both sides was largely of a technical nature, and was virtually the same as presented by the same attorneys when the case was before the Supreme Court before, with a similar point involved.

After the Arlington Court held Gloth in contempt the first time, he appealed and was granted a new trial. The lower court held him in contempt again. The second appeal now is before the Appellate Court.

Brighton School Leads Montgomery Attendance

Brighton, one-teacher school, had the best attendance record of any school in Montgomery County in December, the report of the board of education shows. The school had an average attendance of 98 per cent. This was an improvement over its record of 92.7 per cent in the same month last year. The county elementary school attendance was 91, which was below last year's 92.5, and high school improved from last year's 90.9 to 92.8.

Other schools awarded banners for having the best attendance in their respective classes and the percentages of attendance were: Darnestown, two-teacher school, 96.9; Colesville, graded school, 94.6; Rockville, seventh and eighth grade junior high, 95; Takoma-Silver Spring, ninth grade junior high, 94.9; Fairland, senior high school, 94.6.

CAN YOU SHUT YOUR EYES and SAY NO ?

—When Thousands and Thousands of sick—crippled—homeless and dependent Washingtonians need YOU!

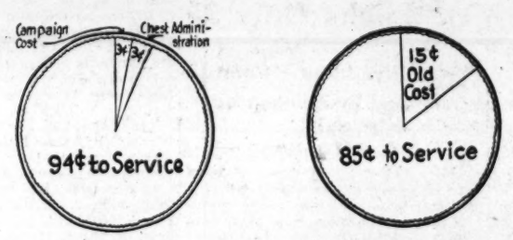
Mothers working long hours to support their families can leave their children in care of the nurseries supported by the Community Chest

Old people whose days of usefulness are over and who have lost all friends and relatives are the most grateful of all for the merciful work of the Community Chest Agencies

Hospital care, too, is given to those who need it but who have no money to pay for relief from their sufferings.



Cost of Community Chest

Financial Cost Before Community Chest

More than one-fifth of the Washington Community Chest money is spent on children—giving them a chance in life, a chance to grow up and become useful, self-supporting citizens.

You can shut your eyes—yes. But—you can't—no you can't shut out the misery and the suffering and the poverty that are raging through your city today. No matter how drastic has been the cut in your own income—you still have plenty to eat and warm clothes to wear. Thousands of your fellow Washingtonians aren't that fortunate. They are hungry and without jobs. Winter weather will find them unprotected and may see many ill and helpless.

There never was a time when your dollars could do so much good as they can today—right here in your own city! Your dollars can bring medicine to the sick, food to the hungry, skilled services to the crippled and diseased, tender care to the aged and weak.

You will sleep better during the troubled winter nights that are just ahead knowing that your dollars are at work on these errands of healing and mercy. You will be genuinely thankful at the realization that you didn't shut your eyes—that you couldn't say no!

NOW, more than ever, GIVE!

MAKING GRAND SLAMS.

TO bid a Grand Slam and then to find that the making of it rests upon the taking of a successful finesse is almost a major crime among skillful Contract players. The rule laid down in bidding Slams and followed by those who play the game with success is that a Small Slam should be bid when the chances of making it are about even. A Grand Slam should only be bid, however, when practically every chance of loss has been eliminated through the inferences drawn and information conveyed in the bidding.

The recent Vanderbilt Trophy Cup Contest furnished an example of how Mr. Harold Vanderbilt, who wrote the present scoring laws of the game and who devised his own system of bidding, reached a Grand Slam contract which was made without difficulty, playing with Mr. Ralph J. Leibenderfer, one of the leading Contract players of New York.

North—Dealer.

The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠(1)	Pass	2◇(2)	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♡(3)	Pass
4◇(4)	Pass	7◇(5)	Pass

1—Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Leibenderfer were playing the Vanderbilt Club Convention, by which a hand containing more than 3 honor-tricks is shown by a bid of one club, regardless of the holding in that suit.

2—The two diamond response by South is a strength-showing bid. If the hand contained less than 2 tricks, the conventional answer would be one diamond.

4—Showing values over those disclosed in the Opening bid.

5—When North bid four diamonds, Mr. Vanderbilt was certain that the hand contained not only the Ace of diamonds, which must be part of the Opening bid, but the Queen and possibly the Knave of hearts as well. He, therefore, bid seven diamonds.

Mr. Leibenderfer held the North hand and Mr. Vanderbilt the South. Of course, a Grand Slam is made without the taking of a single finesse. It is, therefore, a classic example of a sound Grand Slam bid. An equally satisfactory result could have been found through the use of the Approach-Forcing System.

Dan Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

A delightful frock suitable for any sport in burnt gray, green and white. And a sport coat selected to accompany it in rough green woolen with white caracul collor and cuffs, the collar arranged to be worn as a hood if desired. (Selected by Dan-ray.)

SHALL we or shall we not—very—seriously wear straws for summer?

The answer to that, dah-rlings, is that we shall wear them. Not because we read that they are chic, not because the Parisian modists' show them in their collections, not because straws seem to be the thing to wear for sunny days—but for a far more feminine and deadly reason!

And that reason is, because we are tired of not wearing straws! Because we are just tired to death of the so very smart and practical hats one can wear the year 'round, and our feminine hearts simply rebel. We want change! We want variety! We want a new hat for Easter, so there and there and there

And we will have 'em! And sh-h-h, not by the wildest stretch of imagination can our meanest enemies hint that our new straw hat is our winter hat with a new feather, no, nor even that it is our last summer's straw!

As to the new straw, well, I made a resolution that I was not going to hand my dear readers any more handfuls of highfalutin' names of anything, fabrics, straws, colors—anything that the mere-woman-who-buys-and-wears-'em couldn't understand without far more studying of the matter than it was at all necessary for her to do. All in favor say "Ay!" But I will tell you that the lovely milan straws with which we are all familiar, will be quite smart for the coming season, and the well known ballbuntal types of straw. Also various "cire" straws, mostly braided and woven. You know what cire is? It means "shellaced" or "shiny." Paper Panamas have about given up the ghost. For one thing they became too cheap for chic, and for another, anything that can't be cleaned, no matter how cheap it is, is not practical. But there is another Panama straw, which, while frankly an imitation, is still something better and more expensive and durable than paper Panama.

As to colors, dahr-lings, don't be fooled! The colors that always have and always will be the smartest are those that are the most becoming to you. So far, white hats with colored trimming, and navy blue straws in most expensive weaves and tailored lines, to be worn with pastel outfits, are the prediction for color chic in spring and summer millinery.

"Hmmmmm, doesn't look like unbleached muslin now, does it?"

"No but the quality is still there and the color is so interesting and attractive that I think I'll make some dresses for the children out of it after I've made at least six of your new aprons," says Dionne.

Now what are we up to? Just this: that we designed and made two of the best house aprons you ever saw for the sum of 50 cents! Which itemized means, three yards of unbleached muslin—30 cents, one package of dye, 10 cents; one small ball of wool, another 10 cents, and that's all unless you prefer to buy the prepared bias binding which you don't have to at all because there are plenty of bias strips left to make your own binding—voila! Two aprons! Better send your stamps, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet giving you full directions for making two chic aprons for 50 cents, or even mebby 30 cents—yes and it can be done for a quarter!

'Nif you'd like to see what my idea of what an all around, practical and very smart sport coat and dress exactly is, well look at today's illustration! The dress could be anything from spectator's sports to golf, and it's made in the three color combination that I told you would be so smart for next summer—burnt grey, green and white.

And the coat! I selected it to accompany the dress, although its only claim to belonging to the dress is the fact that its color is a darker green, and its trimming white. The way it is fastened with clips of "acier" instead of buttons is simply too utter, isn't it—'nif it didn't have a black patent leather belt, it would be far more banal and far less truly chic!

'N' you needn't sniff at the hood idea either cause if you do that's just an admission that you've never ridden in a Roll-spana-Spigotty la-de-dae which, as everyone knows, is unhappy under ninety, and completely open to discussion, screaming breezes and cinders!

Wives of Tomorrow

"HURRY CALL."

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I am a constant reader of your helpful column.

I am a young girl 22 years old and considered attractive. I am in love with a man of 34 who takes me out quite often. He makes love to me but never speaks of marriage, although he has no family ties and is in a position to do so. Is it wrong to let him kiss me? This problem is a constant source of worry to me and makes it impossible for me to concentrate on my work.

He is leaving town shortly and I feel that I must know his true intentions before we separate. Please help me if you can. HELEN.

Helen, whoever discovers a way to ascertain a man's "true intentions"—especially on short notice—will not only die rich but be acclaimed while still living as woman's greatest benefactor. Truth is, Helen, few men know their own intentions. They are much like ourselves in that respect. And heaven knows we would hate to have some one delving around in our intentions. Most marriages are thoroughly unintentional. At any rate so far as the poor man is concerned. As a rule marriages happen about like this. A man is lonely or restless or bored or perhaps just does not know when he is well off. At any rate he calls up a girl. And it is the dearest nickel he ever spent. The girl having just that day bought a new dress or a permanent wave or having nothing better to do says she "does not mind if she does," or words to that effect and within the hour they are eating a dollar table d'hote and the thing is well on its way. Now there is no reason on earth why that girl or that table d'hote should prove the undoing of the poor man. But it does. That is the insidious thing about table d'hotes. The coziness and the terrible coffee are so home like. And no one is ever chased from a table d'hote. So confidences start. And once confidences start anything may happen and usually it takes the form of another date.

Helen, I tell you it isn't right the way a man finds himself all boiled up and on the way to the altar because the dinner was only a dollar and he felt at peace with the world. Intentions? The poor soul. He hadn't any more intentions than a baby. He just wanted somebody to sit across from him at a table with a pink candle on it. And what did he get? A wife and family.

It is the same with a man who wants a kiss. Don't ask him what he wants with it. He does not know. But what is a man to do when there is nothing good on the radio, and conversation languishing? A kiss is any man's language for "where do we go from here?" It is an experiment, a pastime, or an adventure depending upon the man's previous experience. And what it is to the girl is nothing to him. It is whatever his previous experience brands it. The girl accepts that when she cooperates. That's one of the saddest things about a kiss. It rarely means the same thing to the two participants. Either the man wrapped in bliss is wholly unconscious of the fact that the girl is thinking after this one he will surely have sense enough to go home and let her get a little sleep, or the girl floating on a dream never suspects that the man is wondering whether he has missed the last car, and asking himself why anyone wants to live in a wilderness and vowing he will never be seen in the vicinity again. The thing is mighty complex, Helen. And if I were you I would let the man go his way wondering whether his intentions could ever by any chance interest me. Men have a hard time being great lovers these days. They get so much help. We could not think of helping a man move a chair, or do any of the other things that it is his privilege to do. But we rush to help them announce their muddled "intentions." Were ever you forced by some clever salesperson in a store to buy something you did not really want? And were you ever able to like that thing? It is the same with the bewildered swains that are being rushed into marriage. They do not want to be married. Wanting to kiss and wanting to marry are two very different things. Every man wants to kiss. No man wants to marry. A great many thousand happened to find that if they were to get any kisses they would have to marry.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

A WAY TO EASE PAIN.

SOME years ago we published a method of relieving the pain of toothache that had long been used by Dr. J. E. Keefe. It consisted of injecting alcohol into the nasal cavity. This method has been found to ease the pain of toothache and to keep the patient comfortable for several hours. Since toothache tends to come and go, this treatment often seemed to effect a cure. It cured, in a sense, until such time as the stage was set for another attack and, in some cases, the second attack was slow in coming.

While this procedure was original with Dr. Keefe, a method of relieving some cases of headache by a method of depending on the same principle was used by Dr. Sluder nearly 30 years ago. Now physicians have a modification of the same method, which they use for the relief of symptoms of other kinds, as well as pain located in many other parts of the body as well as in the head area.

The modified method consists in applying local anesthetics by means of a small pledget of cotton wrapped around the end of a nose probe or applicator. The solution used is a watery 50 per cent solution of butyr, and 1 to 1,000 epinephrin. The swab, moistened with this solution is passed through the nose to a depth of about two and a half inches, and then brought in contact with one wall of the passage from the nose to the throat back of the palate. The cotton is left in position for five minutes.

A person suffering from symptoms for which relief is sought has the application made through the left nose. If it does not give relief in five minutes it is withdrawn and a similar application is made through the right nose. If no relief follows it is taken as a sign that the method is not suited to that case. If application to one side gives relief, thereafter treatment is limited to applications made through the nose on that side. A case is not considered relieved unless the symptoms disappear and remain away for four hours.

Dr. H. Byrd, who reports very extensive use of the method, has seen it give relief in cases of the following long list of disorders: Angina pectoris, high blood pressure, Buerger's disease, tachycardia, dyspnea, cardiospasm, hiccup, asthma, chronic pain after herniotomy, diarrhea, renal colic, gall stone colic, frequent urination, pain of cystitis and ovaritis, dysmenorrhea, vomiting of pregnancy, pain from cancer, bunions, flatfoot, chronic tender spots around head, neck, breasts, lower border of ribs, end of spine; sciatica, lumbago, polyneuritis, pleurisy, arthritis, gout, writer's cramp, chorea of leg and arm, vertigo, nausea and vomiting, acute hyperthyroidism, and shingles. To these are to be added toothache and some kinds of headache.

Dr. Byrd reports especially good results in treating lumbago. After one, or a very few applications, the pain and stiffness disappeared, and, in some cases, has not returned.

BROWN SPOTS.

Mrs. A. W. writes: I have had brown blotches on my face for some time. It is quite embarrassing when friends ask me what it is I have on my face. Could you tell me what they are and what has caused them?

REPLY.

Probably you have what goes by the name of liver spots. No one knows what causes them. According to popular opinion they are a sign of age, but like signs in dry weather, this sign fails with women.

Somewhat similar spots on certain parts of the skin are caused by a fungus growing on the skin, a kind of ringworm. Perhaps this explains why mopping with a strong solution of hyposulphite of soda removes some of these blemishes.

EPILEPSY AND FLU.

H. A. H. writes: In 1918, during the severe influenza epidemic, while a physician for the State epilepsy colony, I had 135 cases of influenza among 400 epileptics. Some of these epileptics had 100 attacks daily and others 10 to 12 daily, and still others 2 or less monthly. Regardless of the number of convulsions or their severity, none afflicted with influenza had a convulsion during the attack of influenza, nor did they have any for two months afterwards.

I realized then it was the fever induced by the invading germ that was the beneficial agent and not the germ itself. From my own experience there is no doubt in my mind that the fever produced by the malarial organism is the agent causing the remissions in paresis. In fact, the therapeutic fever brought on by diathermy has caused remission in paresis equal to that produced by the malarial organism. Hot baths, steam baths, and hot air baths induce thereapeutic fever, but this rarely lasts more than an hour. I feel there is a great field for thereapeutic fever among the insane and epileptic hospitals.

REPLY.

WHITE CORPUSCLES.

H. C. writes: I have learned from a recent complete physical examination that I have a deficiency in white corpuscles. I have 80 odd of red, which, I understand, are plenty and above normal.

What can one do to make more white corpuscles? Is there anything to eat that will do it? Just what effect does this lack of corpuscles have on the system?

REPLY.

If you have no other symptoms you have nothing to worry about or to take medicine for. There is no reason to change your diet. The only disease that is characterized by a marked drop in white blood corpuscles has an abundance of other symptoms.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MY begonias are rotting off close to the roots. There are some worms in the soil. Can this be the cause? EMILY L.

When begonias rot off near the roots it is usually a case of too much water. This condition, combined with the fact that they are growing in shade, always causes some decay. The only possible damage that worms might do would be to clod up the hole through which the surplus water passes. This would result in a somewhat soggy soil, which would not be conducive to the health of the plant.

Please tell me what kind of soil to use when repotting a dracaena.

MRS. MARY S.

Use a soil composed of good garden loam, sand and leafmold in equal parts. The addition of a few pieces of charcoal wil prevent acidity.

I have some English ivy which is growing in soil. It has lately started to lose its leaves; they become sticky and then drop off. MARION W. L.

Try spraying the plant with cold water daily. Keep up the treatment until you note a decided change in the plant's condition.

Mrs. Herman A. B.—Maurandia seed requires 12 to 15 days to germinate.

I have a window-box which fills a north window in my hall. There are at present three ferns in the box, but due to the size of the box I have room for two more plants. Would rex begonias do well in such a location?

MRS. RICHARD F.

Yes, any nonflowering begonia would do well in such a location.

I have three plants of impatience sultana which refuse to bloom. Can this be because they are in a north window? They are kept well watered, and are in a well-ventilated, well-heated room.

MISS ISABELLE M. L.

Lack of sun is, no doubt, responsible for the fact that the plants do not bloom. Better remove them to a sunnier place.

Does it hurt the plants in a hotbed to give them air on a warm, sunny day? I always protect them in extremely cold weather.

MR. THOMAS G.

Please give me a list of five trees that are likely to thrive in a dusty, smoky city garden. JULIA B. L.

Plane, sycamore, Norway maple, allanthus poplar (Lombardy) and the elm, where the area is spacious.

My oleander has been attacked by scale. I also see signs of mealy bug. What do you suggest?

MRS. FRANKLIN D.

Spray the plant with cold water for mealy bug and wash the foliage with a solution of fir-tree oil or whale-oil soap for scale. Both insects can easily be eradicated.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF JANUARY 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

A determined effort should be made to cooperate with, and make use of, the propitious influences in force on January 26. A decisive line of action is advised in all activities of life. "Wait and see" spells disaster and disappointment. A splendid time for advertising and pushing sales.

Children born on this January 26 will have keen senses, vivid emotions, and an abundance of nervous energy. They will display independence of thought, and will show much individuality in their work. They will have ready minds, but will be somewhat lacking in concentration.

Born January 26, you have a hearty dislike for work, but no one enjoys the fruits of it more. You care, however, too much for the expensive things of life not to make the effort to pay the price of their attainment, even through hard labor. You are subtle and designing, resourceful and capable, and will live as much as possible on your wits.

You have extraordinary power in "wrangling" things for your own benefit. Because of charm and personality, you can do and say things which would kill the popularity or standing of another. You are genial and good-natured, but not entirely unselfishly so. You are even mindful of the fact that more flies are caught with molasses than with vinegar. You do things for effects and with an eye to returns. Your generosity is often closely stalked by vanity, and your gifts are seldom unstencilled by some mark of the giver.

You are rather sensation loving and reckless in the pursuit of pleasures. You hesitate to gamble with money, but you are always willing to stake much more important things in the quest of romance or adventure. You are not given to philosophizing about the meaning of life, and you only dig superficially into most things. You like to be loved, but will never love anyone as much as you love "number one."

Successful people born January 26:
4—Cleveland Dodge—Capitalist.
5—Oscar Asche—actor-manager.

FAT Does Go In This Easy Way

Millions of people, the world over, have learned in late years the right way to keep slender. To gain new beauty, youth and vigor. You see that everywhere. Excess fat and sluggish vim are nowhere near so common as they were.

The great reason is this: Modern medical science has discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a scanty gland secretion. Food which should create fuel and energy goes to excess fat.

Now doctors, the world over, supply that lacking factor. And note how conditions have changed.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. It stands today, as always, the chief help in reduction. Now there are multitudes of people to testify what Marmola has done for them.

If your figure is abnormal, if your vim has decreased, go get Marmola. All druggists supply it at $1 a box. A book in each box gives the formula and explains the amazing results. Do what others have done—get the results they won. Don't wait longer—don't stay over-fat.

COLDS must be destroyed from within

Sneezing, headaches, muscle-aches, physical depression and feverish condition tell you of cold-infection settling within your system.

You may relieve the discomforts with outward applications and inward pain-killers, but these cannot stop the spread of infection within.

Justice Holmes' Opinion Cited as Supreme Court Turns Down Plea.

The United States Supreme Court upheld the death sentences on three Negroes yesterday for the murder of Lamar W. York, prohibition agent, who was shot to death here on April 12, 1930.

In passing action on the three men, John Borum, John Logan and Milton Guy, doomed to die in the electric chair, the court followed a precedent set by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes the day before he retired on January 12.

The men claimed a jury found each of them not guilty of firing the shot which struck York, and that their conviction on the count charging "they collectively murdered the officer could not stand.

In upholding the guilty verdict, the court cited Justice Holmes' opinion. Upholding the sentence of James Dunn, of California, on liquor charges, Justice Holmes wrote:

"Consistency in the verdict is not necessary. Each count in an indictment is regarded as if it were a separate indictment."

No date has been set for the executions.

Piano," although in his seventy-fourth year, was a vigorous figure as he walked across the stage to the deafening applause and took his seat at the piano. There was every sign that he was a world genius which time could not change or alter in infinite variety. The old master still had the magic in his fingers and the harmonies of a thousand choirs in his soul. He was in a joyous mood, too, as if his mission to repay some of the bread of human mercy so generously cast upon the waters of stricken Poland by the United States during the World War was dear indeed to his heart.

Sponsored by Mrs. Hoover, the gracious First Lady of the Land, he had come from the White House to express through his great gifts his sympathy with the unemployed of this Nation, through no fault of their own, stricken down by the powers of depression and financial crisis. Near Mrs. Hoover sat another First Lady of the Land of former years, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who journeyed to Poland a few months ago to unveil a statue of her distinguished husband which had been erected in a Polish city by the gift of Paderewski to bear witness to the gratitude of his native land for what Wilson had done for his country. Together, Mrs. Wilson and Paderewski had dedicated the statue and they smiled at each other across the footlights last night as they remembered their momentuous last meeting.

The gray had crowded the red out of Paderewski's still plentiful locks not worn as long as usual, however. His wildly brilliant playing of yesteryear had mellowed into a more serene mood, but the old vigor of the fingers was there and it was evident at all times that Paderewski was still the world's master of the piano, and in a number of instances last night he made his magnificent instrument acknowledge this in no uncertain terms.

The souls of Bach and Liszt, if they were lingering near, must have rejoiced last night when Paderewski opened his program with an inspired playing of their Prelude and Fugue in A Minor. Up and down the keyboard raced his nimble fingers gathering in trills, chromatics and intricate passages of every nature.

When the ovation at the close of this introductory number had subsided, Paderewski began serenely the first lovely notes of Mozart's "Sonata in A Major." It was a whole course in musical instruction to hear Paderewski play that sonata. One of the few living artists capable of making the piano prove itself beyond all doubt a truly solo instrument. Paderewski displayed its thousand beauties with facile touch and vivid interpretation.

Visions of gallant cavaliers and gentle ladies of yesterday trooped through Constitution Hall, where the concert was being given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene, as his tone pictures evoked them from the fast moving keys of the piano. The gay procession passed them into the stately measures of the Minuetto, the second movement of the Sonata, familiar to all, yet never hackneyed when played by a Paderewski.

Paderewski came into his own fully when he played as his third number Chopin's Sonate in B Minor. Then was the full glory of his amazing art visible to all as he interpreted with tenderness and thorough understanding the musical dreams of his countrymen. How Chopin would have enjoyed hearing that sonata, woven in fancy upon the piano, come to full life under Paderewski's kindred genius.

To hear Chopin played by Paderewski is truly to be a witness to one immortal laying a wreath of laurel at the feet of another.

The dainty melodies of the scherzo, the heroic strains of the largo and the glorious pattern of the finale telling every theme over again with added nuances of color, rhythm and tonal qualities, made a memorable rendition of this number.

When that sonata was over, Paderewski had already played a full-sized concert program, one that might have daunted a younger artist. But he was not through yet. Next came a group of simpler Chopin numbers, played with as much care and artistry as had been the sonata, endeared to many in the audience through previous acquaintance and greeted, therefore, by even more stupendous applause.

A Debussy group, quite novel in composition and treatment, kept the audience still eager for more. This desire was partially satisfied by a spirited rendition of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody, in which the artist threw all the power of the pianistic pyrotechnics on which much of his fame had been built.

The formal concert was over. But not for last night's audience. It was willing to stay all night, if need be, to hear more. And so was Mrs. Hoover, who settled back in her box, happy over the concert's material success which means more aid to the unemployed.

Paderewski played four encores and then bowed, smiled and called his thanks and finally disappeared—for the last time. But the memory of his graciousness, his generous gift of his great genius to America in its hour of need, will not soon vanish from the hearts of the American people.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

IT seems to me that the smart thing to have done with "A Woman Commands," in which Pola Negri debuts upon the articulate screen at RKO-Keith's this week, would have been to permit it to reach the tragic conclusion that the action suggests throughout its later movements.

Negri, in the role of Mme. Maria Draga, has reached the end of her rope. She is to be executed at daybreak unless she will sign an official document admitting the possible illegitimacy of her small son. This she consistently refuses to do until, finally, Frank Reicher, cast as some sort of shoulder-strapped member of the high command, strides in and declares that he will deny her the luxury of martyrdom by exiling her to a life of happiness across the border with her baby and the captain in the king's army with whom she has been in love all along, despite her marriage to the king himself.

This is nothing short of a sorry sop to the exploded legend that every romantic drama must have a happy ending. No one should know the fallacy of this view better than Pola Negri.

If you will hark back to the time of Pola Negri's American debut, in the role of Du Barry in First National's release of the German-made picture of "Passion," directed by Herr Ernst Lubitsch, then also an unknown to American audiences, you will find that she defied every accepted precept of the industry. Back in those remote years, the exhibitors and, by that token, the producers, looked upon costume pictures and unhappy endings as suicidal. Both were anathema to the discreet showman. So what?

So Pola Negri came along in "Passion" and upset every theory upon which the leaders had predicated their conception of how a tricky business should be run.

"Passion" was nothing if not a costume picture and its ending, with Du Barry's head being neatly sliced off by the guillotine, was nothing if not tragic.

And, in the parlance of the industry, it mopped up!

Pola should have had the courage to believe that "A Woman Commands" would have done likewise, if given the opportunity.

And on my desk I find this anonymous communication, which, because I agree with the sentiments expressed, I am happy to reproduce, although unsigned letters usually follow a speedy route to the waste basket.

"Is it possible to exert your influence with the powers that be down at Thirteenth and E streets with a view to having the 'Tha-a-ank yo-o-ou' restored to its rightful place? It is at present most conspicuous by its absence and the announcements of that 'mellifluous mistress of ceremonies,' as you call her, just do not seem complete without the trade mark."

This is the best I can do, whoever you are. And what do you mean by "my influence with the powers that be down at, &c.?" As if I had any!

And that reminds me. Mrs. John J. Payette, the former Miss Dorothy Crandall, and wife of the Warner Brothers district manager, with her daughter and son, Dorothy Dolores Payette and John Joy Payette, jr., have departed the Capital for a late winter sojourn at Miami Beach, Fla.

This might easily be converted into birthday celebrations for the children, for, as I understand it, John Joy, jr., named for his daddy, was 1 year old on January 24, and Dorothy Dolores, named for her charming mother, will be 2, come Friday of this week, January 29.

The sensational adagio act being presented by "Three Jacks and a Queen," featured in Fanchon & Marco's "Vacation Days" Idea, currently at the Fox, includes in its personnel three college athletes.

Paul Taggart hails from the University of Oregon and not only broke a few track records there ten years ago but has held them ever since.

John Roper, the originator of the unique "black art" adagio number the quartet is featuring, is a graduate of the University of Texas and held the rifle championship of the institution for a period of two years.

Directors of the Washington Civic Opera movement, while they expected to attract those nurturing operatic ambitions from practically every walk of life, hardly anticipated that their organization would prove the veritable melting pot of the nations it has become.

At present the membership—or so I am told—includes an Indian princess of the Cherokee Tribe, an Egyptian, several sons of sunny Italy, among them a nobleman; Germans, Welshmen, Englishmen, a Frenchman, an Austrian and a Spaniard. There are also a few Americans enrolled, I understand.

Not only are various nations represented; numerous trades and occupations also are enrolled. An undertaker, a member of the bachelors' cotillion (is this a business?), a traffic officer, a commercial artist, a professional musician, bank clerks and a number of our foremost men-about-the-principal-streets all rehearse three times a week under the discerning eye of Donald McDonald 3d, artistic director, and Alfred Manning, who swishes a mean baton.

Am I, maybe, being kidded, or something?

Trini, in case you hadn't heard, is a native of Seville, Spain. And if you don't know who I mean by Trini, she is the Spanish dancer on the bill at RKO-Keith's this week. She has discovered, by the way—and I, for one, would like to know how—that there are 40,000 residents of the National Capital who speak Spanish that is, to all intents and purposes, perfect.

Zelda Santley, impersonator, appearing at the Fox this week, will entertain the patients at the Naval Hospital this afternoon with a series of her imitations of noted stars of the stage and screen.

Kathleen Kay, an acrobatic dancer, likewise appearing in the "Vacation Days" unit at the Fox, will also divert the boys in the hospital with a few of her snappy dance numbers.

I hope it doesn't rain as hardly in Philadelphia today as it did the night Johnny Payette, Eddie Sherwood, and I sat through the first Dempsey-Tunney fight without a raincoat among us.

But it probably will-

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

By NELSON B. BELL.

"THE HOUSE OF CONNELLY." The Group Theater, Inc., under the sponsorship of the Theater Guild, presents a play in two acts and six scenes by Paul Green. Production directed by Lee Strasberg and Cheryl Crawford. Settings designed by Cleon Throckmorton. At the National Theater.

—THE CAST—

Big Sis.....Fannie Belle de Knight
Big Sue.....Elizabeth Williams
Patsy Tate.....Margaret Barker
Will Connelly.....Franchot Tone
Jesse Tate.....Art Smith
Geraldine Connelly.....Stella Adler
Evelyn Connelly.....Eunice Stoddard
Robert Connelly.....Morris Carnovsky
Mrs. Connelly.....Mary Morris
Duffy.....J. E. Brombera
Virginia Buchanan.....Dorothy Patten
Essie.....Ruth Nelson
Alec.....Clement Wilenchick

Significant, beyond question, as a thoughtful bit of dr maturgy, and evidently rooted deeply in the convictions of the author, it is nevertheless a drab and lusterless canvas that Paul Green has here painted of a changing order below the Mason-Dixon line.

Tinctured with bitterness and punctuated with tragedy, "The House of Connelly" strikes a note that will echo discordantly upon the susceptibilities of those who nurture any sort of reverence for the "aristocracy of the old South."

It deals with fiscal and moral decay, indiscriminate mixing of the races and a dominant family pride that are only overcome when the junior of the house of Connelly mates with a tenant representative of "poor white trash" to salvage the remnants of the more or less proud acreage and name of his forebears. It is not a pretty picture, but it is one of frankness, courage and strength.

Pungent, but not pleasant; distinguished, but not decisive; realistic, yet not by any means reality. These are rapid and not at all infallible reactions a half-hour after the final curtain.

It is something for a Southerner to have written a play like this. By the very vividness of its revelations it tears deep into the tenderest tissues of a sensitive society. Paul Green harbors no illusory delicacies with relation to a dwindling class. He does, on the other hand, envision much that may or may not be the matter with the South—if anything is—and what he believes he perceives, he states with unequivocal directness.

Thus, the speeches intrusted to the characters of his drama are not soothing examples of lilting poesy but, terse, staccato and, at times, vicious specimens of how men and women vocally comport themselves in times of economic, emotional and nervous stress. The climaxes of the six scenes constituting the two acts are, as often as not, no less than clinical in their laying bare of the human soul.

This, it may be deduced, is no easy task for the players comprising the cast—nor is it. By all odds, the most sensitive, the most convincing and the most genuinely telling performance of the evening is contributed by Franchot Tone, in the role of Will Connelly. The burden of the play is his and he bears it unfalteringly and with high artistry. In the opposite role of Patsy Tate, Margaret Barker labors earnestly, but, I am sorry to say, largely to no avail for the reason that many of her lines are upintelligible even as far down front as the fifth row, where your reviewer was seated last evening.

Among those in contributory parts, Stella Adler, Eunice Stoddard and Morris Carnovsky, as proud members of the clan of Connelly, last night gave the best account of themselves. A role that should have stood out with the vigor of a pivotal part, that of Mrs. Connelly, mother of the generation most concerned in the progress of the play's events, was lamentably allowed to lapse from the commanding place it should have occupied by Mary Morris.

Fannie Belle de Knight and Elizabeth Williams fully realize the possibilities of two "mammy" roles that are symbolically important to the development of the author's premise, something after the manner—and yet not—of the witches in "Macbeth."

To summarize it briefly, this is a play for those with an appetite for strong meat and an ear for authorial earnestness. It effects no compromise with amusement.

GAYETY

This superburlesque presentation can boast of having more stars in the cast than probably any on the Columbia circuit. Also it has the liveliest and best trained chorus of the season. Put it all together carefully and you have a snappy, peppy show plus excellent entertainment, that all lovers of burlesque should be sure to see.

Billy Arlington is an old-timer who improves with each performance. He plays a mean violin and his burlesque of grand opera is immense. He has to be seen to be appreciated.

Supporting Arlington is Lew Costello who can't return to Washington often enough to please the regulars. Lew puts over a brand of humor that's hard to beat. His "Go On and Play" and "Duffy's Daughter Kate" rocked the house with laughter.

It is impossible to praise the feminine members of the cast too highly. What they haven't got isn't to be had. That red-headed charmer Diana and her coworker, Cherie, have a way of their own of scoring big hits. Others, all of the first rank, are Jean Johns, Mary Woods and Vinie Phillips.

Be sure to see this show. It's too good to miss.

2 Men Are Released In Waynesboro Holdup

Waynesboro, Va., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Three men were arrested and two of them subsequently released by officers investigating the sandbagging and robbery of Moffett M. Potter here Saturday night.

Jack Porterfield, considered a close friend of Potter, was arrested last night as a material witness. Today Sam Critzer and Raymond Barrett were arrested, but after being questioned they were released. Potter was on his way home Saturday night when he was struck over the head, bound and gagged and robbed of $80.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS
This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the inquise to call. Do not delay.

LEO PINETZKI, whose migration from Poland is understood to have reduced the Polish standing army by one-half, is a valuable adjunct to the Curley troupe of wrestlers of which Jim Londos is the kingpin.

Pinetzki's bulk, which exceeds even that of Carnera, already has established the ponderous Pole as a drawing card in wrestling centers and when the psychological moment arrives he will doubtless be matched with Jim Londos in the outstanding bout of the summer at one of the New York ball parks. Pinetzki can wrestle a bit, too.

College football is realizing a new source of revenue as a result of the "glorified news reels" of the big games.

Warner Brothers' $8,000 investment in the full length film of the Southern California-Notre Dame game has developed into a Wallingford enterprise, with the film expected to gross nearly $300,000 in its showing throughout the Nation.

Wesley Ruggles, a movie director of long experience, gives some hints to players who may find themselves looking into a camera lens as they race down the field for a touchdown.

"Slow motion pictures will show up players who aren't in every play," Ruggles says. In the U. S. C.-Tulane film it was apparent several times that every man wasn't 'doing his stuff' all the time. The coach and the fans may be fooled some of the time but the camera can't ever be fooled.

"Play by play accounts on celluloid will also settle disputes over decisions. Motion picture players learn to act better by seeing themselves. Football players also will learn, seeing their pictures, how to avoid errors in judgment and playing."

The full-length filming of movies for exploitation is destined to have its ramifications when colleges start including movie rights in their game contract. The proceeds of the films of important games may rival the gate receipts in time and the quarterly interest on stadium bonds will be easier to meet. Or is that overemphasis?

The unseasonably mild weather has been a blessing to Washington golfers this winter. At East Potomac Park, for the first time in history, the grass cutter was used on the greens at this season of the year. Other Washington courses are near midsummer condition. The long and rolling terrain at the Burning Tree Club and at Kenwood presents almost ideal golfing opportunities.

Al Houghton, Kenwood pro, and "Reds" Cunningham, pro at Burning Tree, set a sizzling pace for Mel Shorey yesterday in a match at Burning Tree. Both Houghton and Cunningham came home in 34 strokes on the last nine. Houghton's long game was sensational, but Cunningham's play around the greens was even more spectacular. Twice he chipped the ball in from off the green. When his putts didn't drop they were stone dead.

Connie Mack is not in sympathy with the general slashing of salaries that is evident in the major leagues. "Some players who have not been so good in the last season or two will accept a readjustment without a whimper because they know they are not entitled to their old contract," says Mack, "but deserving youths will get boosts just the same as they always did. I never believed in cutting salaries except when a player was overpaid and knew it."

Washington's rookie catchers have set some brilliant batting records outside of the majors. Cliff Bolton, now with the Nats, played with High Point, in the Piedmont League, and led the circuit in batting. He played with New Haven and led the Eastern League at bat, and he played with Chattanooga and led the Southern League. Gordon Phelps hit .420 with Hagerstown in 1930 to lead the Middle Atlantic League, and last year he hit .408 with Youngstown, to top the league again. He has been sent to Chattanooga by the Nats.

Australians to Enter Davis Cup Tennis Play

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 25 (A. P.).—The Australian Lawn Tennis Association has decided to challenge for the Davis Cup, international tennis trophy, in the American zone this year.

The three-man team she will send to the States will not be selected until after the third test series with Japan, commencing February 20.

Arizona Open Winner To Enter Texas Event

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 25 A.P.).—With $600 jingling in his pockets—first prize money in the Arizona open golf tournament, which he won yesterday—Ralph Guldahl, Detroit professional, announced today he will enter the Texas open at San Antonio next Friday.

Most of the better known golfers who played here said they also would enter the Texas open.

Halkes Is Palm Beach Medalist; Sets Mark

Tommy Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., and John Whitman, Palm Beach, tied with 71 for second place in the qualifying test.

George Lynn, New York, and W. B. Langford, Chicago, were third with 72.

4 Star Bouts On Nursery Program

Jacobs, Antonelli and Gomer Show Wares in 8-Rounders.

CAPITAL and Alexandria fistic fans are due for some torrid action tonight at Portner's Arena, where the Day Nursery will stage a program of 36 rounds of boxing, including four all-star eight-rounders. The first bout, of four rounds, will open the card at 8:30 o'clock.

Strickler Out for Revenge.

This bout seems to be inspiring the most interest among local fans, although all the other bouts hold prospects of producing lively entertainment. Strickler is anxious to make an impression in his comeback and is especially desirous of winning because of a defeat he suffered at Lawson's hands last summer at Newport News.

Strickler knocked Lawson down for a nine count in their previous clash, but he was declared the loser after eight rounds on what he claims was a "home town" decision. He insists that he can outpunch his rival and promises that Lawson must show a great deal of improvement if the Virginian hopes to last the route tonight.

Lawson, however, gained many supporters at Portner's last week in thoroughly outpointing Billy Schwartz, home-town pride. The Newport News light heavy on that occasion exhibited every punch and trick of the trade. On the strength of that performance Lawson has been rated too clever for Strickler, whose forte is slugging without the fancy stuff.

Antonelli Faces Cosden.

Nick Antonelli, of the Mohawk Club stable, will engage Kid Cosden, of Cordova, Md.; Stumpy Jacobs, Hopewell, Va., will trade wallops with Bobby Burns, Baltimore, and Tommy Bashara, Norfolk, will encounter Charlie Gomer, Baltimore, in the other eight-round contests. All of this group, excepting Jacobs, have appeared hereabout previously. Jacobs comes recommended as the "Battling Nelson" of Dixieland.

Bingo Brodie, Goldie Ahearn's ambitious and wild-swinging middleweight, will battle Young Perry, formerly of Holyoke, Mass., in the opener. Charlie Short, of Baltimore, will serve as referee and sole judge of all bouts. Ladies with escorts will be admitted free to all but ringside seats.

Fownes' 38 Wins Medal In Pinehurst Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Turning in a pair of 38's, Henry C. Fownes, 11, of Pittsburgh, a member of the Oakmont Country Club, today won the qualifying round in the annual St. Valentine's Golf Tournament here with an 18-hole score of 76.

Donald Parson, Youngstown, Ohio, and Robert G. Morrison, Pittsburgh, tied for second place with 77's. Morrison was runner-up in the tournament last year, which was won by F. H. Gates, Montclair, N. J. Gates did not enter this year.

Fourth place was won by Halbert J. Blue, Aberdeen, N. C., who shot a 78. None of the other entries in the field of 40 broke 80. The match is being played over the No. 2 championship course.

Mrs. Sterrett Miami Golf Medal Winner

Miami, Fla., Jan. 25 (U.P.).—Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kans., won the qualifying medal with an 89 in the Miami Biltmore women's invitation tournament here today. The score was high, seven more than women's par.

Beatrice Gottlieb, Glen Oaks, New York, was second with a 94 and Mrs. Joseph Lawler, Gedney Farms, N. Y., trailed far behind in third place with 98.

WOOD FAILS IN RECORD ATTEMPT

Broken Timing Device Hampers; Another Trial Today.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25 (A. P.).—A broken electrical timing device late today halted until tomorrow Gar Wood's assault upon the world's speedboat record after he had attained a top speed of 111.14 miles an hour on a one-way run here.

The average speed on a run in both directions along the measured nautical mile course is necessary in computing a record. Both runs must be made within an hour, according to rules of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, the governing body.

Wood's boat was like a streak on the calm waters of Indian Creek as he shoved it northward on his fastest run. Turning southward, he flashed across the starting line with the two twelve-cylinder motors of his Miss America IX wide open, but motor trouble caused him to slow down just after being clocked into the measured mile. The same thing occurred on another southward run. His top speed on both southward runs was 63 miles an hour.

Tries Again Today.

Tomorrow at 11 o'clock, Wood announced, he will try again to regain for America the speedboat record of 110.223 set last July 9 at Lake Garda, Italy, by Kaye Don, the English racer. Wood's American record, broken by Don for the world's record, was 103.069, established on the Indian Creek course here last year.

On Wood's first southbound run today a swan paddled complacently nearby and at first observers believed the appearance of the bird caused Wood to cut out the Miss America motors. Wood himself gave the cause as motor trouble.

Waiting until the water settled, he turned northward and again jerked open the throttles. This time he covered the mile in 37.30 seconds, a speed of 111.14 miles an hour.

Again he turned the Miss America IX southward, only to be forced to a jog trot speed by motor trouble. The timing equipment failed before he could repeat the run.

BENNY BASS BANNED.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Benny Bass, Philadelphia fighter, was given a 30-day suspension by the Minnesota boxing commission today for failure to go through with a ten-round bout with Prince Saunders, of Chicago, tonight.

Nats Need Catcher If Spencer Balks

If Roy Spencer is as hard to talk contract terms with this season as he has been in the past, the Nationals are likely to be mighty short-handed as regards backstopping talent when they report to the Biloxi training base next month. And, because of this possibility, President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Club, is closely scanning the waiver lists in the hope of picking up an experienced cast-off.

When Spencer was first declared a free agent by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the Nationals paid him a $15,000 bonus to sign and gave him a $7,500 contract. The receiver batted just above the .150 mark that season and so was offered a much lower salary for 1930. He held out throughout the training-camp season and finally decided to accept after the Nationals had returned home and opened their schedule. His work was so g- that year that he was given a big, unpromised bonus at the finish and a good boost last year.

With the magnates having decided to reduce salaries, it is understood that Spencer is up to his old tricks again. If he holds out this spring, the Nats will be distinctly up against it at camp, for only Cliff Bolton, a rookie, and the veteran coach, Ed (Patsy) Gharrity, are available.

More Stars Entered In Millrose Games

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Officials of the Millrose A. A. today announced receipt of the entries of another group of champions and record holders for their annual indoor meet here February 6.

Heading the list was that of Percy M. Beard, holder of the national indoor 70-yard hurdle record and the 120-yard outdoor hurdle mark. Beard, a student at Alabama Poly, will compete in the 50-yard high hurdles.

Entries were received from three of the countries outstanding high jumpers, George Spitz, Harold Osborn and Anton Burg. Spitz holds the indoor record, Osborn the outdoor record, and Burg is the National A. A. U. indoor champion.

Other entries were from Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, national indoor steeplechase champion; Leo Lermond, of the New York A. C., last year's mile and 2-mile champion, and Frank Crowley, Manhattan College's crack miler.

U. S. Women Golfers Invade England May 21

London, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The international team matches between American and British women will be played over the Wentworth course, near Virginia Waters, beginning May 21, it was officially announced today.

The British team has not yet been selected.

An informal series begun two years ago with the visit of an American group to England gains an official status this year with the presentation of a cup by the Curtis sisters, of Boston, Mass. The series will be played along Walker Cup lines.

Marion Hollins, former national champion, is captain of the American group. Other members of the American team are Glenna Collett Vare, Helen Hicks, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Virginia Van Wie, Maureen Orcutt and Mrs. Leona Cheney. Miss Hollins and Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit, were named as alternates.

ELIMINATION FACED BY HEAVIES

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (U.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, is the favorite to pound his way through a series of heavyweight elimination bouts at Madison Square Garden during the next six weeks, and thus to become alternate for Jack Sharkey in the Max Schmeling title bout here in June.

James J. Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, announced tonight that the winner of the bouts would replace Sharkey against Schmeling in case anything happened to Sharkey at the last minute.

The three elimination bouts are scheduled as follows:

February 26 or March 4—Winners of first two bouts meet in fifteen-rounder.

Levinsky Favored Over Baer.

Levinsky is a 6-to-5 favorite to defeat Baer, and Schaaf is an 8-to-5 favorite to win over Uzcudun. If Levinsky and Schaaf meet in the fifteen-round final, Schaaf probably will be installed as a 7-to-5 favorite over the Chicago fish merchant.

Both Baer and Levinsky are harder hitters than Schaaf, and the veteran Paolino is the most rugged of the four. But Schaaf is the better boxer, having assimilated most of the tricks of the trade from his stablemate, Jack Sharkey. Schaaf is rated as the most promising of all the younger heavyweights.

Baer, the 23-year-old Californian with the man-killing punch, may defeat Levinsky if he connects squarely with the button, but this will be a new experience for Levinsky. Boxing experts believe Levinsky's wild, continuous attack will wear the Californian down. Baer is a stand-up fighter something like Tommy Loughran. Levinsky likes this sort of fighter because they offer more openings for his vicious swings. Baer lost to Paulino in a 20-round bout at Reno July 4, but he has improved much since then.

Although Paulino, 33-year-old iron man of the ring, is rugged and a hard man to hit squarely because of his "shell type" of defense, the experts believe the clever Schaaf will have little difficulty in winning a decision over him. However, there is slight chance of the woodcutter's being knocked out.

Baer, whose right cross to the jaw killed Frankie Campbell in San Francisco about two years ago, is training hard for his affair with Levinsky, and many of his supporters believe he will prove an upset in the eliminations. He is recognized as one of the hardest hitters among tthe present heavyweights. The odds may change before Friday to make even-money betting on him and Levinsky.

Winter Tests Favor New Golf Ball

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (A.P.)—The new and heavier golf ball is making so many successful assaults on par during the winter tournaments in the West and the South that Albert R. Gates, administrator of the Professional Golfers Association of America, is hopeful that it ultimately will be recognized as the international sphere.

"So far, in the professional as well as the amateur tournaments this winter, the new ball has made a great hit," Gates said, and I am more hopeful than ever that England and other powers in the world of golf will soon accept it as the international ball.

"Records of the tournaments played so far with the new ball show that it has trimmed tournament scores from three to four strokes below last year when the lighter and larger pellet was used. Almost all of the pros tell me it is a wonderful putting ball—far better than any ball they ever played—while it cuts the wind better."

Examination of the records of the big money tournaments played thus far with the new ball prove that par has been broken time and again.

Cooper Gave Ball First Ride.

In its first test, "Light Horse Harry" Cooper, of Chicago, galloped home with top money in the Pasadena open with a 72-hole score of 281, or 6 shots lower than the winning total of 287 compiled by Tony Manero, of New York, with the old ball last year.

Tommy Armour, of Detroit, came in with the next argument by hammering out a record of 285 in the $2,500 Miami open. His collection was 9 shots lower than that turned in by Joe Turnesa, of New York, in 1931.

It got another series of mad, merry rides from Macdonald Smith, of New York, in the rich Los Angeles open championship. The plodding Scot snatched a wide lead with rounds of 69 and 68 and then played safe golf for a pair of 72s, to win the bag of gold and top honors for the third time. His 72-hole total of 281, or 3 under par, was four shots lower than the winning total shot by Ed Dudley in 1931.

Morrison Lowered Score.

Despite some adverse playing conditions, Fred Morrison, of Culver City, Calif., swung through mud and rain to win the Agua Caliente open with a score nine shots lower than those turned in by George Von Elm and Johnny Golden in 1931. Morrison, who went ahead in cash winnings with the $5,000 for first place, toured the Agua Caliente layout in 284 strokes, beating Gene Sarazen for top money by two shots.

In the Arizon open, which closed yesterday, Ralph Guldahl, of Detroit, scored a fine 285 total to capture the title.

Only one exception has been found so far this winter to the stroke reducing prowess of the new ball and that was under questionable comparison in the Santa Monica $2,500 best ball, proamateur tournament. Tom Stevens and Henry Kern, of Culver City, won the title in 1931 with a total of 63, while it took "only" a 66 by George Von Elm and Stanley Turner, of Los Angeles, to win it this year with the new ball.

Cochrane Undergoes Tonsil Operation

Philadelphia, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Mickey Cochrane, star catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, had a small remnant of a tonsil removed in the Pennsylvania Hospital today and was reported in fine condition.

Since last summer Cochrane has been working to build up his health. He underwent treatment for sinus trouble, had his teeth X-rayed and today's operation was considered the final step in fitting him for another busy big league season.

Nevers Breaks Wrist In Charity Grid Game

Nevers' win was over Frank Carideo's All-Stars. It marked the final competition for the Stanford player, who for several years has headed a group of professional football players which has played throughout the United States.

Behind a strong line Nevers scored every point for his team, which battered the Carideo line for four touchdowns on sustained marches of 60, 14, 45 and 20 yards.

Christner Selected As Foe of Dempsey

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Promoter Joe Lewis announced tonight that K. O. Christner, of Akron, veteran heavyweight, had been selected as Jack Dempsey's opponent for a four-round match in Public Hall here February 11. Christner was selected after Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, refused to fight under ten rounds.

Christner bid for fame in 1929 when he won a decision over Ernie Schaaf, now a leading heavyweight contender, but he lost decisions later the same year to Jack Sharkey, Jimmy Maloney and Paulino Uzcudun. Sharkey's margin of victory was slight.

N. B. A. TITLE TO JONES BY KNOCKOUT

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 25 (A. P.).—Gorilla Jones, sleek, cagey Negro, of Memphis, Tenn., succeeded Mickey Walker as National Boxing Association middleweight champion of the world tonight by decisively defeating Oddone Piazza, sturdy youth, of Milan, Italy, in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round battle.

Jones won on a technical knockout after battering Piazza to a pulp for four rounds. The Negro completely outclassed and outboxed his foe in every round except the first. He was slow to start, but after warming up to his task with the beginning of the third round, the result seemed to be a foregone conclusion.

Italian Forced To Ropes.

Soon after the start of the sixth round, Jones forced the Italian to the ropes, nailing him on the chin with heavy rights and lefts and then switched his attack to the body. Piazza attempted to escape and staggered backwards on his heels across the ring, falling on his back in a neutral corner. He gamely struggled to his feet and Jones tore into him with a furious fire to the head and body. Piazza again retreated to the ropes and was on the verge of collapsing under Jones' blistering attack when the referee, Julius Fidler, waved Jones to his corner, declaring him the winner on a technical knockout.

After Jones' gloved right fist had been raised in victory, Judge A. J. Hedding, father of the boxing law in Wisconsin, jumped into the ring and presented Jones with the National Boxing Association's championship belt.

An interested ringsider was Mickey Walker, who vacated the throne a year ago after he could no longer make the middleweight limit of 160 pounds.

The battle was witnessed by a disappointing crowd of about 3,500 spectators, with receipts around $5,000.

Walker and Hudkins Drew $189,000.

Walker defended his title the last time against the blond terror from Nebraska, Ace Hudkins. That battle, fought in Los Angeles in 1929, drew $189,000. For winning tonight, Jones received $1,000 or less, with the same amount going to the Italian aspirant.

Jones, a 26-year-old Negro, with five years of campaigning behind him, was entirely too experienced, too clever, and too crafty for the sturdy Italian youngster. Piazza, fighting his sixteenth professional contest, was outclassed. He relied upon his youth, courage and punch for victory, but he had little opportunity to take advantage of these.

Both Jones and Piazza made the weight requirements easily, with Jones scaling 152½ and Piazza 153¾.

Banqueting Blamed By Munn for Illness

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Clarence Munn, giant all-American football guard of the University of Minnesota, in a hospital here with bronchial pneumonia today blamed banquets and speech making for his illness.

Last fall as captain of the Gophers Munn thrived on the charges of Big Ten backs to the extent of gaining weight during the season. He never was out of the game because of injuries.

Now he is worried that his illness may reduce his chances to develop his shot putting power, which he hoped would win him a berth on the Olympic Team. He holds the Big Ten championship.

His physicians today, however, reported his condition as greatly improved.

Colonial Five Draws Away In 2d Half

By JACK ESPEY.

DE PAUL UNIVERSITY'S Blue Demons had the noose around the neck of George Washington's winning streak last night, but before they could string him up a posse of giant Colonials came to the rescue, freed him and fed him another victory. The intended victim smacked his lips late into the night over the juicier end of a 35 to 28 score.

The Chicago basketers and their pro style of attack caused the Colonials more trouble than any previous foes, for they held the lead at two stages of the battle and toward the close drew up within three points of a tie. In the dying minutes—the last two to be exact—a pair of field goals by Otto Zahn and Wick Parrack whipped the netting to seal G. W.'s seventh win of the season.

De Paul Gains Lead.

De Paul took the lead in the first 30 seconds when Tony Laritus caged the ball on a pass under the basket by Joe O'Connor. After the Colonials had regained the lead and shot far ahead, 12-5, Laritus, Baraks, Rondinella and Jim Gorsky, best of the visiting shooters, staged a rally that gave De Paul a 13-12 advantage at the half.

George Washington recaptured the lead four minutes after the beginning of the second period on a pot shot by Wayne Chambers, this goal signaling the start of a sweeping Colonial attack that almost knocked the Demons out of the ball game. Parrack, Burgess and Zahn aided Chambers in this drive, which sent the score to 22-13 midway of the period.

At this point Heinie Coan came through with De Paul's first goal of the period and for the next eight minutes the Demons, led by Gorsky, who sank the ball four times in succession, took command of the proceedings.

Zahn and Parrack Score.

Following the last of Gorsky's two-pointers, Zahn sneaked away from a scrimmage in midcourt to score on a sizzling pass from Chambers, and to further G. W.'s claim to the decision, Parrack sank a long shot that sent the 700 partisan rooters home in delight.

Gorsky tied Parrack for individual scoring honors, accounting for twelve points. Burgess, whose play in the second half far excelled anything he had shown previously in the game, contributed nine tallies to the winning cause. Laritus, who was ejected late in the fray on fouls, played a fine defensive game for De Paul, while similar work was done for G. W. by Hertzler and Chambers.

Foul shots attempted—Parrack (4), Burgess (6), Hertzler (2), Chambers (4), Zahn, Coan, Doody, Weston (2), O'Connor (3). Referee—Metzler. Umpire—O'Meara. Time of periods—20-minute halves.

Stein Misses Tackle; Londos Retains Title

New York, Jan. 25 (U.P.).—Jim Londos, of Greece, retained his claim to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship tonight at Madison Square Garden when his opponent, Sammy Stein, Jewish champion of New York, was unable to continue after diving out of the ring on an attempted flying tackle.

Other results were: Jim McMillen, 215, Chicago, defeated Renato Gardini, 200, Italy, in 16 minutes 13 seconds of a finish match, with a body slam. Norton Jackson, 202, New York, drew with Kola Kwariana, 218, Russia, in a 20-minute time limit match. Ernie Dusek, 213, Omaha, drew with Oki Shikina, 195, Japan, in a 20-minute time limit match. Fritz Kley, 212, Germany, defeated Don Laun, 220, Canada, in 8 minutes 55 seconds with a body twist. Herbie Freeman, 220, New York, defeated Scotty McDougal, 212, Scotland, in 13 minutes 34 seconds, with a flying mare and body slam. Leo Pinetzki, 270, Poland, defeated Jack Washburn, 230, California, in 4 minutes 43 seconds of a finish match, with a double arm lock. Tiny Roebuck, 245, Oklahoma, defeated John Maxos, 205, Greece, in 5 minutes 27 seconds, with a body slam.

Kenney Beats Denton In 3-Cushion Thriller

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Len Kenney, of Chicago, defeated the veteran Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, 50 to 39, today in the most exciting battle so far in the world's three-cushion billiard championship. The lead changed hands eleven times in the 56 innings played.

Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, won his fourth victory of the tournament, defeating Allen Hall, of Chicago, 50 to 46, in 50 innings. Reiselt had a high run of 5, while Hall's best was 7.

Bud Westhus, former St. Louis University football player, scored his second victory in six tournament starts, defeating Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, N. Y., 50 to 42, in 73 long-drawn-out innings.

Lake Placid Finally Gets Snow; Olympic Ski Jumpers See Action

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 25 (A. P.).—Ski jumping was resumed today on the broad, snow-white stage Dame Nature at last has set for the winter Olympics here February 4-13. Held to level, barren ground for weeks because of lack of snow, the ski jumpers swept out enthusiastically today into a whirling snowstorm and went into practice on the small jump near the Olympic Stadium.

The ski runners have had several good days now, but today was the jumpers' first real chance for working out in several moons.

The whole resort responded enthusiastically to the weather man's newest stunt. The village has added considerably to its bonded indebtedness in order to have the Olympics here, and for a time the record-breaking high temperatures and melting snow gave rise to some alarm.

The mile and a half bobsled run was open for part of the way today and 32 teams slithered down it in their first practice since the high temperatures melted the ice and the snow away. The full course will be open by Thursday, the Olympic committee said.

The American Olympic Hockey Team had its first practice today in the newly built indoor ice arena. The skating outfits fared pretty well during the unseasonable weather, because they had the indoor arena, equipped with ice-making machinery, for practice.

Carnera Is Winner by Knockout In 2 Rounds Before Paris Crowd

PARIS, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, Italian man-mountain, floored Mose Bauquillon, French heavyweight, four times before the referee stepped in and halted their ten-round bout in the second round tonight, and awarded Carnera the victory on a technical knockout.

It was a one-sided struggle from the start. After a few seconds of sparring in the first round, Carnera pumped two hard rights to Bouquillon's head and proceeded to give him an unmerciful beating for the rest of the round.

In the second round Carnera easily held Bouquillon off and then bounced a right off the Frenchman's head and Bouquillon went down. He pluckily arose at the count of nine but a few more punches to the head and body sent him down for eight.

Carnera outweighed his rival by 68 pounds.

MRS. SEIBERT WINS.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frank A. Seibert, of Rye, N. Y., today was announced winner of the gold gun in the women's rifle tournament here, with a score of 144 out of a possible 150. The tournament was held simultaneously with the annual midwinter trapshoot, in which her husband figured prominently.

PANETIAN BEATS FRENCH LASS IN STIRRING HIALEAH DUEL

Half a Length Margin Held By Gelding

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—In a contest that had the big crowd in a frenzy of excitement for the entire 6 furlongs, George D. Widener's game gelding Panetian scored a hard-earned victory over H. C. Hatch's mare French Lass in the Alhambra Claiming Handicap here today. The pair finished a half length apart, while The Heathen took the show another length and a half away. Calf Roper was a close fourth. The winner was favorite, paying $4.10. His time was 1:11 4-5. He was one of five choices to win during the afternoon.

It was a duel between the gelding and the mare all the way, with the mare appearing a probable winner until she faltered in the last few yards. The Western rider, G. Riley, sent French Lass into command after the start, which was delayed twelve minutes due to Panetian acting very fractious and breaking his bridle. French Lass could never get more than a head or so away from Panetian, and Bobby Leishman had the latter under restraint while forcing the pace.

At the furlong pole it looked as if Panetian hung when put under pressure, but French Lass suddenly gave way inside the sixteenth pole and allowed her rival to forge out front. The Heathen held on well to beat Calf Roper.

Hogan's Chance Victor At Havana.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Monday racing was resumed at Oriental Park today, with the major honors going to Mrs. Emil Denemark's Hogan's Dance, which won the 1¼-mile feature.

The Chicago-owned 5-year-old son of Westy Hogan was installed the 6-to-5 favorite and raced like a good public choice. He trailed back of the pace until the field of nine hit the final furlong pole and then assumed command. At the end he was drawing away from L. Clous' Pan, while back in third place trailed H. Neusteter's Marsala. Hogan's Dance ran the distance in 1:45 flat, 1 4-5 seconds short of the track record.

Spanish Play Takes Inaugural. At Fairgrounds.

Despite his consistent performances last year, which included a second to Mate in the Arlington Park classic, Spanish Play paid the long price of better than 6 to 1. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Surfboard, also making his debut as a 4-year-old, battled Spanish Play through the stretch but lost the decision by a head. Spanish Play carried the silks of Knebelkamp and Morris. Third share of the purse went to the Superior Stable's Hyman as Click, the 2-to-1 favorite, finished out of the money.

On the basis of $1 mutuels, which were sold for the first time at the New Orleans course today, Spanish Play returned to his backers $7.50. A similar priced place ticket on Surfboard paid $3.20. Spanish Play ran the 6 furlongs over a heavy track in 1:15 2-5.

Inauguration of $1 mutuel betting proved popular with the racing fans and officials said the $1 windows would be kept as a permanent fixture.

The longest lines of bettors were found at those windows, although the crowd was small, less than 4,000 braving a raw, windswept day to see the 40-day meeting open.

Jimmy Moran, another veteran winter racer, also made his 1932 debut, winning the Old Town Purse of a mile by 2 lengths from Eddie Haughton's consistent Wotan. Dick Morris, the most consistent of the winter horses, hung up his seventh straight victory in accounting for the 6-furlong third race at odds-on figures.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAMILTON, $29.00, $12.30, $4.20; PARNELL BOUND, $3.20, $2.20; CALGARY KAY, $2.90.

HAMILTON was rated off the leaders and responded full of courage when put to a drive in stretch run, wore PARNELL BOUND down and outgamed him at end. PARNELL BOUND bounded to the front soon after the break and set a rapid pace. He tired after racing LAWYER into submission. CALGARY KAY saved ground entering home stretch. He was closing at end. BLACK WATCH, the victim of poor handling in a jam on back stretch, was sharply cut off and Elston pulled him up. He closed with a belated rush.

SECOND RACE—Two furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start fair. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:48. Off at 2:50½. Winner, David J. Ely's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HELIOS, $6.40, $3.70, $3.10; WOCO, $13.50, $7.80; FLYING DRAGON, $24.60.

HELIOS, bumped and knocked off his stride at start, moved up stoutly, but kept bearing over to inside last furlong. WOCO ran straight, but tired when put to a drive last sixteenth. FLYING DRAGON closed full of courage. WHITE THORN was in close quarters in early stages, is a good looker and may improve off of this race. RETICENCE, off very slowly and YONKERS FLASH swerved into HILDUR ROCK just as barrier was sprung.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:19. Winner, J. D. Norris, Jr.'s b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOMBEREAU, $3.70, $2.30, $2.40; GLENSIDE, $2.60, $3.60; BOB'S PLAY, $4.20.

TOMBEREAU bounded to the front when start came and, hugging the rail all the way, was never seriously threatened. GLENSIDE, hard ridden rounding the far turn in an effort to get to the leader, hung last sixteenth. BOB'S PLAY, outrun first half mile, came full of courage out in the middle of the track. BURNISH showed early speed, but tired badly and was eased up all through home stretch. COOTS saved ground rounding far turn.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:50. Winner, A. Mitchell's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BATTY, $11.40, $5.00, $3.30; MUFF, $5.40, $3.10; MY SIS, $2.40.

BATTY, trailed off the pace until rounding the far turn, where he slipped through on the inside, charged on MY SIS at top of home stretch and, after disposing of latter, had enough left to stall off MUFF'S rush at end. Latter began slowly and, outrun to top of home stretch, closed full of run and outgamed MY SIS at end. Latter tired badly after going into an easy lead at turn out of back stretch. KENSINGTON raced out in the middle of the track all the way.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Alhambra Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:18. Off at 4:30. Winner, George D. Widener's br. g. (4), by Galetina—Pan Maid. Trained by W. F. Mulhollan. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $300; third, $100. Time, 0:22 45. 0:46 2-5, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PANETIAN, $4.10, $2.40, out; FRENCH LASS, $2.60, out; THE HEATHEN, out.

PANETIAN'S bridle broke while at the post, which was responsible for the twelve minutes delay at the barrier. He broke outside the stalls and forced a fast pace, responded with good courage under punishment and was up in last few strides. FRENCH LASS saved ground all the way, set a fast pace, but weakened when put to the final test. THE HEATHEN faltered after making an effort inside the furlong pole.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 5:00. Winner, B. B. Stable's b. c. (3), by St. James—Overture. Trained by D. R. McDaniel. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:12 1-5, 1:24 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TROMBONE, $3.90, $2.80, $2.20; SOUTHCO, $4.20, $2.50; FAIR BILLOWS, $2.50.

TROMBONE, rated off the pace, moved up stoutly rounding far turn, wore down the tiring FAIR BILLOWS and had enough in reserve at end to stall off SOUTHCO. Latter, in close quarters at turn out of back stretch,Ther Beishak was forced to take back and go to the outside. This probably beat him. He was gaining on the winner at every stride at end. FAIR BILLOWS had a lot taken out of him racing with OIL QUEEN in early stages.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:27. Winner, C. E. Hamilton's br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ELIZABETH FOX, $3.90, $3.20, $2.50; CIRVENNA, $12.90, $5.30; PRETTY PENNY, $4.30.

ELIZABETH FOX, well ridden, was urged into forward position and, perfectly rated, took lead without much effort and never left issue in doubt from far turn home. CIRVENNA had plenty of speed, raced VERVE into defeat, but was no match for the winner. PRETTY PENNY, outrun for six furlongs, closed fast once in her stride. DESERVE moved up fast turning for home, but hung in final furlong. VERVE stopped. LIGHT AIR, on outside and clear of interference all the way.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 25.—Hialeah features the Leap Year Handicap tomorrow, with a good supporting card. COMSTOCKERY from the Greentree Stable, after beating Vander Pool and other stars in the Boynton Handicap last week, running seven furlongs in near record time, certainly should dispose of the field which he meets, even with the eighth pounds he picks up over the weight carried in that race.

ARRAS, a consistent winner in the South, should hold the others safe. STREET SINGER, winner last week, looks like the best of the remaining horse for third money.

FIRST RACE—MEMORIES DEAR, fast enough to finish second to Single Star a few days ago, is selected. PRIORESS, third in the same race, doubtless will be the contender, and might win, having finished a short nose behind MEMORIES DEAR. ANGRY PLUME, scratched yesterday with this race in view, also has a chance and is tabbed for third.

SECOND RACE—Twenty-three 2-year-old maiden fillies are lined up here with little public line on the field, for few have shown any speed to attract attention, and several have never started. ROYAL PURCHASE has the best form, having finished third to Transen. LADY BRACADALE has shown speed but was out of the picture in her last race. She should be a contender. TRY COME, which gave some promise in earlier races, is rated third.

THIRD RACE—DON TASKER has been coming around to his best form and is picked. He was second to Fair Billows last week, and closed fastest of all. SPANFAIR, winner last out, was good enough to count on for second in this. ZEGORA earned brackets last time out and she should be in the money.

FOURTH RACE—PRINCE TOKALON won easily and appears best of an evenly balanced field, all speedy. C. V. Whitney's PENNATE, which was second to ULUNIU last week, and is coupled in this race with THAIS, is probably the contender for first money. GAY BIRD won a few days ago and is dangerous.

SIXTH RACE—THE GEN is on edge and should win. He was second to Jazz Age last out, run in record time. PLEASE is a formidable contender and a beaten favorite. CLEAN PLAY was in the money a few days ago and has a chance in this field.

SEVENTH RACE—ROAN ANTELOPE, though inconsistent, may win here. He is selected to beat BRUSH, the obvious contender. SILVERY is improving and should get third money.

HOWARD 27-25 WINNER IN THRILLER

St. Paul Beaten as Fives Match Points in 2d Half.

WITH the score 14-10 at the half, and the St. Paul Tigers, of Lawrenceville (Va.) Collegiate Institute in the lead, the Howard University Bison quint fought uphill last night in the university gymnasium to defeat the Virginians, 27 to 25. With "Mickey" Syphax, shifty forward, out because of injuries, "Sallie" Hall monopolized the Bisons' scoring in the first half, with five baskets to his credit.

"Southpaw" Butler was the Tigers' piece de resistance, proving half the St. Paul offensive, until, in the second spasm, a cage by "Red Bank" Taylor and a foul shot by Hall pushed the Lawrenceville aggregation close, with 15-16 the score, which was finally tied at 21-all when Benton caged from under the board. Reid tossed another to put the Bisons in front.

Tied again at 23-all, Hall shot a goal from the center of a swift melee, to be followed again with the tying count, when Haskett made a ringer from midcourt. The winning count was made by Taylor with 30 seconds to play. Hall was easily the individual star of the pastime.

K. of C. Five Seeks 15th Straight Victory

The Knights of Columbus unlimited quintet will be gunning for its fiftieth victory of the season tonight when it meets the Brookland A. C. at 8 p. m. on the home floor. Thursday the Caseys stack up against the D. C. Firemen on the home court at the same hour. The Knights are angling for a game with the Jewish Community Center five and the Griff-Consumers. A game with the Delaware & Hudson Team has been arranged for February 19 at Tech High School.

J. C. C. GIRLS PLAY.

The Jewish Community Center Junior Girls Team will open its season tonight, meeting the Park View Tea mat 8:30 o'clock on the Center court. Tomorrow the Senior Girls Team will oppose the United Typewriter Grays sextet at 9 p. m. The Seniors easily defeated the McLean tossers in their first game.

CRUCIAL COUNTY GAME.

Takoma-Silver Spring High School's Basket Ball Team will clash with Damascus today in the most critical game of the Montgomery County court series. The teams are tied for first place and the game will decide the lead. It will be played at the Silver Spring High Gym and be preceded by a girls' game between representatives of the same schools.

HUNT RESTS EYES.

Eye strain, brought on by close application to his textbooks, has caused Gilbert Hunt, leading young tennis player of Washington, to consult a specialist who hase advised the youth not to play tennis for the next several weeks. Hunt, a student at Eastern High, appears at classes with colored glasses.

The young net stylist, who holds the D. C. and Middle Atlantic boys singles title, recently gained the final round of the national indoor event held in Baltimore.

G. U. PREP MIDGETS COP.

TECH FIVE SEEKING SERIES LEAD AND REVENGE TODAY

Central and Western to Clash in 2d Game at Tech Gym.

THE two-fold purpose of taking first place in the high school series and avenging a setback suffered in early season confronts Tech High's basket ball team today, and the odds lean heavily in its direction as the team prepares to meet Business High this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Tech gym.

Eastern High, leaders of the scholastic court pack until Tech lowered its standards last Friday, should fade passively into second place today, for it is a blank date in the series for the Easterners, and Tech has given every reason to believe that it will down Business. Had the first Business-Tech game gone one second longer, Tech would have won; but Russell popped in one from the side immediately after the gun sounded, and Business won the decision, 28-27.

Tech Five Has Improved.

Tech has improved notably since then, defeating Western, Central, and Eastern with comparative ease. Central and Eastern have beaten Business in the interim.

The second game today at Tech matches Central and Western. The Georgetown boys should not present a very serious obstacle to Central. Another loss for Western definitely will eliminate them from consideration as contenders, four already having been suffered. Central is still notably in the running, and today's expected victory will put them distinctly back in the running.

As the boys start their second half of the series Tech looms as a force which can not be stopped unless injuries strike among the five boys who are holding the squad toge her, Russell, Wheeler, Reed, Reichardt and Thomas. Artie Willison, captain and guard, may be in uniform this week, after and extended lay-off, and should bolster measurably the reserve strength.

Zone Defense To Be Used.

Tech probably will continue its use of the zone defense today, despite Business' ability to confound this plan of play with premature "freezing" tactics and good lo g shooting. Tech assumes man-to-man guarding only near the close of a tight game, at which point its players are markedly fresher than ones who have played man to man throughout the game.

Eastern will buck the series today by entertaining George Washington University freshmen at Eastern.

GRAYS DOWN T. B. M.

The Chevy Chase Grays upset the strong Takoma Business Men last night, 17-15, at the Kensington Armory.

CALMES WINS BY K. O.

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Baxter Calmes, Oklahoma City light-heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout victory over Paul Pantaleo, of Chicago, in the seventh round of a ten-round main bout at White City tonight.

Pantaleo suffered an injury to his right hand early in the fight and took a terrific beating until he voluntarily gave up at the end of the seventh.

CAPITAL TOWERS WIN.

Aloha Lites Seeking 130-Pound Basket Ball Crown.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE students have entered a team in the 130-pound championship of the gigantic District A. A. U. Basket Ball Tournament, which opens March 1 within the spacious confines of Tech High Gymnasium. Once more the tournament is sponsored by The Washington Post.

The club was formed at the insistence of Andy Mack, a young man who is a guiding figure in all lines of endeavor at the institution, particularly in sports. He has observed the manner in which the Gallaudet Varsity Club has declined this year from last, recognized the need of a form of competition which would season the younger and lighter boys of the school.

Hence—the Aloha Lites—his team, coached by Mack and J. Marion Bradley, has played in several games the rules of the basket ball committee call for and have met with good fortune.

Players on Squad Listed.

On the squad are Arthur Ovist, Abe Kruger, Wilson Grabill, Achille Buzzelli, Max Mossell, John G. O'Brien, Thomas Ulmer, Charles Whitman, Leslie Hinnant, and David Morrill.

To the Aloha Lites go the distinction of being the first team to slip under the wire almost a month before entries close. Its ten players are all registered, and the team blank has been filled out. Not only that, but Manager Mack flashed a $2.50 check within the letter and included the picture published herewith.

Only six days are left for the teams in the 130, 145 and unlimited classes to register players for the tournament. All players must be registered as amateurs, with Charles M. Fyfe at the Boys Club by February 1. Team blanks on these classes and all other classes must be returned to Walter Haight at the sports department of The Post by February 23. Blanks for both player registration and team entries may be secured at The Post.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THREE years ago, when Tony Santini surprised every one interested in bowling, including himself, by rolling a set of 624 to place second to Brad Mandley in the first block of the Howard Campbell Sweepstakes, he was asked how he came to take up the game. Tony replied that he used to leave his stand, located in the old Center Market, during the lunch period and go upstairs to the Grand Central Alleys to witness the stars rolling in pot games for fair-sized sums.

"When I saw them making easy money like that," he continued, "I figured that maybe with an little practice I could do the same thing."

Tony did practice. Every free minute of his time was utilized in brushing up his game, but it was a long, long grind, and disappointment after disappointment. He finished eighth in 1929, after getting off to a great start. He dropped to thirty-first the following year. Last year, however, he won fourth place money with a score of 1,820, a single pin behind Ollie Pacini. His triumph Saturday night, by far the most spectacular ever recorded, was the climax to years of earnest effort, and Santini deserved to win. Best of all, the crowd was of the same mind.

In connection with the sweepstakes we desire to call your attention to a statement made by Ralph Brackbill, bowling editor of the Baltimore Sun, in Saturday's issue of that paper. Brackbill was discussing Ed Blakeney's chances of winning the event. He was, at that time, leading Johnny Anderson by one pin. The writer said, in part, "Washington's rollers had their pride badly hurt when Ray Barnes walked off with the $1,000 National Sweepstakes here recently and here's betting that, if Blakeney bags first money in the Campbell event, the District clans will find a way to bar Baltimoreans henceforth and forever."

It seems to us that Baltimoreans should never have been allowed to enter the tournament in the first place. The tournament was organized, if we have been correctly informed, for the purpose of giving the crack bowlers of this city a chance to vie with one another for a large purse. In order to restrict the event exclusively to Washington men, a clause was inserted in the regulations governing the tournament, to the effect that only members of Washington leagues would be eligible. All went well enough until certain teams began to import Baltimore men to strengthen them. With a chance to win a good-sized purse, these newcomers naturally enough went into the Campbell tournament, but this year is the first that one of them has come close to winning.

Brackbill was correct in his assertion that Baltimore men probably would be barred in the future had Blakeney won. During the rolling of the final block Saturday night, one official connected with the affair stated that a Baltimore victory would be harmful to future runnings of the stakes. He also said that he would propose a rule barring men living outside of the city, regardless of their league affiliations. "If it is intended to be a 'home-town' affair, why not make it one," he contended?

The Sun writer's idea that Washington's pride was hurt by defeat in the National is just so much food for the squirrels. Our bowlers, of course, always want to win, but they have never yet given up the game because of a defeat. But we do think that the little fellows, who have to pay $28 along with the aces, should be protected against the invasion of stars from the neighboring city.

"Slim" Dykes and his Photo quintet held away in the Engineering Reproduction League at Arcadia. "Slim" had the pins falling all over each other, rolling a game of 126 and a set of 354. His mates pooled the firm's resources for a game of 509 and set of 1,623. The others weren't even close.

Pacini Gets 10 Spares In Row in "Pot" Game

Reeling off ten spares in a row to score 173 pins in a single game, Ollie Pacini rolled a set of 700 in a pot game at Lucky Strike last night. The Italian ace had just finished rolling with the Rinaldi Tailors against the Barnes Motors team in the National Capital League. His games were 173, 155, 134, 129 and 109. Chester Bild was paired with Pacini, and opposing them were George Iseman and Tony Santini. Pacini's total at the end of three games, 462, betters by six pins the three-game record.

Frank marked up a game of 146 and set of 397, and his teammates pounded their way through to a game of 627 and set of 1,755.

Tony Santini followed up his Campbell victory by leading the Rinaldi Tailors in scoring last night at Lucky Strike. The Tailors, however, with games of 554, 552 and 616, dropped two into the win column of Barnes Autos, which counted games of 560, 642 and 522. Santini turned in a game of 144 and set of 375. In each instance, however, Sam Del Vecchio was just a bit better. The latter rolled a game of 154 and set of 376.

Miss Newenahan's 127 game and 314 set topped the individual scoring in the Eastern Star ladies' circuit at Lucky Strike. La Fayette bagged the team game prize with 510, and Washington Centennial, No. 1, spilled the maples for a set of 1,451. All of the matches were decided by 2-1 decisions. Washington Centennial, No. 2, turned back Joseph Milans, Mizpah downed Bethany, Unity trimed Lebanon and La Fayette gained the verdict over Washington Centennial, No. 1.

Here's one for Hix. Rolling in the King Pin Business Men's League at King Pin No. 2, King Pin No. 2 took two from Lansburgh No. 2. The winners left the deuces long enough to ring up a 608 game and 1,679 set to lead the loop. Lansburgh No. 1 was one game better than Hecht, and the First Americans took all three from the Nationals, despite a 134 game and 364 set by Nash, of the losers.

Little Lord Baltimore and his playmates, considered sissies by the other teams in the Petroleum League, proved to be very much to the contrary at Columbia. So much so that American Oil now has a swell goose egg for breakfast. Crew-Levick, the gentleman from Chicago, damaged a few of the Lonnie Krauss' pins for a game of 570 and set of 1,586, to win a pair from Standard. Chapman and Texas concluded the program by winning the odd ones from Gulf and Tidewater. Marcellino's 131 game was high for the night. He also tied with O'Bold at 340 for the set prize.

Farm Management showed the boys a few things about bowling in the Men's Agriculture loop at Columbia, winning three from Horticulture and all of the team and individual honors. The team walked off with the high game of 580 and set of 1,609. Just to rub it in Cooper romped away with the individual game, 146, and set, 357, prizes. In the other matches Nomics and Grain whitewashed Cooperation and Crop Estimate, and Standards took two from the Fruit and Vegetable Twins.

The honors were well distributed in the Ladies' Agriculture League at Columbia. Miss James, of Foreign, battered the bottles for a set of 307, and Miss Pettry, of Cooperation, won game prize with her score of 116. Extension collected on its game of 473 and set of 1,328, while taking the deciding tilt from Cotton. In the other matches Live Stock won a pair from Inter-Division, Cooperation took all three from Accounts, and Foreign was an ace better than Information.

Peggy Shannon's 112 game and Miss Butrimawich's 294 set were the best individual scores recorded in the General Counsel Ladies League at Lucky Strike. Answers' 452 game and 1,297 set copped the team laurels. Civil gained a 2-1 victory over Petitions, Answers got in the last word in its debate with Appeals and Administration received the deuce in its deal with Penal.

Mutz's 151 game and 396 set helped Potomac Electrotype win all three from Craftsmen in the Typothetae race at Lucky Strike. Judd & Detweiler rolled the highest game and set of the night, 608 and 1,717, but was only one game better than Washington Typos. National Capital Press and A. C. Mellichampe took all the marbles from Gibson Bros. and Casion Press. Charley Potter's representatives turned back Maxwell Jones' gang by one game, and Haywood Printing had its hands full in winning the odd tilt from Standard Engraving. Central Press and Big Print Shop whitewashed R. P. Andrews and Columbia.

Frank Procter's 160 game and 393 total topped the scoring in Section I, North of Washington League at Silver Spring. Faulconer-Procter benefited by Frank's scoring, winning two from the Howitzer Giants. The Shade Factory rolled a set of 1,717 to win two from Acme Sheet Metal, and L. E. Breuninger turned in a game of 617 to eke out a 2-1 victory over the Old Timers. F. G. P. and Kensington threw Silver Spring Electrical & Service Co. for three game losses.

Bittenbender smashed the set record in the Sanico loop at Convention Hall, hanging up a new mark of 384. He also had high game for the night, 138. The McFalls took the better part of a 2-1 decision from the Willis crew, aided by a 532 game, and the Uppermans won a pair from the Kings, with a set of 1,544. The La Belles shut out the Wynns, and Tiencken bagged the odd game from Foster.

For the third week in a row, Mike Kapneck was the star of the Merchants' League at Convention. Mike rolled a game of 145 and set of 374 to lead his team to a 3-0 win over Thompson's Dairy. The team, of course, followed Mike's lead and hung up a game of 611 and set of 1,692. W. R. Winslow, National Glass, Penn Electric and Uneeda Bakers won the deciding games from Barber & Ross, Thompson's Furniture, W. B. Moses, and Southern Dairies.

D. C. GOLFERS QUALIFY AT MIAMI

Laudick, Nicholson, Wineman Survive Medal Round.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25.—Three Washington, D. C., golfers qualified for match play in the annual Miami Beach championship golf tournament over the La Gorce Golf Club course here today. They are L. W. Laudick, of the Columbia Country Club, and H. W. D. Nicholson and J. C. Wineman, of the Indian Spring Country Club.

Laudick turned in a card of 43-43—86, one stroke better than the return of Nicholson, who posted 47-40—87. Wineman just managed to come in under 100, with 46-53—99.

T. Phillip Perkins, of New York, former British amateur champion and runner-up to Bobby Jones for the U. S. crown in 1928, led the field with 36—40—76.

P. M. Hohlefelder, of Cleveland, and John B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., the latter being the defending champion, were tied for second at 77. Hohlefelder shot 36 and 40, while Ryerson's nine-hole totals reversed. Perkins played steady golf throughout, and it appeared as though he was not pressing. Ryerson missed an opportunity of garnering the medal when he took an 8 on the par 4 fifth hole.

9-GAME GRID LIST FOR VIRGINIA

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 25. Virginia today began looking forward to the 1932 football season. At the same time that James G. Driver, athletic director, announced the nine game schedule for next fall, men eligible for the varsity eleven, who are not engaged in indoor sports, prepared for a five-week session of winter practice.

Equipment was issued this afternoon to more than 50 men who will drill on Lambeth Field three afternoons each week until the end of February. Fred Dawson, who will coach the Cavaliers next fall, will direct the practices.

Candidates to Drill Thrice a Week.

Lewis Reiss, captain-elect of football, called a squad meeting last week. After some discussion the men who will be candidates for the varsity next fall voted that they would drill each Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon until the second term examinations.

Football men who are on indoor sport teams will not be called upon to give up these activities as is the case in some institutions where concentrated winter grid work is carried on. Coach Dawson plans to have a series of football games with four teams in action before the end of February.

Virginia's varsity gridiron schedule for next fall lists six games at home and three away. Columbia University, which will be played in New York City on October 15, is the only team scheduled that has not had gridiron relations with Virginia for 30 years or more.

Maryland Series Started in 1898.

Maryland, which Virginia played first in 1898, Washington and Lee, played since 1890, and North Carolina, played since 1892, are Southern Conference rivals to be played at home. The Cavaliers will travel to play V. M. I., which was first on the schedule in 1893, and V. P. I., first scheduled in 1896.

The 1932 football schedule follows:

September 24—Hampden-Sidney, at home.

October 1—Marvland, at home; 8, Roanoke, at home; 15, Columbia, in New York; 22, V. M. I., in Lexington; 29, St. Johns, at home.

November 5—Washington and Lee, at home; 12, V. P. I., in Blacksburg; 24, North Carolina, at home.

Chapman, High Jumper, Is Lone Tech Entry in Meadowbrook Meet

COACH HAP HARDELL will take a team of one man to the Meadowbrook games, pinning the hopes of Tech High upon the slim shoulders of Marvin Chapman, high jumper and most promising veteran on the Manual Trainers' team this year.

Chapman began to improve at the Catholic University indoor meet last winter, when he soared into a joint ownership of the D. C. A. A. U. high jump championship, with J. Krick, of C. U., by clearing 5-feet-10.

In trials this season Chapman did 5-feet-11½. Hardell and the youthful jumper may be accompanied by Doody Smith, Tech hurdler, but probably not in an official capacity.

At present Coach Hardell is attempting to reshape the event in which Tech has dominated the high school field for nearly a decade, the relay. Livingston is the only veteran back in uniform, and to him has been attached Wohlfarth, Meikeljohn and Foley, football men. Meikeljohn also will appear in the javelin toss.

Hardell has turned to his football squad for weight men, culling Esunas and Howser, linemen, to heave the discus and shot.

National Collegiate Swim at Ann Arbor

Philadelphia, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Approval of the ninth annual national collegiate swimming championships, to be held at Ann Arbor, Mich., on March 25 and 26, as official Olympic tryouts, was announced today by Fred W. Luehring, secretary of the American Olympic swimming committee.

Assurance of this, Luehring said, was received from Avery Brundage, of Chicago, president of the American Olympic Association.

Luehring also said there is a possibility that freshmen swimmers whose performances excel those of the varsity swimmers will be given an opportunity to compete.

The championships will be held in the pool of the University of Michigan.

Boxing Show Thursday At Congressional Club

The regular monthly bouts of the Congressional Country Club will be held Thursday night beginning at 8:30 o'clock, it was announced last night by Dr. O. U. Singer, chairman of the club's committee on boxing, who, with James F. Nolan, chairman of the club's board, has built up a strong boxing interest at the River Road institution.

Marion Brooks, crack 18-year-old amateur fighter from the Charlottesville (Va.) School for Boys, heads the bill. The welter will meet LeRoy Zinkham, of the Ritz A. C., Baltimore.

MERIDIANS CHALLENGE.

The Meridians are looking for games with unlimited teams. Call Columbia 6327-W. The team has won ten straight.

U. S. L. T. A. Meeting Draws 3 District Men

Washington will have three representatives at the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, to be held in New Orleans, La., February 6. The envoys are Lawrence A. Baker, of the Chevy Chase Club; Thomas J. Mangan, jr., Columbia, and Winfree Johnson, president of the Washington Tennis Association.

Baker, a strong candidate for the secretary's post in the national body, will attend in the capacity of chairman of the committee on constitution and rules. Mangan is the delegate of the Middle Atlantic Association, and Johnson will represent the National Public Parks Association, of which he is president.

MARINES VS. BOATMEN.

The Quantico Marines will entertain the Potomac Boat Club five tonight at 8 o'clock on the home court. The Devil Dogs were hard pressed to earn a 30-28 victory over the Boatmen earlier in the season and are anticipating another tough game tonight. Tomorrow night the Marines will invade Alexandria for a benefit game with the Alexandria Fire Department.

EBBETS STOPS COLLINS.

J. C. C. QUINTET BOOKING.

The Jewish Community Center 145-pound team would like to book games with strong teams in its class. Teams interested should call Sam Zola at Lincoln 1669.

MARYLAND U. FIVE HOST TO V. M. I.

Old Liners Seek Sixth Straight; Sophomore Players Star.

A MARYLAND UNIVERSITY quintet that appears definitely to have struck the stride which helped it to a Southern Conference championship last year, renews court activity tonight in the new Ritchie Coliseum at College Park in a game with an old rival, Virginia Military Institute. The game will begin at 8 o'clock.

Disappointing in its first two games, the Old Line team began functioning smoothly about ten days ago and in the interim has come along rapidly toward a state of perfection with a record of five straight victories.

Sophomores Big Help.

The recent success of Maryland's five is attributed generally to the presence in the line-up of two sophomores, Rufus Vincent at center, and Bucky Buscher at guard. These two have supplanted Jack Norris and Charlie May, both regulars of the 1931 championship team.

In the other positions, veterans hold forth. This trio are Bozie Berger, all-American guard, and George Chalmers and Ed Ronkin, forwards. The performance of the new combination last week against Virginia and Johns Hopkins was the equal of the best displayed by the Maryland Team of last year.

V. M. I. will be out for revenge tonight, as the Lexington quintet absorbed a 43-28 beating from the Old Liners on January 12. That result was particularly distasteful to the Cadets because they had enjoyed a huge point advantage in the first part of the contest.

J. C. C. MATMEN BUSY.

The Jewish Community Center Wrestling Team, on which appears three District A. A. U. champions, will entertain the strong Hagerstown Y. M. C. A. grapplers Saturday night at the J. C. C. Admission is 25 cents to nonmembers.

FIERMONTE WINNER.

STOCK PRICES RALLY DESPITE DULL SALES

Trading Is Quietest Since September 1; Turnover Is 829,780 Shares.

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The stock market had a hard time finding enough business to keep the machinery moving today. Trading was the dullest since September 1, the turnover amounting to only 829,780 shares.

Notwithstanding the dullness, prices held firm after a sag at the start. At one time leaders were 1 to 2 points to the good, with the best advances moving the rails. These gains dwindled eventually, but the market succeeded in closing slightly higher.

Activity was held down by the imminence of several happenings to which traders have been looking for guidance. At the top of the list came tomorrow's meeting of the United States Steel Corporation directors, although the railroad wage conference ran to a close second. Wall street is hoping for the best from each.

Steel Sells Higher.

United States Steel common was closely watched, as is usual just before the dividend action. The stock sold up 1⅜, lending some encouragement to other industrials, and holding the bulk of the gain. Brokerage houses pointed that the question of maintaining the $1 quarterly payment probably depended on how encouraging immediate prospects appeared to the board. Steel manufacturing has improved steadily this month, although it is still well below the profit level, and whether a full measure of seasonal gain will come this winter and early spring is still a matter of some conjecture.

Late selling of American Telephone and Standard Oil of New Jersey brought the market down from its top. Both issues closed above the bottom, however. Southern Pacific's poor December income figures found the stock a trifle heavy, but it recovered.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision allowing Southern Pacific to acquire the Cotton Belt was announced just after the close. There was a sprinkling of fractional to one-point net advances through the carrier group, firmer issues including New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific and Louisville & Nashville.

Rail Earnings Unfavorable.

December railroad earnings, as expected, are making unfavorable comparisons with 1930, this giving the carriers a poor month with which to top off 1931. Harder hit roads now have two sources of relief—the railroad credit and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—which can make loans for meeting maturities and paying bond interest. It is expected applications for assistance will be fairly numerous.

It is understood that substantial gold shipments from the French balances will move to Paris on fast liners at the week-end, although continued heaviness of the franc might cause the cancellation of some contracts already made on an exchange basis. Foreign gold earmarkings increased $4,000,000 today, but there is a belief in banking circles that Europe's fears of an American inflation have been allayed. In some quarters it was suggested that the lowering of the Richmond Reserve Bank's rate might be interpreted as another step in the easy money policy, although it is believed that program will be worked out slowly, partly because of recent gold losses.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Likelihood of crop damage to new winter wheat east of the Mississippi led to better buying of grains late today and to consequent price upturns.

July wheat, representing the new 1932 crop sold even up with May, which stands for wheat already on the elevators or in farmers' bins. Basis of belief regarding domestic winter wheat crop deterioration was found in current reports that alternate freezing and thawing had become widespread.

Rallying from early setbacks, wheat closed unsettled, ¼@⅝c above Saturday's finish; corn, ⅛@⅜c up; oats, unchanged to ⅛c higher, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

Helping to lift wheat values during the last part of the day was a sharp decrease of 1,540,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, contrasting with 984,000 increase a year ago. Another element of strength was the fact that traders were commenting more freely on possibility that stocks of wheat outside of Farm Board supplies may become small enough to tighten the cash markets. There were also late advices indicating that Russian acreage of winter grain was considerably smaller than last year.

Early foreign news gave a temporary advantage to bears, especially announcement that world's shipments of wheat were 19,161,000 bushels, the largest total in several weeks, a result of augmented exports from Argentina and Australia. The amount of wheat on ocean passage showed 5,784,000 bushels increase in the last week, making the aggregate afloat for importing countries about 16,000,000 bushels in excess of the total at this time last year. Dispatches from Australia said the bulk of the Australian wheat crop had moved out of farmers' possession this season unusually quick.

Corn and oats displayed firmness from the start. There was no pressure of corn supplies here, despite slackness of Eastern demand.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 57½@57⅝c, 58⅛@58⅜c; July, 57½, 58⅝@58¾c; September, 59, 60¼. Corn—May, 40⅜, 41⅝@41¾c; July, 41⅞, 42⅝.

Cash grain:

CORN—No. 2 yellow, 38½; No. 4 white, 36@36¼.

WOODSON IS NAMED BY RAILWAY CREDIT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

E. R. Woodson, of this city, has been appointed vice president and comptroller of the Railroad Credit Corporation, according to announcement from the corporation's headquarters in the Transportation Building yesterday.

The corporation formed by the railroads for the purpose of collecting, receiving and administering through loans to needy rail carriers, funds growing out of the increase in freight rates allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, has announced its permanent organization as follows:

President, E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; vice president and comptroller, Mr. Woodson; secretary, William J. Kane, of this city; assistant secretary, M. K. Dugan, New Haven, Conn.; treasurer, Arthur B. Chapin, Boston, Mass.; counsel, Daniel Willard, jr., Baltimore, Md.

Woodson Born in Virginia.

Mr. Woodson, who was born in Roanoke, Va., has been secretary and treasurer of the Railway Accounting Officers Association since 1914. He originally entered railway service as a stenographer in the superintendent's office of the Norfolk & Western Railway. Mr. Woodson is president of the Kiwanis Club in Washington and chairman of the international committee on vocational guidance of that organization. Mr. Kane formerly was connected with the car service division of the American Railway Association and is a practicing attorney.

There was $56,294,000 worth of new ordinary paid-for life insurance business, exclusive of group sales, transacted in the District of Columbia during 1931, according to a tabulation by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn., made public yesterday. This was only 5 per cent under the total of the preceding year.

Sales throughout the country in the foregoing classification totaled $8,048,347,000, and this was 13 per cent less than the total of 1930. December sales for the District totaled $6,656,000 and were 6 per cent ahead of the aggregate for the month last year.

Gains Are Reported.

Fifty-three per cent of companies doing business here and covered by the bureau's survey reported gains for the month. The 76 companies whose statistics are included in this survey had 88 per cent of legal reserve ordinary life insurance in force in the United States on January 1, 1931.

A campaign for recruitment of a larger membership in Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, from among official personnel of Washington banks is launched editorially in the second worthy issue of Dollars and Sense, chapter publication, to make its appearance without benefit of advertising yesterday.

Remarking that while, with few exceptions, every local bank has officers who are graduates of the institute, it calls attention to the fact that some of these have not been associated with the institute for several years and are not, therefore, fully cognizant of its amazing progress.

Bankers as Members.

This is evidenced, the article continues, by the fact that 189 of the 331 officers of 37 local banks are not members of Washington Chapter. Additional memberships from this group, it reminds, will both assist and encourage this important work.

Of the 37 banks, personnel of which is eligible to chapter membership, only three can boast of 100 per cent officer enrollment. These are Security Savings & Commercial Bank, Washington Loan & Trust Co. and First National Bank of Alexandria. Only one bank, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. has 100 per cent enrollment of directors.

The issue announces that President Henry J. Mergler, of the National Institute, will be the guest of honor at the annual dinner of Washington Chapter at the Willard Hotel on the evening of February 13.

Edward McLain Gurr, former Georgian, has joined the annuity department of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York. Mr. Gurr was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1924 with high scholastic and athletic honors, immediately joining Coca-Cola Co.'s legal department and traveling throughout the country in this capacity.

For the past five years he has been prominently connected with the Guaranty Co. of New York, developing business in the Southern territory. For the past year he has been in the local office of this firm. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, the Piedmont Driving Club of Atlanta and the Racquet Club of this city.

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—The banking syndicate which last week underwrote and sold for New York City a $100,000,000 issue of 6 per cent corporate notes today placed that amount of money to the credit of the municipality.

Thus New York was able to pay current bills, some of which had been up while the city government was negotiating with the bankers. The syndicate, numbering 50 banks and banking firms, is also establishing a revolving fund of $151,000,000 whereon the city can draw in anticipation of tax collections falling due in May and November.

California Fruit Area Hit by Cold

Los Angeles, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Winter's flirtation with southern California's climate grew into a serious affair today following a cold snap last night. Reports of extensive damage to fruit trees were made by agriculturists.

The brunt of the cold was felt in the Imperial Valley, one of the hottest sections of the country in summer. The thermometer at a key station of the United States Weather Bureau dropped to 20.2 degrees. Weather Bureau officials and grapefruit inspectors estimated that 75 per cent of the grapefruit crop was damaged.

Fruit taken from trees today was opened and the juice found partly frozen. Agriculturists reported that 350,000 boxes of grapefruit have been shipped and estimated about 250,000 boxes were affected by the frost.

New Burglar Gong Soon Shows It Will Alarm

Burglars better keep away from the Park Savings Bank, Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest.

The bank had its first burglar alarm installed yesterday morning. Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon it went off. Telephonic inquiry revealed that one of the tellers had accidentally kicked a lever which releases the alarm.

BOND MARKET GAINS FRACTION AT CLOSE

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Trading virtually came to a standstill in today's bond market with the range of prices so narrow that an exceptionally close inspection was required to detect any trend whatever.

Sales totaled only $9,469,000, the smallest aggregate since November 25. The average for 60 corporate issues advanced 1-10 of a point.

Railway securities generally marked time throughout the session, most traders waiting for a decision at the Chicago wage reduction conference.

There was a flurry in Wabash lines which advanced from 1¾ to more than 5 points on announcement that receivers for the road had asked and received permission of the Federal Court in St. Louis to apply to the new Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of $18,500,000.

United States Government obligations here irregular, most of the Treasury issues slipping fractionally following an offering of $350,000,000 in new Federal financing. Liberty loans, however, firmed and closed slightly higher.

The foreign category was somewhat spotty and dull. German Government 7s advanced slightly and the 5½s were unchanged. British 5½s were up moderately, as were Japanese 6½s. Canadian issues were steady and South Americans easy. Belgian loans were somewhat in demand.

The new British Ambassador to the United States, James Bryce, is expected here shortly. He was given a farewell dinner last night in Manchester, England, preparatory to his sailing for the States.

The funeral of Senator Russell Alexander Alger, of Michigan, was attended by several hundreds of officials and private citizens.

Twelve men were killed in a mine explosion in Weston, W. Va.

Representative Davis, of Minnesota, had a conference with the President on the subject of pay increases for Government clerks. It is believed in official circles that the pay will soon be raised, as it is known that there are many inequalities at the present time.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE HON. HERBERT HOOVER,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

Can you help me clear up a matter that has been agitating my mind for the past few days? What I want to know is whether I can get some financial aid from the Charlie Dawes Reconstruction & First Aid Corporation? All I can make from the newspaper stories is that the organization is launched and that its purpose is to give a friendly hand to needy financial cases. You could go over the country with a fine tooth comb and vacuum cleaner without stirring up a needier case than mine.

* * * *

If the idea is to provide reconstruction where reconstruction is needed, I am your man. Financially I am such a wreck as you would not find in years of travel. There is hardly a timber left standing, in fact I think that you and Gen. Dawes would be interested in my case if only from the standpoint of an interesting problem in engineering.

* * * *

I suppose that you would have to have a complete statement of facts in my case before you could decide whether to help reconstruct me or not, so here goes. Up until the last two years I was in fine shape and a good risk anywhere. People would even take my promissory note in bridge games. Then it happened.

* * * *

For a long time I still thought I was all right, but of late I have felt alarming symptoms. You know what I mean. Cold sweats at night, spots before my I. O. U.'s, pains in my neck, a sinking sensation whenever I tried to balance my checkbook, and a general feeling of heaviness. I was so nervous I would jump every time I heard an optimistic statement from a cabinet officer. I couldn't sleep nights. I tried counting bears, but I couldn't. There were too many.

* * * *

PEOPLE avoided me. I wondered why she would dance only one dance with me. Even my best friends wouldn't tell me. Then—quite suddenly—it dawned on me. * * * I was suffering frozen assets!

* * * *

Oh, the humiliation! Oh, the shame and embarrassment, Mr. President! Then, for the first time, I realized why people turned away from me. I saw why men and women would suddenly leave me. I understood why I was a wallflower! What to do? What to do?

* * * *

Just when it seemed that there was no way out and that I must go through life being shunned by people, a friend told me what to do. He said, "Why don't you try the Reconstruction Corporation? I know cases where it has worked cures overnight." And he showed me a testimonial that read, "For years I was a sufferer from frozen assets. I could get no relief. Then I heard of Dr. Dawes Reconstruction Tablets, and, after taking three boxes, I am my old self again."

* * * *

And so, Mr. President, I am writing you for this remarkable cure. Would you get in touch with Gen. Dawes and let me hear from you at once? Don't tell me the Reconstruction pills are not for individuals. I can incorporate, if necessary.

Yours truly,

CLAIMANTS RENEW WENDEL WILL FIGHT

March 14 Is Set in New York as Date for Filing of Probate Protests.

New York, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Lured by gold awaiting its successful claimants, a large number of attorneys, representing nearly 2,000 hopefuls, appeared in court today to object to probate of the will of Ella E. von E. Wendel.

The estate is estimated to be worth between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000. John Killoran, clerk of the probate division of surrogate's court, set March 14 as the date for filing all objections and notices of appearances. Many of the claimants were present today, while others, from across the seas, sent word they believed themselves entitled to share in the estate.

None of the attorneys, however, represented "Toby," the last of the long line of dogs by that same name which kept Miss Wendel company during the scores of years she lived in a Fifth avenue mansion.

Dog Left Out of Will.

The application for probate of the will was made on September 25 by Charles G. Koss, attorney for Miss Wendel, an executor and a beneficiary under the will. It was he save "Toby" and the corps of servants, still keeping house in the same routine fashion they never broke during Miss Wendel's life time, permission to continue their well-regulated lives in the mansion. The servants, but not "Toby," were remembered in Miss Wendel's will.

Among the new claimants in the claimant-crowded courtroom were two who arrived from Germany last week. Andreas Wendel and Richard Wendel Sturm, of Bremen, Germany, were present with their attorney, August Dieterich, of Stuttgart, Germany, and the relative with whom they are staying, John Wendel Luebben, of New York City, also a claimant.

Claim Relationship.

They claim relationship to the testator in the sixth degree of consanguinity and assert they can trace their ancestry to John Daniel Wendel, grandfather of Miss Ella Wendel.

When the application for probate was filed in September, the executors placed on file a waiver of citation and consent to probate signed by Rosa New Stansbury, 74, of Vicksburg, Miss., whom the executors described as the only next of kin.

Since September, however, Miss Stansbury has regretted signing the waiver, engaged legal counsel and through them declared she signed away her rights under misapprehension for less than $1,500 in cash and a promise of $25,000 when the estate was settled.

Jury Ordered to Probe Cook County Judiciary

Chicago, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—An inquiry into Cook County's judiciary, with an ultimate investigation of a Chicago crime commissioner's investigation, was ordered today by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the criminal court.

Summoning the grand jurors, Justice Fisher recalled to them last week's report of the crime commission, in which some unnamed jurists were severely criticized and one was declared to be known as "Cash Register." The grand jury was instructed to probe the commission's charge of corruption in the judiciary and to return indictments if any collusion is found.

8 Virginia Stations On Air Honor Roll

(Associated Press.)

Eight Virginia radio stations were on the Commerce Department's honor roll yesterday for keeping within 100 cycles of their frequency assignments during the month of December.

Six of the stations had less than 50 cycles deviation. They were WBBL, Richmond; WBTM, Danville; WDBJ, Roanoke; WGH, Newport News; WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, and WTAR-WPOR, Norfolk.

The other two, WRVA, Richmond, and WLVA, Lynchburg, were more than 50 cycles off, but kept within the 100-cycle mark. Forty-five per cent of the 422 stations measured deviated less than 50 cycles, and 23.2 per cent showed a deviation less than 100 cycles.

Ritchie Demands Parties Make Dry Law Stand

Philadelphia, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Clear enunciation by the Democratic and Republican parties of their stand on prohibition for the coming presidential campaign was urged here today by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. The Governor spoke before the Women's Democratic Luncheon Club at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

A plea for tolerance in criticizing the Republican party was made by the Governor, who declared "the part of a minority party is to give constructive public service, to be on guard and alert but not to criticize unduly."

Philatelists Jam Office For Olympics Stamps

Lake Placid, N. Y., Jan. 25 (U.P.).—Stamp collectors from all sections of the United States attended today's opening sale of the special commemorative stamp in honor of the third Olympic winter games. State troopers were on duty at the postoffice at 5 a. m., when crowds began to collect. More than 400 persons were standing in line when the office opened at 7 a. m.

The stamps, of which 25,000,000 have been issued, are of 2-cent denomination. Four hundred thousand were sent to Lake Placid for the opening day's sale. They were sold out before the day ended.

Grave Desecration Probe Begun.

Danville, Va., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Commonwealth's Attorney Joseph Whitehead, jr., has begun an investigation of the desecration of a grave in a private cemetery near here.

MRS. MARY NORTON TO FIGHT PAY CUTS; RAPS MAPES BILLS

ELECTED COMMISSION FAVORED FOR DISTRICT

North Capitol Association Attacks Tax Measures Now Pending.

Notice that she would vote against the Mapes taxation bills and oppose any legislation designed to reduce salaries was made last night by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee, in a talk before the North Capitol Citizens Association, at McKinley High School.

Mrs. Norton also expressed herself in favor of an elective board of District Commissioners "which would remove from Congress a great deal of the burden of District affairs."

The new "mayor" of Washington predicted that the Mapes bills will not be passed. She assured the citizens that a fair hearing would be given by the Senate District committee, and described Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, its chairman, as "the best friend the District has."

Holds Salary Cuts Injustice.

Mrs. Norton termed the efforts to reduce salaries of Government employes as "a great injustice." She referred particularly to the tendency toward failing to fill vacancies in Government departments, describing the Government employes as "the most faithful workers in the country."

The movement to reduce salaries is inconsistent with the appeal of President Hoover "to keep up the standards of living," she declared. Mrs. Norton made a special appeal to citizens to cooperate with the District committee, by expressing their opinion of District bills. She asked citizens to work as a unit, and not in groups.

A response to the representative's speech was given by Mrs. Ada Mills Payne, vice president of the association.

Association Opposes Bills.

The association adopted a resolution opposing the Mapes bills, and requesting the Senate to withhold action on the legislation until a report is made by the Bureau of Efficiency. The resolution was introduced by William G. Henderson. A letter from Senator Capper, stating "that especial care should be taken in legislation that affects the pocketbooks of the people," and assuring the citizens that a full hearing will be given, was read by Will P. Kennedy, newly elected president of the association.

Georgetown Group Favor Mapes Measures, in Part

Four provisions of the Mapes tax bills were approved in part last night by the Georgetown Citizens Association, meeting at St. John's Parish Hall, and adopting resolutions brought forward by a special legislative committee.

The only bill which was utterly disapproved of was the action which is intended to abrogate the 60-40 fiscal relation between the District and the Federal Government.

The proposed increase in the gasoline tax from 2 cents a gallon to 4 was approved in toto by the citizens' body. Both the estate tax and the income tax law proposed were approved in principle, but with reservations that the rates prescribed by the select committee were too high.

The legislative committee's recommendation toward the automobile weight tax caused considerable debate among the members and finally was adopted, after amendment.

Sailor Finds Man's Body Afloat in Eastern Branch

A seaman attached to the Naval Air Station, H. C. Hortsman, found the body of a colored man floating in the Eastern Branch of the river yesterday afternoon, just off the air station.

The Harbor Precinct was notified and removed the body to the Morgue, where positive identification had not been made at a late hour, but it is believed by police that he was John E. Robertson, 44 years old, who disappeared from his home at 1502 Tenth street northwest, on January 8.

John and Priscilla Alden Scion Presents Statues

Two statues, the gift of a lineal descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, will be unveiled tonight at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest. The special ceremonies, at which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, will preside, will start at 7:45 o'clock.

The statues, figures of two angels, sculptured in Italy and carved of Carrara marble, were especially made to flank the main altar of the church.

Trinidad Citizens Score Mapes Bill

Voice Complaint Also on Postal Facilities in Northeast Area.

Opposition to the Mapes bill, now before the Senate, was expressed last night by the Trinidad Citizens Association at a meeting held in the Wheatley School, Montello avenue and Neal street northeast.

The association also opposed the appointment of any Army, Navy or Marine Corps officer to a position in the District government whereby he will continue to draw retirement pay as well as a salary for his civil position.

It was urged that better postal facilities be provided in the Northeast section. A resolution was adopted opposing any reduction in the pay of Federal or District government employes.

DIRECTOR SEES OLD BOTANIC GARDEN WALL GO

'21 LOAN TO PRINCE HELD NOT 'BAD DEBT'

Tax Appeals Board Upheld in Its Ruling Against Britton Deduction.

A $37,000 loan made by Alexander Britton, late president of the Chevy Chase Club and one of the city's leading lawyers, to his son-in-law, Prince Alfred Hohenlohe Schillingfurst, of Austria, who was secretary to the Austro-Hungarian Embassy in prewar days, and which Mr. Britton included in his income tax deductions as a "worthless debt" in 1921, was properly disallowed by the board of tax appeals, the District Court of Appeals, through Justice William S. Hitz, held yesterday.

The court held that "where a taxpayer, because of family ties, or personal relations, between himself and his debtor, is not willing to enforce payment of his debts, in whole or in part, he is not thereby entitled to deduct it from his income tax as worthless."

The justice pointed out that the prince lived on a landed estate of Friedstein, near Vienna, which was free from mortgage until four years after the debt was wiped off Mr. Britton's books. "There is no persuasive showing that the debt could not have been in considerable measure satisfied by subjecting this property to its payment or security," Justice Hitz said.

Mr. Britton, who died in 1926, should have let the matter rest for future consideration, the court said. In the hearing before the Board of Tax Appeals, Prince Hohenlohe testified that he was never pressed for the debt, though Mr. Britton had occasionally mentioned it to him.

"While the debt was of doubtful value and difficult of collection in fact, as among the parties here, it was not worthless within the meaning of the taxing act," the coort said.

Testimony in the case indicated that the prince had been hard hit by depreciating securities after the war and that he used most of the $37,000 to purchase the Vienna estate, where he now lives with his wife and two children.

Woman Insurance Judgment Upheld

Widow of Policy Holder Had Sued Company for $372 Claim.

A $372 judgment of the Municipal Court for Winnie Burton, who had sued the Washington Fidelity National Insurance Co. for that amount as being the value of a policy held by her husband, Cady Burton, at the time of his death, was affirmed by the District Court of Appeals yesterday.

Associate Justice Hitz ruled that the company was properly precluded from introducing facts from Mr. Burton's application for the policy because it did not comply with the District statute which provides that a copy of the application be sent with the policy so that the entire agreement between the company and the insured will be in the hands of the insured.

The company refused to pay the claim because it alleged Burton was not in sound health at the time the policy was issued. Statements contained in the application were contested and the trial justice ruled them out because the company had not sent Burton a copy of his application.

Mrs. Norton Loses in Vote On First Bill

It was a bad day on the Hill yesterday for the House District committee. The first District bill ever reported by a lady committee chairman was crushed ignominously beneath a chorus of "noes."

Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, does not readily accept defeat. She lost no time in cornering Speaker John Garner. She even gained his consent to call the measure up for vote again on the next "District Day."

The bill, which has passed the Senate, provides for incorporation of the District Bicentennial Commission. It would give Dr. George C. Havenner, executive officer, authority to raise funds through "concessions." Until it is passed members of the commission are personally liable.

Expected No Opposition.

Chairman Norton, who expected no opposition to the bill, found herself faced by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, and Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, both unlimbered for debate.

Mr. Blanton opposed giving the Commissioners authority to let concessions. He felt they would create monopolies similar to the monopoly he alleges they have given a cab company at Union Station. He was convinced his good friend, Sol Bloom's National Bicentennial Commission could adequately take care of the District situation.

And Representative LaGuardia did not think Mrs. Norton's measure was surrounded with the proper safeguards. He offered a "nonprofit" amendment which would have prevented the commission from cashing in on its concessions.

Calls for Previous Question.

Mrs. Norton was not kindly disposed toward the amendment. She called for the previous question. There was a vote.

"The noes seem to have it," said Speaker Garner. "The noes have it."

Mrs. Norton did not think the noes had it. She told Speaker Garner afterward she called three times for a division. Speaker Garner did not hear her, he said.

The District's lady mayor admitted she was a little ruffled when she called on the House dictator to talk it over later in the afternoon. She felt better after the conference.

"We'll pass that bill the next District Day," she said.

Mid-City Citizens Back Measure on Arms Sale

A bill now before Congress prohibiting public sale of dangerous weapons was indorsed last night by the Midcity Citizens Association at a joint meeting with the Thomson Parent-Teacher Association in the Thomson Community Center, Twelfth and L streets northwest.

The bill, introduced by Senator Capper, would prohibit the sale of firearms unless the purchaser presents a written authorization from the chief of police. Sidney Morgan addressed the meeting on the Community Chest.

Policeman Injured in Fall.

NEW CONSERVATORY IS RISING STEADILY

Botanic Gardens Structure Expected to Be Ready Next Summer.

Construction work on the new and modern conservatory of the Botanic Gardens has been progressing steadily since the corner stone was laid in the latter part of last year, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy in the middle of next summer.

One of the outstanding features of the conservatory, which will be the finest in the world when finished, is that all of the framework and superstructure is made of aluminum. This metal is especially adapted for construction work in conservatories from a technical viewpoint.

The ventilators and heat regulators of the new building will be entirely electrically operated.

Once the new buildings are completed the staff of the gardens will move the many hundreds of rare plants from their present location across the street to the new gardens, which will be bounded by Maryland avenue, First street southwest and Canal street.

The Botanic Gardens are 113 years old, and in the clearing work contractors have been obliged to move many old landmarks, including the old wall which has bounded the garden property for 70 years.

The work is being carried on under the supervision of the Architect of the Capitol, David Lynn, the technical work being done by Bennett, Parsons & Frost, architects, of New York City. George W. Hess is director of the Botanic Gardens.

Driver Hurt When Car Runs Into Embankment

A broken nose, lacerations and possible internal injuries were suffered yesterday by Melvin Burrell, of 515 Seward Square southeast, when his automobile crashed into an embankment on Hall's Hill in Arlington County. Police said Mr. Burrell, who was driving toward Washington, apparently lost control of his machine.

The man was picked up by John J. Hughes, of Falls Church, and taken to Georgetown Hospital for treatment. His condition is not believed to be serious.

Policeman Injured by Truck.

J. G. Russell, 46 years old, of 1221 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, policeman, was hit by a truck yesterday afternoon while directing traffic at Twelfth and Water streets southwest. He went to Providence Hospital and was treated for injury to his left knee. He returned to his home after treatment.

Taxi Sign Reunites Father And 2 Sons After 26 Years

Parent, Veteran of Spanish War, Believed Dead by Capital Pair.

A District regulation requiring taxicab drivers to carry their names, or the identification of their firm, plainly marked on the side of their cabs, united a father and two sons after 26 years, it was revealed yesterday.

James Joseph Carroll, of 2526 L street northwest, a somewhat corpulent carrot-topped young man who "works" the cab stand at Fourteenth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was leaning against his cab Friday just at the peak of the evening traffic, when a voice from behind him asked, "Are you Joe Carroll?" Carroll turned suddenly and peered into the eyes of a man bearing a strong facial resemblance. "Holy smoke! It's the old man," said "Joe," recognizing his father whom he thought dead for 26 years.

Carroll, a war veteran, related last night how his mother had died in 1906; his father, W. J. Carroll, then a veteran of the Spanish-American War, reenlisted in the Army at New Jersey shortly afterward, his great aunt, Mrs. Jane Beach, taking his brother, Walter, who was 8 years old, and himself, then 11 years old, to live with her at her home in Alexandria.

A few years later Mrs. Beach died. An aunt, Mrs. E. H. Stowe, then brought him here to stay. A Mrs. Martin took Walter to live with her at Laurel, Md.

Leon Herbert, an uncle, received word from a friend in 1911 that he had read of his father's death.

In 1912 Mr. Carroll retiring from the Army made his way to Nashville, Tenn., where he entered the paperhanging and painting business. Selling out the business last year he went to Hampton, Va., entering the Soldiers' Home there. He was discharged two weeks ago.

In Alexandria last week Mr. Carroll met a boyhood chum, William Penn, a retired merchant. He told him how he had lost track of his two boys. Penn remembered seeing a cab with "J. J. Carroll" lettered on the side parked at the taxistand at the corner of Fourteenth street and the Avenue, and commenting at that time on the resemblance of the driver to an old friend. Coming to Washington he accosted him and questioning revealed that "Joe" thought his father dead. Saying nothing to the contrary, Penn returned to Alexandria and told Mr. Carroll of what had occurred.

People's Counsel Will Fight Scheme Suggested by Power Company.

PEPCO PLAN REVEALED AT UTILITIES HEARING

Would Give Large Consumers Benefit Greater Than Small Ones.

The Public Utolities Commission today will hear counter proposals to that offered by the Potomac Electric Power Co. yesterday at the opening of a hearing on how the $860,000 excess profits of last year should be distributed among the consumer rate schedules for this year. People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech will lead the attack on the power company's plan to make the greater reductions to the large consumer and a cut of only two mills on the rate of the average household.

The whole day's hearing was occupied with testimony in support of the power company's proposal, which would effect a change from the flat rate to the block rate system. Witnesses for the company admitted that they expected little benefit this year from the scheme, but said it would serve to promote a greater use of electricity within the domestic classification.

Company's Rate Suggestion.

At the opening of the hearing the power officials suggested that the initial domestic rate be reduced from 4.2 to 4 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 100 kilowatt hours and that the rate in this class theerafter be 2.5 cents. Jet, Harold A. Brooks, commercial manager, testified that the average consumer uses but 59 kilowatts of current a month. This class of consumers, he said, bought 24.39 per cent of the current sold through meters and furnished 35.21 per cent of the company's revenue last year.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, called attention on several occasions to the fact that Washington is primarily a residential, rather than an industrial city and that therefore the average householder, rather than the commercial house, should get the chief benefits of any rate reductions.

William F. Ham, president of the power company, testified that the company does not make any profit from selling current to a domestic user until he consumes 50 kilowatt hours. The benefits of rate reductions, he intimated, should go to the large user.

Rate Expert Testifies.

Dr. William McClellan, president of William McClellan, Ltd., of Canada, and vice president of Stone & Webster, was introduced as a rate expert by S. R. Bowen, counsel for the power company, and he talked at length on the modern theories of rate distribution. He contended that the maximum or domestic rate should not be made too low because the minimum rate would then be too high. Under questioning by Mr. Roberts, he admitted that he knew of no city so greatly residential in proportion to industrial as Washington.

While it appeared that the commission is sympathetic to the block rate plan suggested by the power company, it indicated that a greater amount of the $860,000 should be devoted to reducing the rates of the average householder.

An effort was made by Mr. Keech and Mr. Roberts to attack the minimum 75-cent charge extracted by the power company. The latter introduced considerable testimony in reply to show the high cost of meter installation.

Change Trick Worker Makes Driver Victim

Joseph Jefferson, colored, of 2103 Seventeenth street northwest, driver for the Napoleon pastry shop at 3000 Connecticut avenue, reported to police yesterday that he was tricked out of $10 in cash and merchandise by a white man.

According to Jefferson, the man came into the store and ordered $1.40 worth of merchandise and requested that the package be delivered to 2839 Twenty-seventh street and that change for $10 also be sent along. He accompanied the driver and when they arrived at the address took the package and change and told him to wait until he went in for the $10. He waited some time and finally decided the man wasn't coming back, so the police are now looking for the man.

RILEY CASE INQUIRY AGAIN IS POSTPONED

Complaint That Probe Was Harming Chest Drive Leads to Action.

The congressional investigation of District welfare activities suffered another setback yesterday when members of a special subcommittee of the House District committee agreed to postpone hearings "until the middle of next month."

Underlying their decision is the Community Chest's current drive for funds, critics of the investigation having complained the inquiry is unfairly impeding the campaign.

Two other reasons were given by Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, whose proposed probe of the way the Edith Riley case was handled led to a much broader investigation.

Board's Busy Season.

He pointed out that Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, who can throw important light on relations of the Public Welfare Board and the Juvenile Court, is too ill to testify. Then, too, members of the subcommittee are very busy at present with other assignments, he said.

George S. Wilson, director of Public Welfare, requested a 60 to 90-day postponement at hearings a week ago, but his request was ignored at the time by the committee. He claimed that the Welfare Board is now at the peak of its busiest season.

Palmisano Tells Position.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the subcommittee, said it is entirely up to Bowman what witnesses are called at the next hearings. He recently stated he could not see where a case of "neglect" had been made out against the Welfare Board to date. Bowman contends he has scores of other cases that will bear out his charges.

Decision to postpone hearings followed a conference of Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District committee, with the three subcommittee members, Palmisano, Bowman and Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York.

Taxi Passengers Rob Driver.

Two men, one armed, who hired his cab at 1526 Fifteenth street northwest, last night robbed George Morton, colored taxi driver, of 1211 Girard street northwest, of $6 at Virginia avenue and Limerick court southwest. The men escaped in a car which had followed the cab, Morton told police.

ACCUSED POLICEMEN GO ON STAND TODAY

Hot Legal Tilts Foreseen as Clark and Bremerman Are Examined.

The high point of the trial of Policemen Hollis H. Clark and Charles R. Bremerman, who are accused of assault with a dangerous weapon on Thomas McKeever Williams in the Second Precinct station last June, will probably be reached today when the two officers take the stand in their own defense.

The appearance of Bremerman and Clark is expected to develop an acrimonious battle between James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, defense attorneys, on the one side, and William A. Gallagher and John R. Fitzpatrick, assistant United States attorneys, in charge of the prosecution.

An effort to expedite the trial, which is now going into the end of its second week, was seen yesterday when fourteen defense witnesses were put through the mill.

Among these witnesses were Private William C. Grooms, who last month was acquitted by a jury in the District Supreme Court of complicity in the beating of James Henry Harker, youthful baker's helper. In that same trial Detective James Mostyn and Private William R. Laflin were convicted of beating Harker and were sentenced to a year in jail and fined.

Other witnesses yesterday were Odessa Hunt, Philip W. Austin, Inspector O. T. Davis, Sergt. John Langley, Harry W. Britton, M. J. Mahaney, Richard T. McCarty, Conner H. Gould, Oliver Van Orman, Clyde M. Strange, Samuel Young, Sergt. J. L. Norris, James A. Hunt and Harold H. Hodge.

Deadline for Old Tags Is Sunday at Midnight

Midnight Sunday is the deadline for operation of automobiles in the District with 1931 tags, and approximately 23,000 motorists have not yet obtained their 1932 District tags, according to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer.

No further extension of time will be given for driving with the old tags, and those that do so after the deadline will be subject to arrest. The office will be closed Saturday at 1 o'clock but the clerks can issue the whole 23,000 between now and Saturday if the motorists apply for them, Mr. Van Duzer said, as facilities have been made to issue 3,000 or 4,000 tags daily until Saturday.

Victim of Squirrels' Antics Flooded With Relief Advice

Sympathizers flocked to the support of Mrs. Emma V. Heiss, of 3035 Newark street northwest, in her dilemma over the roguish squirrels that have taken over her home as a camping ground.

Suggestions to combat the forages of the pets have kept the phones ringing, as readers of The Post give their solutions to the squirrel menace, and tell of their own experiences with the animals.

The most entertaining of these suggestions came from an anonymous caller, who advocated a display of toy snakes in all of the windows and doors of the residence to frighten the pets back to their native haunts. This plan, the caller stated, would be both effectual and quite inexpensive.

Others, alarmed over the bushy-tailed animals' partiality to the tender buds of the trees, predicted a meager foliage this summer, if something is not done about the matter.

Metropolitan and park police, who were appealed to by the victims of prankish squirrels, have not been able to curb their activities, but residents of sections in or around the public parks are hopefully awaiting action.

Mysterious Raider Takes Nothing, But Drops $10

A $10 profit was netted by Mrs. John Van Domelen, of 537 Ninth street northeast, in a mysterious attempt to burglarize her home, she told police last night. Clews to the burglary were marks left by bare feet on a bedspread, she reported.

Mrs. Van Domelen said she returned home about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and found the place thoroughly ransacked. Outside of the bedspread, which will have to go to the wash, nothing appeared to be damaged, although the place was in disarray.

Inspection revealed that nothing was missing. While she was making a careful check, she found a $10 bill under the table in the front room, she told police.
